THE ELEPHANTS' PLAYGROUND

ELEPHANT POLO RETURNS AMID APPEALS FOR DONATIONS TO LOCAL FOUNDATION

■ HUA HIN, THAILAND

The eyes of many will be on the tenth King's Cup Elephant Polo tournament returning to Hua Hin at the Anantara Resort next week (5th to 11th September) and a lot of jumbo fun it will be. However, some other elephants are in much need of attention too, and this was illustrated recently by an appeal for donations by the Hutsadin Elephant Foundation, who are looking to buy land adjacent to their existing location so that the Elephants in their care can have a lot more freedom.

They are also looking to buy more of these beautiful beasts and have just completed the purchase of Songkran, a three year old female, with the very generous help of KVIK, the Danish Kitchen company based in Hua Hin & Bangkok, as well as the Vimolnoch family & friends, the Deleuran family & Michael Chompookas, Replica Design, Oriental Invest and many others. There is a further Elephant they would like to buy, who is lame and possibly ill; she is unable to work any more, but the owner wants in excess of 450,000 baht for her, and of course there are still two or three Elephants being taken round the town and surrounding areas begging. This practice, as AWOL has reported in the past, is illegal and could incur a hefty fine for the tourist who is caught feeding them.

In addition to the above, the Foundation always needs monies to help with the feeding and looking after of the Elephants, the cost of which is around 50,000 baht per year per Elephant plus all the Vets fees, and more covered areas are required for shade. For further information on how you can contribute or volunteer please contact the numbers shown in the Foundations advert on page 26, or Robert Webb at The Lord Webb, email lord_webb@hotmail.com, mobile 08954-88003.

Return Bar is one of only a few bars in Hua Hin that has a full size (9 feet) pool table, as well as a more standard size table for the pool hackers amongst us!

They have a team entered in the Hua Hin Pool Billiards League which plays every Friday (see page 24 for current standings, results and fixtures) and new players are always welcome. Open every day from late afternoon, Return Bar is a great place to relax away from the hassles of the town centre, and somewhere you will find yourself coming again and again!

■ Do you wonder why we say certain things, or what they really mean? Each week we will examine a different word or phrase and tell you how it came about.

This week it is.. Purple patch

An overly elaborate or effusive piece of writing. Also, a period of notable success or good luck.

'Purple patches', which are also sometimes called 'purple passages' or 'purple prose', were originally a figurative reference to florid literary passages, added to a text for dramatic effect. They were the literary equivalent of adding a patch of purple material to an otherwise undecorated garment. Purple was chosen because, as well as being a distinctive colour, it was the colour reserved for emperors and other distinguished statesmen in imperial Rome. Most of the early references to 'purple patches' contain clear evidence of classical origins, many of them including Latin text.

The first person that can be identified as having used 'purple patch' in print in English was no less an author than Elizabeth I. In 1598, Queen Elizabeth translated Horace's Latin text De Arte Poetica and this was published in 1899 as part of Queen Elizabeth's Englishings:

Oft to beginnings graue and shewes of great is sowed A purple pace, one or more for vewe.

[Note: 'Purple pace' was the translation of the original 'purpureus pannus'. 'Pace' meant 'passage'.]

Many works of art and scholarship that are listed as the creation of various English monarchs weren't actually their own work, the attributions being merely a form of flattery. However, Elizabeth benefited from the Tudor notion that aristocratic women were suitable recipients of formal education and her mother, Anne Boleyn, made sure that "she wolde endewe her with the knowlege of all tounge, as Hebrue, Greeke, Latyne, Italian, Spanishe, Frenche" [and, judging by Elizabeth's signature, caligraphy]. The queen became a noted Latin scholar and we can be assured that the translation (and wouldn't it be nice if we still used the Tudor word 'Englissing' for translations into English?) was by her own hand.

The term 'purple patch' wasn't much used again until the 18th century, at which time literary critics valued evenness of pace and style in literary works. Unevenly written texts were singled out for censure and 'purple patch' was the ideal label for a passage that stood out as overly florid. This idea was expressed forcibly in the 1704 book of literary criticism The True Tom Double:

All a Man writes should be proportion'd Even and of a piece; and one Part of the Work should not so far out-shine, as to Obscure and Darken the Other. The Purple Patches he claps upon his Course Style, make it seem much Courser than it is.

It wasn't until the 20th century that 'purple patches' were used in relation to anything other than writing. The term then came to mean 'a period of good fortune or creativity'. An early example is cited in the newspaper The Westminster Budget, October 1900:

True, it is hardly to be counted a purple patch of history, but a man must surely blame himself if he does not find something epic in the struggle. [of the common people]

Purple patches took a turn back from the figurative to the literal in the 1960s when hippies took to wearing purple velvet and patching jeans with it. 'Hendrix purple' is now a recognised shade of dye in the fashion industry.

