Hua Hin Bike Week 2010 revs up next Friday

■ HUA HIN, THAILAND

As many readers will have noticed, a plethora of posters has sprung up all over the town promoting this year's Hua Hin Bike Week, the sixth such event. Initial plans were to hold it at the airport this year, but a variety of reasons have led to it being held once again at the area known as '48 Rai' on the Canal Road.

The fun starts on Friday 3rd December and runs through officially to past midnight on Saturday 4th December.

Organisers are expecting in excess of five thousand people to attend, coming from all over Thailand, Asia and the world. Other than admiring the weird, wonderful and outrageous machines that will arrive, there is also a number of competitions, presentations and, the focal point of the festivities, some great music live on stage.

Bike Week is not just about having fun though, as the organisers are raising money for two causes; one is to provide two motorbikes for the local police (which will be formally presented on stage), and the other is for local students who have excelled but do not have the funds to go onto further studies. If you wish to donate please contact Khun Manu Siriake on 081 198 9621 or go to the Vampire Bar on Soi 68 (alongside the railway tracks north of the Chomsin Road crossing). Alternatively go to the website www.huahinbikeweek.com where there is more information.

This is always a great event for bikers and non-bikers alike, and a real boost for the area.

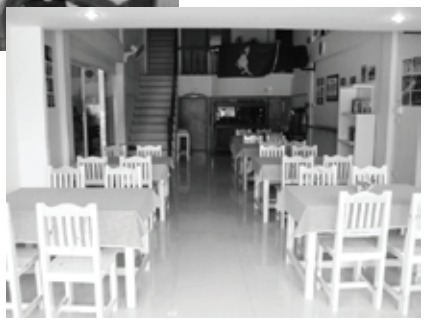
Pictured here you can see happy faces and full stomachs at the launch of Rumours, the new restaurant at The Beer O'Clock Club bar and guesthouse.



A launch party and a food tasting evening were enjoyed by all who attended, with particular highlights being the steaks and the spare ribs. As one attendee put it, "Great food, great value - you can't go wrong at Rumours when your stomach is at steak!"

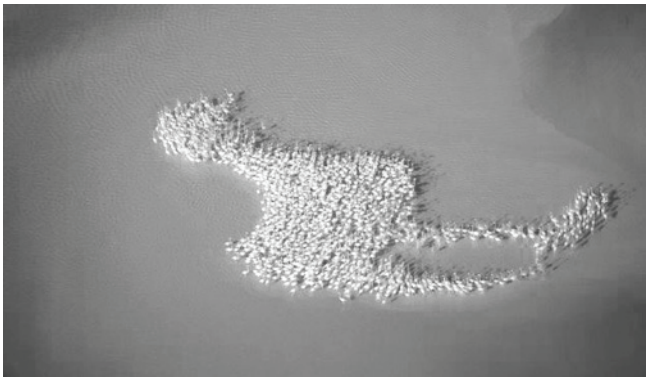
Flamingos gathered in the shape of a flamingo is 'holy grail' of pictures

A photographer in Mexico claims he captured a real 'bird's eye view' when a flock of flamingos gathered in this incredible shape.



Bobby Haas explained he had spent half an hour photographing the birds in their natural habitat from the air and was ready to head home. Yet just as the helicopter turned to leave he noticed the flamingos created an unusual formation.

Mr Haas said: 'I was just leaving when I noticed that the flock was moving into a shape resembling a flamingo. I told the pilot to whip around but go in slowly, since if you startle the flock they will splinter'.

His chance to snap the birds was fleeting and Haas only managed to take one picture. It wasn't until he developed it months later that the picture's true majesty became clear.

'It's the holy grail in photography when you capture an image you've never seen before and may never see again.'

■ GRIPPERIE-SAINT-SYMPHORIEN, FRANCE

French farmer fined for feeding ducks cannabis

A French farmer has had to face the beak for feeding his ducks cannabis. Michel Rouyer was arrested after police found 12 cannabis plants and around 5kg of the drug during a visit to his home in the village of Gripperie-Saint-Symphorien.

Mr Rouyer defended his actions, claiming he fed the birds marijuana to help rid them of worms. 'There's no better worming substance for them, a specialist advised me to do it,' the farmer said. His lawyer, Jean Piot, added: 'This is for real, not one [duck] has worms and they're all in excellent health.'

Police, however, said it was the first time the force had heard such a claim and Mr Rouyer was handed a one-month jail sentence and fined £428 (20,000 baht).

Do you wonder why we say certain things, or what they really mean? Each week we will examine a different word or phrase and tell you how it came about. This week it is.. Good riddance

An expression of pleasure on being rid of some annoyance - usually an individual.

