A LOSS OF INNOCENCE

A WARNING TO BARHOPS AND NIGHTOWLS IN HUA HIN

■ HUA HIN, THAILAND

The slow transition of Hua Hin from quaint fishing village to bustling city seems to have almost completed, with both the good and the bad aspects of that coming to the fore in recent months. We have covered the good many times, as it brings prosperity and jobs, but one bad aspect we feel is timely to report on now.

An increasing number of foreign tourists and residents are falling victim to the criminal elements that are also attracted to the town, and one activity that seems to be on the increase is the targeting of drunk foreigners whose drinks are 'spiked', which often leads on to them being robbed of money and valuables, either in their own room or elsewhere. One tourist was found dead in his room this year after such a crime, having been given an overdose of the sleeping drug Xanax. Very often, victims have little or no memory of what happened, which makes police action difficult.

As high season kicks in, AWOL wants to be sure that people are on their guard against the gangs who are perpetrating these crimes; never leave drinks unattended and avoid being taken to places alone that you are unfamiliar with. If in doubt, go to your accommodation or home, alone.

CORRECTION - BORFAI BIKE ATTACK

We would like to apologise to the Ayling family for some inaccuracies in the report we ran last week about the attack on Mr Paul Ayling. We stated that the police "apparently have a large number of suspects derived from numerous complaints made against Mr Ayling to them" but this is not correct, and we have been told that only one official complaint has been made. Mr Ayling is still in critical condition in hospital, and planned attempts to bring him out of a coma have been postponed for now. Police are reportedly interviewing suspects but no arrests had been made at press time.

They have a team entered in the Hua Hin Pool Billiards League which plays every Friday (see page 28 for current standings, results and fixtures) and new players are always welcome. Open every day from late afternoon, Return Bar is a great place to relax away from the hassles of the town centre, and somewhere you will find yourself coming again and again!

■ Do you wonder why we say certain things, or what they really mean? Each week we will examine a different word or phrase and tell you how it came about.

This week it is.. In like Flynn

To be quickly and/or emphatically successful, usually in a sexual or romantic context.

This phrase is commonly said to be a reference to Errol Flynn, the Australian film actor. Flynn was famous for his romantic swashbuckler roles in Hollywood films and for his flamboyant private life. His reputation as a hard-drinking, hell-raising ladies' man was apparently well justified, although it has doubtless been enhanced by his delight in playing up to his image. For instance, he entitled his autobiography - My Wicked, Wicked Ways and also did nothing to dispel the incredible but nonetheless widespread rumours as to the the size of his manhood and the number of women who had shared his bed. Flynn was acquitted in February 1943 for the statutory rape of a teenage girl.

The word in had been used with regard to success, good fortune or sexual conquest for some years prior to the 1940s; for example: John Mills' Life Race-Horse, 1854: "The handicapper ... considerately classed me among the middle ones, and awarded 6 st. 12 lb. as my burthen. 'He's vell in,' said my owner, 'very vell in.'"; Alfred Mason's Clementina, 1901: "His luck for the moment was altogether in."; E. Wilson's Twenties, 1923: "Well, did Mr. Wilson get it in tonight?"

All of the above might lead us to believe that origin of the phrase 'in like Flynn' is clear. As so often though, things aren't quite as tidy as they might first seem. The earliest recorded use of the phrase is in a December 1946 edition of American Speech:

"In like Flynn, everything is O.K. In other words, the pilot is having no more trouble than Errol Flynn has in his cinematic feats."

That doesn't have the sexual connotations that the phrase acquired later. There's also an earlier, albeit oblique, reference from 1942 - in The San Francisco Examiner (Sports section):

"Answer these questions correctly and your name is Flynn, meaning you're in, provided you have two left feet and the written consent of your parents."

Errol Flynn's particular notoriety as someone especially likely to be 'in' in a sexual sense came about after his trial in 1943, although he was already known as a screen romantic lead. If the phrase does derive from his name then it appears to have been coined in regard to his all-round flamboyance and fame - which were both considerable by 1942 - rather than specifically his sexual success.

Another possible figure who could plausibly have been the source of the phrase is the political organizer Edward J. Flynn. He was a campaign manager for the Democratic party during the 1930s and 40s and was well-known to be highly effective at arranging political successes. Such machiavellian organizers were known as bosses. Flynn, with some irony, called his autobiography 'You're the Boss', in a reference to the American voting public.

Edward J. Flynn had not been associated with the phrase 'in like Flynn' prior to efforts by etymologists to explain it though and no records from the 1940s make any such link. It seems very much more likely that Errol Flynn is the Flynn in question and, although the phrase may have been used before he was at the peak of his celebrity, it became well-known by association with him.