CAPRICORN DEC 22 - JAN 19

 While you might have been able to forgive her for walking out on you, your hatred of ska music is such that you'll never be able to forgive her for skanking out on you.

AQUARIUS JAN 20 - FEB 18

 You've given up tilting at windmills once and for all, pragmatically deciding to dispatch them with much more sensible grenades instead of that horseback-lance setup.

PISCES FEB 19 - MAR 20

 Uncontrollable spasms will cause you to accidentally scrawl across many of your important meeting notes this week, proving conclusively that orgasms are simply not worth the trouble.

ARIES MAR 21 - APR 20

 Your dealings with the dark powers will be jeopardized when even they are a little freaked out by how eager you are to behead all those chickens.

TAURUS APR 21 - MAY 21

 You will be transfixed by the realisation that human lives are as unique as a snowflakes, and just as indistinguishable from one another when viewed from the proper distance.

GEMINI MAY 22 - JUNE 21

 You'll soon grow dependent on drugs just to make it through the day, but unfortunately it's because of cancer and not anything fun or interesting like addiction.

CANCER JUN 22 - JUL 22

 Your death next week will come as a complete surprise, but appropriately enough, not for the reasons you might expect.

LEO JUL 23 - AUG 22

 You always thought that when the giant robots began to arrive they'd be your friends, but hey, live and learn.

VIRGO AUG 23 - SEP 22

 You've always been afraid to try new things, which is fortunate, as a whole bunch of new things will go around killing people who try them this week.

LIBRA SEP 23 - OCT 23

 Your pessimism and negativity are usually misplaced, but they'll be perfectly appropriate when your elevator plunges into the flames on Thursday.

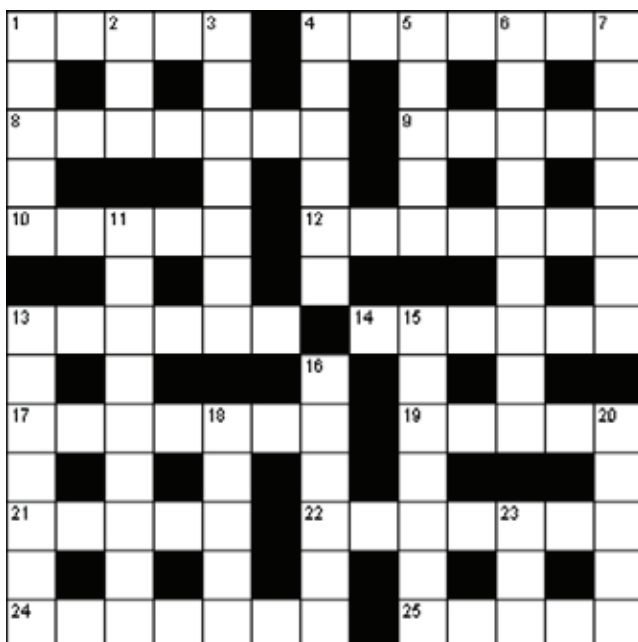

SCORPIO OCT 24 - NOV 21

 Sure enough, Al Green will take all your blues away just like he always does, but the day is fast approaching when you'll find out where he's been taking them.

SAGITTARIUS NOV 22 - DEC 21

 Millions of dollars will slip through your fingers when you discover that people are willing to pay good money for fake dog faeces and decide the real thing must be worth twice as much.

■ LONDON, ENGLAND Sleep-artist Lee Hadwin creates amazing night while he's snoozing

Being an artist is so easy, Lee Hadwin can do it in his sleep, but when he is awake, the 37-year-old, who got a D in art at school, cannot paint or draw to save his life.

He discovered his talent aged four, when he began to sleepwalk and draw on his mother's furniture. 'I got up in the middle of the night and scribbled on the walls,' he said. 'Once, I carved into an old bureau, which was a family heirloom – my mother was not pleased.'

Since then, he has produced almost 200 sleep-pictures, selling them to collectors such as illusionist Derren Brown, with one piece fetching a six-figure sum. He does not know why he can draw only in his sleep but believes it may be spirits communicating from the other side.

However, sleep scientists say it could have been brought on by a trauma, when Mr Hadwin, from South Kensington in central London, lost five friends at an early age.

His creative episodes normally follow a night of heavy drinking and he wakes up with no memory of what he did.

'Friends have recorded me and I find it really embarrassing – it's like watching yourself when you're drunk,' said the former nurse.

'Some people say, "You can't be an artist because you have to be conscious to produce art". But, at the end of the day, what is art?'

■ WELLINGTON, NEW ZEALAND Happy Feet the penguin makes a happy return to the Antarctic

A lost penguin that strayed thousands of miles from home - and earned the nickname 'Happy Feet' in the process - was yesterday being returned to the Antarctic. Happy Feet was found wandering on Peka Peka beach in New Zealand on June 20. He was taken to Wellington Zoo where he was nursed back to health after mistaking sand for snow and eating it, and is now on the research vessel Tangaroa for a lift home.

