AWOL

ABSENT WITHOUT LEAVE FOR THE EXPAT IN ALL OF US
What's happening, and might be happening, in and around Hua Hin

IT'S A NICE DAY FOR A...

ROYAL WEDDING?

■ HUA HIN THAILAND

The town was likely to have come to a grinding halt at 4.30pm today as thousands of Thai and expat residents were expected to be fixated by the Royal Wedding between HRH Prince William and Kate Middleton being shown live on television. It is even possible that the copy of AWOL you are holding in your hand would have been delivered late as policemen vacated their traffic duties and left the lights on red so they could view the fairytale wedding.

Several expat venues have arranged special parties to celebrate the day, with The Lord Webb in Khao Takiab the most prominent with its noble connections, and the most obvious place for proud British citizens to go. While the event is a public holiday in the UK, it is not in Thailand but may be treated like one by many. As it is, there is a public holiday with Royal connections next Thursday (5th May) which is Coronation Day (see 'No AWOL Next Week' story on page 2 for more details).

Thailand was due to be represented at the wedding by Her Royal Highness Princess Maha Chakri Sirindhorn, although at press time there was no official confirmation that she would be attending.

HOT PROPERTY OFFICE HOSTS IT'S LAST COMEDY NIGHT

■ HUA HIN THAILAND

We are sad to report that the Punchline Comedy Club at the Hot Property main office in Hua Hin has had it's last laugh; the show last Thursday (21st April) was the last to grace that particular stage, and efforts are being made to find an alternative venue.

This last show was untypical in that the audience was smaller than usual, but this did not spoil the night nor deter the three performers. First up was David Morgan, performing MC duties, and his fresh faced, overtly gay act softened the audience up in a very gentle way, and was in stark contrast to Vladimir McTavish, whose act was like a homage to the old drunk found in most pubs in Glasgow. His self deprecating introduction about his passing resemblance to Rod Stewart led on to a series of witty observational jokes punctuated by profanity and laughter. Some of his work can be seen online, and it is clear that it is a very well rehearsed routine.

David Morgan returned in his irrepressible way to then introduce Dan Evans, who got more involved with the small (but perfectly formed) crowd. Dan's act appeared more off the cuff than the others, but no doubt this is also a well rehearsed performance. All of the acts did well and it was another enjoyable night, evidenced by how quickly it seemed to go by, and once again it would be good to be able to see more of these acts. Hopefully a new venue will be found, or offered, and the shows will go on.

NO AWOL NEXT WEEK

■ HUA HIN THAILAND

Next Thursday 5th May is Coronation Day in Thailand, a public holiday that celebrates the day in 1950 His Majesty King Bhumibol Adulyadej was crowned as Rama IX, the 9th king of the Chakri dynasty.

The company that prints AWOL is thus closed on both Thursday 5th and Friday 6th May, meaning that there will not be an AWOL next week. We will return, refreshed and reinvigoured with an issue on Friday 13th May. All advertisers who were meant to be in the 6th May issue will have their campaigns extended by a week to compensate.

For our readers, if you feel the need to go AWOL next week, why not visit our forum? It's free to join and if you have a Facebook account you can use that to join and log in with - it couldn't be simpler! You can also check out all the issues of AWOL ever produced through our website at www.awolonline.net (click on Downloads>AWOL>Back Issues).

SPONSORED BY RETURN BAR - WHERE YOU WILL WANT TO COME AGAIN AND AGAIN

Return Bar is one of only a few bars in Hua Hin that has a full size (9 feet) pool table, as well as a more standard size table for the pool hackers amongst us! They have a team entered in the Hua Hin Pool Billiards League which plays every Friday (see page 28 for current standings, results and fixtures) and new players are always welcome.

Open every day from late afternoon, Return Bar is a great place to relax away from the hassles of the town centre, and somewhere you will come again and again!

■ Do you wonder why we say certain things, or what they really mean? Each week we will examine a different word or phrase and tell you how it came about.