In 1967 James Coburn starred in the film, 'In Like Flint'. This was a sequel to the 1966 'Our Man Flint' and presumably the screenwriters, on the lookout for another 'Flint' phrase, opted for a play on 'In like Flynn'. There's now some confusion between the two phrases and some use 'In like Flint' as if it were synonymous with 'In like Flynn'.

CAPRICORN DEC 22 - JAN 19

Strange, it seemed like having a harpoon gun around would be kind of cool, but every time you've used the damn thing it just leads to a lot of flensing work.

AQUARIUS JAN 20 – FEB 18

Usually, compromise means no one is happy. The Missouri Compromise, however, is a great name for the mullet, a hairstyle that makes everyone happy.

PISCES FEB 19 – MAR 20

It's never too late to change your life for the better, except of course in your case, where it's almost too late to finish your poisoned coffee.ARIES MAR 21 – APR 20

This week you'll prove that one man can make a difference when you smear bacon grease all over the stairs and escalators at the malls closest to the retirement home.

TAURUS APR 21 – MAY 21

Trouble rears its ugly head in the workplace when, simply put, they just up and fire everybody.

GEMINI MAY 22 – JUNE 21

Sorry to tell you this, but there's no such thing as "plus-sized" deodorant soap. Just use as much regular soap as you need to wash your enormous frame.

CANCER JUN 22 – JUL 22

Yes, you have a powerful thirst, but you won't relieve it by repeatedly drinking whiskey. In fact, that will actually dehydrate you further.

LEO JUL 23 – AUG 22

The doctors will be polite and professional when discussing your condition, but they'll joke about it later in the lounge before going home to stare at the ceiling, unable to sleep from thinking about it.

VIRGO AUG 23 – SEP 22

There will be no changes of note in your life this week, which is surprising considering how easy it should be to get a bear trap off your head these days.

LIBRA SEP 23 – OCT 23

There aren't many people out there who can have so much sex without enjoying themselves in the least, but you always knew you were special.

SCORPIO OCT 24 – NOV 21

You'll try to play both sides against each other for personal gain, proving again why you are the worst chess player ever.

SAGITTARIUS NOV 22 – DEC 21

Your love for The Wizard Of Oz will actually come in handy when you're involved in a multiple-tractor-trailer pileup, but not for the reasons you'd think.

■ RUGBY

Two 90 year old men, Mike and Joe, have been friends all of their lives.When it's clear that Joe is dying, Mike visits him every day. One day Mike says, "Joe, we both loved rugby all our lives, and we played rugby on Saturdays together for so many years. Please do me one favour, when you get to Heaven, somehow you must let me know if there's rugby there." Joe looks up at Mike from his death bed, "Mike, you've been my best friend for many years. If it's at all possible, I'll do this favour for you."
Shortly after that, Joe passes on.At midnight a couple of nights later, Mike is awakened from a sound sleep by a blinding flash of white light and a voice calling out to him, "Mike -- Mike.""Who is it?" asks Mike sitting up suddenly. "Who is it?"
"Mike--it's me, Joe.""You're not Joe. Joe just died.""I'm telling you, it's me, Joe," insists the voice.""Joe! Where are you?""In heaven," replies Joe. "I have some really good news and a little bad news.""Tell me the good news first," says Mike."The good news," Joe says, "is that there IS rugby in heaven. Better yet, all of our old friends who died before us are here, too. Better even than that, we're all young again. Better still, it's always spring time and it never rains or snows. And, best of all, we can play rugby all we want, and we never get tired.""That's fantastic," says Mike. "It's beyond my wildest dreams! So what's the bad news?""You're in the team for this Saturday."

■ BUPA

I have liver disease, caused by years of heavy drinking. My wife said I should go to BUPA, but I did the complete opposite.
I went to APUB.

■ MARRIAGE HUMOUR

Wife: 'What are you doing?'
Husband: 'Nothing.'
Wife: 'Nothing...? You've been reading our marriage certificate for an hour.'
Husband: 'I was looking for the expiration date.'

■ NUDIST BEACH

A mother and father take their 6-year old son to a nude beach.
As the boy walks along the sand, he notices that many of the women have boobs bigger than his mother's, so he goes back to ask her why.
She tells her son, 'The bigger they are, the sillier the lady is.'
The boy, pleased with the answer, goes to play in the ocean but returns to tell his mother that many of the men have larger things than his dad does.
She replies, 'The bigger they are, the dumber the man is'
Again satisfied with her answer, the boy goes back to the ocean to play.
Shortly thereafter, the boy returns and promptly tells his mother,
'Daddy is talking to the silliest lady on the beach, and the longer he talks, the dumber he gets.'

■ KANCHANABURI, THAILAND British man drags piano to top of mountain to serenade blind elephants.