'Riddance' is now so completely associated with this little phrase that it is rarely, if ever, seen out alone. The only sort of riddance on offer these days is a good one. It wasn't always thus. In the 16th century a riddance was a general-purpose noun and meant 'deliverance from' or 'getting rid of'. The first adjectives to be linked with the word were fayre/happy/gladsome and, in Shakespeare's Merchant of Venice, 1600, Portia wishes the Prince of Morocco 'a gentle riddance'.

A very early use of riddance comes in John Rastell's poem, Away Mourning, circa 1525:

I haue her lost, For all my cost,
Yet for all that I trowe I haue perchaunce,
A fayre ryddaunce, And am quyt of a shrew.

Shakespeare appears to be the coiner of 'good riddance', in Troilus and Cressida, 1606:

Thersites: I will see you hanged, like clotpoles, ere I come any more to your tents: I will keep where there is wit stirring and leave the faction of fools. [Exits]
Patroclus: A good riddance.

The phrase is often extended and emphasized as 'good riddance to bad rubbish' or, as that extended form was first coined, 'good riddance of bad rubbish'. Tobias Smollett used the phrase in a none too friendly comment, in The Critical Review, 1805: But we are sorry ... to consider Mr. Pratt's writings as 'purely evil' ... we should really look upon this author's departure from the world of literature as a good riddance of bad rubbish.

The American journalist and member of President Andrew Jackson's 'Kitchen Cabinet', Francis Preston Blair, wrote an editorial in The Extra Globe, 1841. In this he appears to have been the first to use the precise version of the phrase that is most commonly used now: [Following the withdrawal of members of a rival advisory group] From the bottom of our hearts we are disposed to exclaim "Good riddance to bad rubbish."

AN AUSSIE VIEW OF THE CREATION
(Thanks to David)

IN THE beginning, God created day and night. He created day for footy matches, going to the beach and having BBQ's. He created night for going prawning, sleeping and BBQ's. God saw that it was good.

On the second day, He created water – for surfing, swimming and BBQ's on the beach. God saw that it was good. On the third day God created the earth to bring forth plants to provide malt and yeast for beer and wood for BBQ's. On the fourth day God created animals and crustaceans for chops, sausages, steak and prawns to be eaten at BBQ's. And God saw that it was good.

On the fifth day God created a Bloke – to go to the footy, enjoy the beach, drink beer and eat the meat and prawns at BBQ's. God saw that it was good. On the sixth day God saw that his Bloke was lonely and needed someone to go to the footy, surf, drink beer, eat and stand around the BBQ with. So God created Mates, and God saw that they were Good Blokes.

On the seventh day God looked around at the twinkling barbie fires, heard the hiss of opening beer cans and the raucous laughter of all the Blokes. He smelled the aroma of grilled chops and sizzling prawns - and God saw that it good…well, almost. He saw that the Blokes were too tired to clean up and needed a rest.

So God created Sheilas – to clean the house, bear children, wash, cook and clean the BBQ. God saw that it was not just good; it was better than that – it was Bloody Awesome! MATE, IT WAS AUSTRALIAN!!

TWO BEAUTIFUL POEMS
(Thanks to Karl)

A WOMAN'S POEM:
Before I lay me down to sleep,
I pray for a man who's not a creep,
One who's handsome, smart and strong.
One who loves to listen long,
One who thinks before he speaks,
One who'll call, not wait for weeks.
I pray he's rich and self-employed,
And when I spend, won't be annoyed.
Pull out my chair and hold my hand.
Massage my feet and help me stand.
Oh send a king to make me queen.
A man who loves to cook and clean.
I pray this man will love no other.
And relish visits with my mother.

A MAN'S POEM:
I pray for a deaf-mute gymnast nymphomaniac with big tits who owns a bar on a golf course, and loves to send me fishing and drinking. This doesn't rhyme and I don't give a damn.

RUMOURS

Your STARS

Capricorn Dec 22 - Jan 19
Don't be ashamed to admit that you like cats, just be careful how you say it..

Aquarius Jan 20 – Feb 18
Romance will once again pass you by this week when the love of your life decides to go with a person who makes better mix-tapes.

Pisces Feb 19 – Mar 20
You will get a reasonably good deal on a necessary household item, which is frankly more than an asshole like you deserves.

Aries Mar 21 – Apr 20
After taxes, overheads, and legal fees, that million-dollar idea you've been working on for years will wind up costing you about 80,188.97 baht.

Taurus Apr 21 – May 21
You'll finally realize a dream you've had since childhood when a huge scary monster comes out from under your bed and eats you alive.

Gemini May 22 – June 21
Your recent crises of conscience are explained this week when you discover the angel on your right shoulder and the devil on your left have been sleeping together for about a year now.

Cancer Jun 22 – Jul 22
Next week won't be the best you've ever had, but it will advance medical understanding of genital implosion by leaps and bounds.