This week it is.. Grass up
Inform on someone to the police.
In 2005, British newspapers picked up on a story about a burglar who had stolen cash, jewellery and an African Grey parrot from a house near Hungerford, Berkshire. David Carlile, widely described in the press as 'feather-brained', explained to the police that he knew that African Greys could talk and he didn't want the bird to 'grass him up'. Presumably, had the parrot been a Norwegian Blue, he would have left it to pine for the fiords.
'Grassing up' has been a commonly used expression in the UK since the mid 20th century, but is less common elsewhere. The first known use of 'grass' in that context is Arthur Gardner's Tinker's Kitchen, 1932, which defined a grass as "an informer". Grass was a well-enough established word in the 1980s to have spawned 'supergrass', i.e. a republican sympathiser who later 'turned Queen's evidence' and informed on the IRA, and which gave the Brit-pop band Supergrass their name in the 1990s.
Informers are variously known as squealers, noses, moles, snouts and stool pigeons. These terms invoke imagery of covert snooping around and of talking. Grass is less intuitive. It could just have arisen from 'snake in the grass', which derives from the writings of Virgil (in Latin, as 'latet anguis in herba') and has been known in English, meaning traitor, since the late 17th century.
There is another route to the word and this is via rhyming slang. Farmer and Henley's 1893 Dictionary of Slang defines 'grasshopper' as 'copper', i.e. policeman. The theory is that a 'grass' is someone who works for the police and so has become a surrogate 'copper'. The rhyming slang link was certainly believed in 1950 by the lexicographer Paul Tempest, when he wrote Lag's lexicon: a comprehensive dictionary and encyclopaedia of the English prison to-day:
"Grasser. One who gives information. A 'squealer' or 'squeaker'. The origin derives from rhyming slang: grasshopper - copper; a 'grass' or 'grasser' tells the 'copper' or policeman."
That comes only a few years after the term grass was coined and there seems little reason to doubt it as the derivation. The original users of the term 'grass up' were from the London underworld and would have certainly been better acquainted with rhyming slang than the works of Virgil.
Some have also theorised that the term 'shop', meaning 'give information that leads to an arrest', derives from the same source, i.e. that, as 'grass' derives from 'grasshopper', then so does 'shopper'. The earliest known use of shop in that context dates from around the same time as the emergence of grasshopper. The issue of the magazine Tit-Bits for May, 1899 includes:
"[He] volunteered for a fiver to 'shop' his pals."
As far as we know, African Greys don't go shopping.

Is there an English expression or phrase that you would like to find out more about? Or have you got an interesting phrase or saying that you know the origins of and would like to share in this section?

Write to us and tell us about it, and we will include it in English Corner.

■ A SHORT HISTORY OF MEDICINE have an earache...

2000 B.C. - Here, eat this root.

1000 A.D. - That root is heathen. Here, say this prayer.

1850 A.D. - That prayer is superstition. Here, drink this potion.

1940 A.D. - That potion is snake oil. Here, swallow this pill.

1985 A.D. - That pill is ineffective. Here, take this antibiotic.

2000 A.D. - That antibiotic is artificial. Here, eat this root.

■ THE COW A town in Poland had only one cow and it stopped giving milk. The townspeople did a little research and discovered they could get a cow from Moscow for 2000 rubles - or one from Minsk for only 1000 rubles. So, naturally, --- they got the cow from Minsk.
It was a great cow: had a wonderful disposition, and gave lots of milk and lots of cream. Everybody loved it dearly. The people decided they would mate the cow and get more cows like it, and then they would never have to worry about their milk supply again.
So they got a bull and led the cow and the bull into the pasture. When the bull came in from the right to mount the cow, the cow moved to the left. When the bull moved in to mount the cow from the left, the cow moved to the right. This went on all day.
Finally, in desperation, the people decided to go ask the rabbi what to do. After all he was very wise.
They told him the story. "Rabbi, we've tried all day to mate our cow. When the bull moves in from the right the cow moves left and when the bull moves in from the left the cow moves to the right. What do we do?"
The Rabbi thought a moment and asked, "Did you buy this cow from Minsk?"
"Rabbi!" they replied as one, "You are so wise! We never said we bought the cow from Minsk. How did you know that?"
The Rabbi said, sadly, "My wife is from Minsk."

■ SCIENTISTS DECODE THE FIRST MESSAGE FROM AN ALIEN CIVILIZATION...
Simply send 6 x 10^50 atoms of hydrogen to the star system at the top of the list, cross off that star system, then put your star system at the bottom of the list and send it to 100 other star systems. Within one-tenth of a galactic rotation you will receive enough hydrogen to power your civilization until entropy reaches its maximum! IT REALLY WORKS!

CAPRICORN DEC 22 - JAN 19

Authorities acknowledge that yes, technically you went on a tri-nation killing spree, but since you did it in the Golden Triangle, it actually makes you look lazy.

AQUARIUS JAN 20 – FEB 18

When the stars told you this was a good time to start new projects at work, they certainly didn't expect you to put Vaseline on the stairs and then pull the fire alarm.

PISCES FEB 19 – MAR 20

Thanks to the events of this week, when people think "fish sticks," they'll think of you. Then they'll throw up, especially if they're eating fish sticks.

ARIES MAR 21 – APR 20

You refuse to buy into society's petty, narrow-minded definitions of good and evil, or at least that's what you tell people when they notice you're a lousy tipper.

TAURUS APR 21 – MAY 21

You'll be doing a lot of travelling in the near future due to your inability to dribble a basketball effectively.

GEMINI MAY 22 – JUNE 21

When all's said and done, you've loved and been loved in return, and no one can take that away from you. However, they can make sure you don't get paid for it.

