BYE BYE BAZAAR?

LATE NIGHT NIGHTLIFE AREA
UNDER THREAT OF CLOSURE

■ HUA HIN THAILAND

Regular readers of AWOL will be aware that there appear to be moves planned to change the central nightlife areas of the town, although whether these are driven by business or other forces is as yet unclear. One area that has been apparently earmarked in this process for some time is what is known as the Hua Hin Bazaar. For those unfamiliar with it, it is a pedestrianised area that runs between and behind Naresdamri and Damnoernkasem Roads, bookended by the Hilton and Sofitel Resorts. It used to be widely known as a late night karaoke area, but in the past few years it has changed, and while it is still a late night hang out, there is a mixture of bars, small clubs, food outlets and now remaining just two karaokes.

The improvements made were largely in response to requests made by the body controlling the land, who the businesses there pay rent to; the land has for a long time been owned by the railway, but was leased out, and that lease has recently changed hands according to Thai newspaper reports. This change has apparently placed the area under threat of redevelopment, and on the 20th May the businesses in the area held a meeting to see how they could either prevent or delay any potential redevelopment, and their campaign has begun with a letter outlining their position, and pointing out that they have greatly improved the area and are reliable tenants.

For any resident or visitor who has discovered this area, it is normally lively and fun, with some very long established characters, both Thai and farang, involved in the businesses there. It would be a great shame if this area was bulldozed, as it has become part of the unique appeal of the town. We wish the businesses there every success in their attempts to stay put.

UK PASSPORT
RENEWALS

■ HUA HIN THAILAND

As most of you are aware our passports are now renewed in Hong Kong and the system seems to be working well. It usually takes up to three weeks from applying to receiving your new passport. You need to renew your passport when you get down to the last two unused pages and not wait for it to fill up as Thai Immigration will not allow you to leave the country, renew your visa or do a 90 day report. So you need to apply for a new passport when your visa is still valid with at least a few months to go and you have done your 90 day report. We in Thailand are except from sending our old passport to Hong Kong as it is the law here that we must have them with us at all times, so a photocopy will suffice. On receipt of the new passport you then have to go to Thai Immigration for the transfer of your visa, TM Card and 90 day report certificate. You can download the passport application forms from the web or contact me and I will provide you with one, also if you require assistance in completing the form then I will help.

I can be contacted by phone on 086 7933461 or by e mail steve@ketteringham.com

Return Bar is one of only a few bars in Hua Hin that has a full size (9 feet) pool table, as well as a more standard size table for the pool hackers amongst us! They have a team entered in the Hua Hin Pool Billiards League which plays every Friday (see page 24 for current standings, results and fixtures) and new players are always welcome. Open every day from late afternoon, Return Bar is a great place to relax away from the hassles of the town centre, and somewhere you will find yourself coming again and again!

■ Do you wonder why we say certain things, or what they really mean? Each week we will examine a different word or phrase and tell you how it came about.

This week it is.. Face the music

Accept the unpleasant consequences of one's actions. The phrase 'face the music' has an agreeable imagery. We feel that we can picture who was facing what and what music was playing at the time. Regrettably, the documentary records don't point to any clear source for the phrase and we are, as so often, at the mercy of plausible speculation. There was, of course, a definitive and unique origin for the expression 'face the music' and whoever coined it was quite certain of the circumstances and the music being referred to. Let's hope at least that one of the following suggestions is the correct one, even though there is no clear evidence to prove it.

A commonly repeated assertion is that 'face the music' originated from the tradition of disgraced officers being 'drummed out' of their regiment. A second popular theory is that it was actors who 'faced the music', i.e. faced the orchestra pit, when they went on stage. A third theory, less likely but quite interesting none the less, relates to the old UK practice of West Gallery singing. This was singing, literally from the west galleries of English churches, by the common peasantry who weren't allowed to sit in the higher status parts of the church. The theory was that the nobility were obliged to listen to the vernacular songs of the parishioners, often with lyrics that were critical of the ways of the gentry. It may help to pinpoint the origin to know that the phrase appears to be mid 19th American in origin. The earliest citation found for the phrase is from The New Hampshire Statesman & State Journal, August 1834: "Will the editor of the Courier explain this black affair. We want no equivocation - 'face the music' this time." Almost all other early citations are American. Sadly, none of them give the slightest clue as to the source, or reason for, the music being faced.

CAPRICORN DEC 22 - JAN 19

This is an excellent time for romance in the workplace, leaving you wishing you hadn't signed that pesky form saying you wouldn't have any.

AQUARIUS JAN 20 - FEB 18

You'll experience a sense of bone-deep certainty that you have not lived in vain now that "lying down on top of things" has actually become a fad.

PISCES FEB 19 - MAR 20

You'll build a better mousetrap, all right, but your mousetrap will be so terrifyingly good that people will avoid beating a path to your door for the sake of their own mortal souls.

ARIES MAR 21 - APR 20

Sometimes words are simply not enough to express how someone is feeling, which is why people keep insisting on defecating on your doorstep.

TAURUS APR 21 - MAY 21

Your quest to become the World's Greatest Lover will be derailed as you continue only meeting people who think you'd be a really great parent.

GEMINI MAY 22 - JUNE 21

Your old solution isn't going to work on your new problem. Try drinking twice as much of it.

CANCER JUN 22 - JUL 22

You've often said you'd like a word with whoever is responsible for all the bullshit, leaving you conflicted when you're promoted to manager of all the bullshit.