He underwent a series of operations and was put on a diet of 'fish milkshakes' before he was considered well enough to make the journey home. The bird was waved off by more than 1,700 fans at the zoo. 'He's brought a lot of hope and joy,' said zoo boss Karen Fifield. He will be fitted with a tracker so people can follow him online.

Emperor penguins live in colonies in Antarctica which range in size from a few hundred to more than 20,000 pairs.

Happy Feet was the first wild emperor to be spotted in New Zealand since 1967.

HUA HIN DARTS LEAGUE

PRE SEASON MEETING

The pre season meeting was held last Tuesday 30th August at 99 Bar in Soi 6, which will be the new hub of the darts league. Various items were discussed and voted on and the key details were as follows.

The new season is planned to start on Tuesday 13th September, and all teams must register by at least a week prior to this. The registration fee is unchanged at 1000 baht per team.

The makeup of the divisions will be announced once it is known what teams are entering, but as it stands the Lazy Daze team is moving to All Nations Hua Hin, who will also be entering a second team and Lucky Shot have said that they will not be entering this season. 99 Bar will be entering at least two teams, but this may also mean some existing teams will not enter if they cannot find replacement players. Normally the top one or two teams in Division 2 replace the bottom one or two teams in Division 1, but there will be some adjustments to try and ensure two divisions of even numbers, as well as trying to ensure that 'new' teams are placed in the appropriate division for the players they have.

It was agreed that from now on, any decisions made at the pre season meeting will be made by a one vote per team basis, rather than the ad hoc 'whoever turned up' system previously. It was also agreed that an agenda for these meetings must be sent out two weeks prior to the meeting, and any additional items must be added no later than one week prior, to enable every team to make their decision on each point.

It was agreed that the doubles would remain as best of three 501 matches, but that Mickey Mouse would change so that only doubles and trebles in the range 15 to 20 would be counted from now on.

All monies raised from sponsorship and registration fees were voted to be only used within the league and not for outside tournaments. Finally it was agreed that there is no compulsion on the bars to provide food every week, although if they decide to do so they can.

Please call 089 616 3632 for more information or to find out how to register your team for the new season.

Details of the new season will be printed here when available.

FEATURED GAME

EUROPEAN CHAMPIONSHIP QUALIFYING

WEDNESDAY, 7 SEPTEMBER 2011

England v Wales, GpG, 01:45

Wembley, London

When the Home Internationals competition was still running, the UK was treated to regular meetings between these national sides, but competitive fixtures between them are now a rarity. They of course met in Cardiff earlier this year, a game won quite comfortably by England, and in general it is the pattern for these games. However, England have a few injury and form issues, such as Joe Hart the only fit goalkeeper who has international experience, while in defence it is likely to be a back four who haven't played together before.

Wales do not have an embarrassment of riches, but they do have some players capable of causing England problems, most notably Gareth Bale (below). However Wales best chance of getting anything from this game is a good solid team performance.

We expect this to be a classic game of the stronger team dominating possession (England) while Wales will be on the back foot hoping to spring forward in fast counter attacks.

All coach Gary Speed and the Welsh fans will want is a committed, passionate performance, while Capello and the English fans will expect a win. We think the Welsh will get what they want, and we also think they will give England a scare, but ultimately the home side will get the points.

AWAYDAY NIGHTMARE

COMPENSATION OFFERS TO BANKRUPT ENGLISH FOOTBALL

■ ENGLAND

ARSENAL fans being given their money back for a dreadful away performance could set a legal precedent that will instantly kill 98 percent of English football.

Supporters across the country have written to their clubs asking when the cheque will be arriving for the inconvenience of the last 25 years.

Leyton Orient fan Roy Hobbs said: "Earlier this month I had to go to a place called Walsall, which I presume doubled as the outdoor set for Mordor.

"I then had to watch us lose 1-0 to what appeared to be eleven pigs rolled on a barber shop floor and kicked through a branch of JD Sports. Where's my money?

"Fifty quid should cover the cost of my ticket, train fare and miniature model of Ayers Rock masquerading as a steak and kidney pie. Then there's the thirty grand I'll need for the mental horror of being in the Midlands."

There are also fears that the compensation offer may also need to be extended to Sky Sports viewers who were subjected to a Gary Neville so smug that many thought he was being felled under the table by Roy Keane.

Footballologist Wayne Hayes said: "What seems like a noble gesture by the Arsenal board will soon become a regular transaction if they adhere to their policy of selling any player who still has all his own feet.

"However, as a Leeds United fan, while I may be in line for a windfall it won't make up for 30 years of nightmares that look like a Hieronymous Bosch painting full of whippets."