CANCER JUN 22 – JUL 22

There will come times in life when you find it impossible to tell the dancer from the dance. Be advised the person is the dancer and the dance is the series of motions being made.

LEO JUL 23 – AUG 22

Your true goal continues to elude you when you succeed in breeding pandas to a mailbox, a surprised cat, and a traumatized lab assistant.

VIRGO AUG 23 – SEP 22

While "To thine own self be true" is wise advice, it was intended for someone whose own self didn't sit on the couch eating beef jerky and watching car-auction shows.

LIBRA SEP 23 – OCT 23

You'll experience a slight setback when events beyond your control force you to repeat age 8 all over again, which actually isn't half bad.

SCORPIO OCT 24 – NOV 21

You've always detested clichés, tired old jokes, and easy irony, which are three more reasons why you're going to hate being killed by a falling safe.

SAGITTARIUS NOV 22 – DEC 21

They say a good friend will bail you out of jail but a best friend will share your cell. With that in mind, your best friend will stab you with a sharpened toothbrush this week.

■ HONG KONG, CHINA Hong Kong Airlines cabin crew get kung fu training

It may not be an idea that'll take off everywhere – but Hong Kong Airlines has introduced kung fu lessons for its cabin crews and it's proved a soaraway success.

Tutoring in wing chun martial arts – which is close-range combat involving striking and grappling - has become mandatory so that staff can give bad behaviour the chop, Bruce Lee style.

New recruit Lumpy Tang, 22, said she never imagined it would be part of the job.

'We were surprised in the beginning, but after a few lessons we really liked wing chun,' Tang told the Sunday Morning Post.

The practice may seem strange to some, but the airline points out that it has to deal with around three incidents involving disruptive passengers every week, according to Eva Chan, the carrier's deputy general manager of corporate communication.

Two weeks ago a crew member used her new-found fitness on a flight from Beijing to Hong Kong.

'One of the passengers was sick but he was probably drunk and felt unwell. The crew member attended to him and she realised her fitness was helping her, especially because the guy was quite heavy,' Chan told the newspaper.

'Normally, a female cabin crew can't handle a fat guy, especially if he's drunk, but because of the training, she can handle it quite easily.'

Tang added that the speed of the combat they're learning gives them a definite edge over troublemakers.

'You cannot predict what will happen on the plane, so wing chun is good because it's so fast,' she said. 'I feel safer because I can defend myself and I'm really happy to be one of the first cabin crew to learn wing chun in the world.'

Wing chun instructor Katherine Cheung said the martial art was ideal for airline crews.

'Wing chun can be used in small, confined spaces so it's suited for an airplane,' she said. 'It's easy to learn but difficult to master.'

with

A.N.D.Y Plastering Services

At last there is a plastering company in town working to UK specifications and using UK materials and specialised plastering tools.

OUR SERVICES

- Skim coat plastering using British Gypsum Plaster "Thistle Multi Finish" - This versatile final coat plaster provides good results on all suction backgrounds, and is therefore the best choice for plastering where both sand and cement undercoats and board backgrounds are concerned.
- Crack prevention – With over 10 years experience within the plastering trade we offer the best possible advice and solutions to prevent cracking of render work, much seen within both new builds and old.
- Re-skim work – Are your walls laced with patchwork render? Are they uneven? Can you shine a light down the wall without seeing defects? Are they an eyesore to your dream home? The product and team will banish all these thoughts from your mind.
- Artexing - We offer an extensive range of patterns with artexing that can be used on ceilings, on a feature wall or simply wherever you want it. Please contact us for a variety of choices.
- Angle beading - Easy to use and twice as quick and cost effective when it comes down to beading out your home and creating the perfect corner whether it is new builds or re-skim work.

TOOLS

We use top of the range trowels and hawks from Marshall Town offering an extra smooth finish.

FIXTURES AND PREDICTIONS

(all times Thailand)
SATURDAY, 30 APRIL 2011
Blackburn v Bolton, 21:00
Local derby, crucial for Rovers - draw.
Blackpool v Stoke, 21:00
An in form Stoke against an out of form Blackpool means only one thing - away win.
Sunderland v Fulham, 21:00
Not many goals here and we think a draw.
West Brom v Aston Villa, 21:00
Another local derby but with both clubs pretty safe thats all there is to play for - draw.
Wigan v Everton, 21:00
Both teams need the win and we think Everton will cruise to it.
Chelsea v Tottenham, 23:30
Bit of a theme emerging here - local derby vital for both. An unsatisfying draw.

SUNDAY, 1 MAY 2011
Birmingham v Wolverhampton, 18:00
The theme continues - crucial local derby particularly for Wolves. Draw.
Liverpool v Newcastle, 18:00
Dalglish's men have really hit form now and we can't see anything other than a home win.
Arsenal v Man Utd, 20:05
Neither team are at their best but United are doing what is necessary, a trait that Arsenal lack. Draw.
Man City v West Ham, 22:10
Both teams need points but it is all looking a bit desperate for the Hammers now; home win.