LEO JUL 23 - AUG 22

It will be nothing short of inspiring to see how quickly the community mobilizes once your profile goes up on the dating sites.

VIRGO AUG 23 - SEP 22

You'll narrowly avoid an unlikely set of circumstances that almost sees you married to a horse, but you'll still be joined in matrimony to the two guys who were in the horse suit.

LIBRA SEP 23 - OCT 23

Although you'll admit you enjoy the new Doctor Who, you resent being referred to as "the kind of person who likes the new Doctor Who."

SCORPIO OCT 24 - NOV 21

The attention will be nice and all, but until Thursday you'll have no idea there is a world record for Amount of Crap Put Up with in a Lifetime.

SAGITTARIUS NOV 22 - DEC 21

Your inability to be spontaneous is well known, which will leave people struggling to put a name to what happens when you combust without warning next Wednesday.

■ BERLIN, GERMANY Female flasher escaping arrest as police can't tell if she's aroused or not. Voyeuristic Berlin flasher Annette Kaiser, who comes and goes in the blink of an eye, is flaunting a loophole in the law which says she can't be prosecuted for her 'crime' unless she gets turned on in the act. Police are at a loss as to how they can prosecute 34-year-old Kaiser because, in Germany, simply flashing some flesh isn't a crime - authorities must prove the perpetrator is sexually aroused. Officers say that catching men is easy because it's pretty obvious if they're excited. Women, though, are different, the German police cleverly observed. 'If a man drops his trousers, it is easy to see he is excited, but with a woman that is not possible,' a spokesman explained. Naughty Miss Kaiser says she'll continue to swan around in the nude because she likes the feeling of freedom. 'I like to show off my body. I give men an eyeful and then I'm quickly gone,' she added.

■ HO CHI MINH CITY, VIETNAM Snakes under train seat in Vietnam prompt passengers to flee in terror. Panicked passengers on a Vietnam train fled in terror after a guard spotted four sacks of venomous snakes under a train seat. While the exact number of snakes was unclear, the bags reportedly weighed around 45kg and contained dangerous king cobras, capable of killing a fully-grown adult in just 30 minutes. The discovery was made on a train from Ho Chi Minh City bound for Hanoi, although whether the reptiles would have posed any threat to passengers is in doubt as their mouths were sewn shut.

Despite this, hundreds of passengers are believed to have fled from the carriage after the threat became apparent. It is thought the owner of the bags escaped in the ensuing fray. Not everyone ran away though, according to passenger Pham Van An. In an interview with Sky, he said: 'Some of the snakes were very big, and looked terrifying. Most people ran away. But some people went to look at them and the cobras rose up.'

Cobras and king cobras are a protected species under Vietnam law and were returned to the wild after being removed from the train by police.

SCHOLES CALLS TIME ON LEARNING HOW TO TACKLE

■ MANCHESTER, ENGLAND

Manchester United midfielder Paul Scholes has responded to speculation about his future by finally calling time on his seventeen-year quest to learn how to tackle.

The 36 year-old had been expected to sign a one-year contract extension in the hope of finally perfecting the art of removing a football from the possession of another player without kicking them in the groin.

However, it seems he has finally admitted defeat and decided to hang up his boots before they become accidentally embedded in the chest of one of his opponents.

Scholes told reporters, "It wasn't an easy decision, but one I came to with the help of my family, and the support of Manchester United. We agreed that if, at thirty-six years of age, I haven't found a way of safely tackling my opponents, then I probably never will."

"I think back with fondness to the 19 year-old who made his debut,

BEST GINGER PLAYER EVER RETIRES

Scholes (left) to spend more time out of the sun confident that 'tackling' was something that would come with experience. Oh how little I knew."

Manchester United fans have reacted with sadness at the news, claiming that the Paul Scholes cameo has been a highlight at Old Trafford over the last few years.

"It was always terribly exciting, wondering when exactly he'd scythe down an opponent before springing to his feet to point at a ball that definitely hadn't changed direction in the slightest."

"The 'needless Paul Scholes booking' has become as much a part of Manchester United folklore as Ferguson's time-keeping and referee intimidation."

BLATTER 'WHITER THAN WHITE' SAYS FIFA PRESIDENT

■ ZURICH, SWITZERLAND

Football's governing body FIFA has completely exonerated president Sepp Blatter of any misdemeanours after a meeting of its ethics committee on Sunday.

Chairman of the ethics committee tasked to investigate allegations of financial incentives, Mr Sepp Blatter, announced their decision saying: "We are satisfied that there is no case to be answered by our esteemed president and he can walk away from these outlandish lies without a stain on his reputation nor, indeed, his trousers."

The impromptu three-man ethics committee consisted of Mr Blatter and the FIFA representatives of Russia and Qatar.

"After a thorough and intensive investigation into the scurrilous accusations over drinks last night the committee concluded that Mr Blatter is whiter than white" said Mr Blatter.

Blatter also confirmed that Wednesday's election for the Fifa presidency would still go ahead despite the committee finding that his only opponent for the post, Mohamed Bin Hammam, who Mr Blatter described as 'blacker than black', did have a case to answer in the corruption charges and has withdrawn his candidacy.

"We are satisfied that there is a case to be dealt with, which, when we find the key we're sure will contain several million roubles in used notes." beamed Mr Blatter.