There's a curry in your future at
Soi 94 S & S INDIAN RESTAURANT
Curries from only 65 baht
Eat in or Takeaway 081 455 5298

Leo Jul 23 – Aug 22
A good friend will be a pillar of strength and support during a harrowing crisis. Show your appreciation by sending this person a note that says, "Thanks for your support."

Virgo Aug 23 – Sep 22
You'll continue to get away with your horrendous crimes against humanity without suffering consequences, although they will eventually get you for the tax evasion.

Libra Sep 23 – Oct 23
You won't be absolutely certain you like the changes in yourself— especially considering you'll appeal to a whole new group of people—after they make a 12-inch dance remix of you.

Scorpio Oct 24 – Nov 21
The stars say there's nothing wrong with being a belt-and-braces type, but you should probably reconsider being a leather-shorts-and-no-shirt type as well.

Sagittarius Nov 22 – Dec 21
The FDA will realize its mistake too late to prevent your death when it accidentally names you as part of a complete breakfast.

Fixtures and Predictions (all times Thailand)

Saturday, 27 November 2010

Aston Villa v Arsenal, 19:45

Villa will have been worried by the Gunner's first half performance last week, but relieved by their second half capitulation, and will think they can get something here. Wenger was clearly furious and will want a reaction. Draw.

Bolton v Blackpool, 15:00

Bolton are in great form and we can't see anything but a comfortable home win here.

Everton v West Brom, 15:00

Everton have been playing well without getting wins, but David Moyes will expect one here, and we think he will get it.

Fulham v Birmingham, 15:00

Fulham were taken apart last week and Mark Hughes will demand a better performance; we think it will be a draw.

Man Utd v Blackburn, 15:00

United were the real gainers in last week's matches and they will want to push on and make the most of it. Rovers are not a bad side and Pederson (below, with Salgado) is in great form but we predict a narrow win for the home side.

Stoke v Man City, 15:00

Tough game to call - both had great wins last week, and the Brittania Stadium is not an easy place to get a result, but City were on fire against Fulham. Draw.

West Ham v Wigan, 15:00

The hapless Hammers desperately need a win but are just plain awful at the moment. The big question is whether Grant can inspire them to perform better, but we don't think he can now. Away win.

Wolves v Sunderland, 15:00

This is likely to be a gritty hard fought affair but the onus on Wolves to win may be too much for them. Away win.

Sunday, 28 November 2010

Newcastle v Chelsea, 20:30

If there is ever a good time to play Chelsea, it must be now. The sacking of Wilkins appears to have affected the players and they are missing key players. Hard to believe but we think Newcastle will make it three losseson the bounce for the champions.

Tottenham v Liverpool, 23:00

This should be a classic given the players involved, and we can see it being a high scoring affair. (Probably 0-0 then given our recent predictions record!). Hard to pick a winner, but we'll plump for Spurs.

Explosive exclusive!
Spurs hedge their bets with possible bid for third arena...in Thailand

■ LONDON, ENGLAND

Not content with ruffling the feathers of the UK's athletics hierarchy and Olympic committee by their bid and proposal to rip apart the Olympic Stadium if awarded it, Tottenham Hotspurs have now been discovered to be negotiating a third option as an alternative to both their existing White Hart Lane redevelopment and the Olympic Stadium.

West Ham fans have been outraged by the apparent attempt by their London rivals to deny what appeared to be a foregone conclusion in their bid for the Olympic Stadium, but Spurs fans (well, most of them anyway) will be appalled at the thought of playing thier fixtures not only in a different borough but in a different country!

The venue that has caught their eye is the X-Plode Arena in Hua Hin, Thailand, after they were informed of its opening by the company behind it. Spurs officials have been in contact with them, and are understood to be exploring the possibilities, and whether Premier League, and Champions League rules will allow it.

Above: Olympic Stadium; Right:X-Plode Arena; Below: the New White Hart Lane

Objections have been raised by some West Ham fans to the Spurs Olympic Stadium bid on the grounds that Spurs would then be playing in the same locality as West Ham and have stated that there are Premier League rules which will not allow it, but it is not known if there is anything in the rules preventing a move abroad, a similar situation to when proposals were made to allow Celtic and Rangers to join the English leagues.

The X-Plode Arena is currently home to the Hua Hin Veterans and we spoke to their captain, Anthony, at their most recent match, against the Hua Hin Vikings, which ended

9-4 to the Vikings. He wasn't impressed with the idea of being kicked out of the recently completed stadium but did add that he would grudgingly depart as long as he could be the pre-match entertainer at the games held there.

He went on to say that he just wanted to focus on the next game and that he was knackered and needed a beer.

It must be said that the concept of the move seems to be absolute madness, but then again so does the proposal to move to the Olympic Stadium.