SATURDAY, 7 MAY 2011
Aston Villa v Wigan, 21:00
Villa are safe so we expect them to turn it on here; home win.
Bolton v Sunderland, 21:00
With no first team strikers available the away side will struggle; home win.
Everton v Man City, 21:00
Everton will still have hopes of climbing higher and we think they can grab a win here.
Newcastle v Birmingham, 21:00
The Blues really aren't that good despite their Cup win and Newcastle should pick them off; home win.
West Ham v Blackburn, 21:00
The Hammers must win this to have any hope of survival and Rovers need a win too. Lots of goals and a nail biting home win.
Tottenham v Blackpool, 23:30
Spurs have not done very well against relegation strugglers but we think they can destroy Blackpool in this one.

SUNDAY, 8 MAY 2011
Wolverhampton v West Brom, 18:00
Yet another Midlands derby for Wolves and one they must win. They won't - away win.

Stoke v Arsenal, 20:05
The gunners don't like games like this, and they won't like this one - home win.
Man Utd v Chelsea, 22:10
Being billed as the title decider and a win for United, assuming our earlier predictions are right, will hand them the trophy. Home win.

TUESDAY, 10 MAY 2011
Fulham v Liverpool, 02:00
The Reds will want to put pressure on Spurs and we think they will with an away win.

WEDNESDAY, 11 MAY 2011
Man City v Tottenham, 01:45
Neither team are playing very well now and in a gaggle of draw predictions we think this is another one.

KEEPING IT REAL

SERGIO RAMOS FAVOURITE FOR ARSENAL GOALKEEPING POSITION

■ LONDON, ENGLAND

After dropping an expensive trophy from the top of an open-top bus, Real Madrid defender Sergio Ramos has been installed as bookmakers favourite to be the new Arsenal goalkeeper.

The exquisite handling demonstrated by Ramos is sure to make him a hit at the Emirates stadium, where fans have been treated to some of the most outstanding handling errors in recent memory.

Former Arsenal goalkeeper David Seaman told reporters, "Sure, he's an attacking fullback by trade, but with that sort of handling he certainly wouldn't look out of place behind an Arsenal back four."

"What you have to remember is that the Arsenal fans have come to expect the unexpected from their goalkeepers, going back to me being lobbed from halfway by Nayim, to Szczesny throwing the ball at the feet of Obefemi Martins in the final minute of the league cup final."

Ramos made a concerted effort to ensure that Barcelona never get their hands on the Copa Del Rey again

"And what could be more unexpected than throwing your new trophy in front of a bus. It was exceptional."

Ramos himself has been quick to distance himself from a move to the Emirates. He told Spanish television, "I am flattered that Arsenal think I can improve their defence, but I see myself further upfield, making mistakes with my feet rather than my hands."

"I don't think what I did was anything special, and I'm sure if you'd stuck Jens Lehman on top of a bus with a trophy in his hands he'd have done exactly the same."

WENGER CELEBRATES AESTHETIC QUALITIES OF THE NUMBER THREE

■ LONDON, ENGLAND

ARSENE Wenger has said he has always admired the voluptuous curves of the phrase '3rd place'. Speaking after his team's loss to Northern cloggers Bolton, which followed a performance against Tottenham that football biologists have reclassified as a form of jellyfish, the Arsenal buffoon-wrangler compared sport's obsession with number one with the fashion for size-zero models.

Wenger said: "Mr Ferguson may enjoy the soulless, sexless lines of the number one but for me the callypygian contours of a '3' are much more intriguing. So two of them in a scoreline is very pleasing for me.

"And if we can persevere with the likes of Eboue, Djourou and Clichy, we can even come to know the forbidden delights of a round, juicy 8th place."

Arsenal's inability to hold on to a lead has been criticised this season but Wenger insisted that the order of the scoreline in the Spurs match was a tribute to the time signatures used in John Cale's 1973 song cycle Underachievement In C Minor.

He has also claimed that his selection of goalkeepers reflected his love of the work of Jacques Tati and that Nicklas Bendtner has borrowed heavily from the Absurdist writings of his fellow countryman Kierkegaard when claiming to be one of the best strikers in the world.

Footballologist Wayne Hayes said: "Arsene has always traded on his professorial, intellectual image and as a result, he's managing his team in an incomprehensibly awful way that has your Nick Hornby-style Arsenal fan saying it's brilliant for fear of sounding like a working class twonk." But club chairman Peter Hill-Wood said: "I suspect Arsene is now about three weeks away from pondering the stark, brutalist contrast between the Rubenesque roundness of the letter 'P' and the Picasso-like angularity of the numbers '4' and '5'."