Elephants never forget, according to the saying – and these ones will always remember when Briton Paul Barton serenaded them with Beethoven. Mr Barton, 50, dragged his piano up a mountain in Kanchanaburi, Thailand, to help raise money for blind elephants.

He said: 'It was a 50th birthday present to myself. My wife and I have been working with blind elephants for many years, and I thought it might be something they would enjoy to listen to. I sat down and thought, what do you play to an elephant?

'You only get a short time, so I started trawling through my books and then Slow Movement 2 from Beethoven's Pathetique Sonata just stuck. I had to drag the piano up a mountain - I have a really bad back, but I wanted to make the effort so I could feel like I had undergone a personal challenge.'

Yorkshire-born Paul now hopes to put on a concert with the elephants to raise funds for an electric fence for the sanctuary where they live.

■ CHHATTISGARH, INDIA 6kg of iron removed from man's stomach

Surgeons who tried to save the life of Kamleshwar Singh, who was suffering acute stomach pain, were amazed to find 6kg of metal in his stomach. Kamleshwar Singh, a farmer, had eaten 431 coins, 196 iron pellets, 17 bolts and three keys. He had spent the last nine months secretly eating 13lb of iron objects and visited doctors after enduring sleepless nights and appetite loss.

'He visited us complaining of intolerable abdominal pain,' said Bhojram Dewangan, of the Shreesti Institute of Medical Science in the Indian state of Chhattisgarh.

'All the objects were lying at the base of his stomach. When we began surgery, we thought we would find a few items. But as we progressed, we were amazed to find such a huge number of coins and pellets had passed into his intestines. Signs of chronic ulceration were apparent in the stomach.' Mr Singh, who had psychiatric problems, did not survive the surgery.

HUA HIN POOL BILLIARD LEAGUE

NEW SEASON
The new season starts today, Friday 2nd December and will run until the end of June 2012.
Two new teams have joined, Maria Bar and Lazy Daze, replacing Sugar Cane and Papillon, while two have been renamed after the bars were taken over, so Dick's Office is now Hua Hin Missing You, and Thaiwaii is now Garden Girls.
The laminated fixture list sent out earlier has some errors on it due to venue clashes not being spotted. The fixtures on the AWOL website (www.awolonline.net) and at huahinpoolbilliard.leaguerepublic.com are the correct ones, as are the ones printed in AWOL every week. If you wish to adjust your copy, please make the following changes: Swap JW Red and Sunset Boulevard for every fixture; and swap the Return Bar v Talk of the Town home and away dates.

FEATURED GAME

SATURDAY, 3 DECEMBER 2011
PREMIER LEAGUE
Newcastle v Chelsea, 19:45
St James Park, Newcastle, England
There will be a very sombre mood ahead of this game as no doubt there will be a minute's silence in memory of Gary Speed, former Newcastle player, who died last weekend, reportedly by his own hand, shocking the football world. It really puts the game in stark perspective, and no doubt a few of the players will not be able to play at their best because of this.
However it is a crucial game for both sides, and the best tribute the teams can make is to give their all as Speed himself always did. The game could also do with being played in the same sporting spirit he displayed, but it does seem that kind of player is fast disappearing.
As to the game itself we think the emotions and home advantage will see Newcastle win this, and really that is the only script that should be allowed on this day in particular.

THE BOTTOM LINE

OBESE OLYMPICS FANS CAUSE 2012 STADIUMS RETHINK

■ LONDON, ENGLAND

Several thousand of the seats already fitted in the various stadiums at East London's Olympic Village will have to be taken out and replaced due to concerns raised by Health and Safety inspectors who say the current seats would not be strong enough to withstand the weight of many of the American and European spectators. The replacement seats will also have to be much wider.

This presents a major problem because the 80,000 seating capacity of the main Olympic Stadium formed part of the agreement with the International Olympic Committee when awarding the 2012 Olympic Games to the UK, and the government has made it absolutely clear that there is no more money available to increase the size of the stadium. Nevertheless additional space must somehow be found for the wider seats now required.

"The circumference of the running track will probably have to be significantly shortened" says Prime Minister David Cameron. "Sadly the much tighter track makes it unlikely we will see any world record times being set next year because obviously in order for the runners not to drift out of their respective lanes will mean they'll have to slow down when turning the bends. And unfortunately the hundred metre sprint will have to start on one of those bends."

The throwing events of hammer and discus will probably still take place in the stadium, but the javelin competition will not.

"Luckily we have the wide expanse of Hackney Marshes just across the road from the Olympic Village" points out Mr Cameron, "so arrangements will be made for the javelin boys and girls to throw their sticks over there."

A further problem identified by the Health and Safety inspectors are the turnstiles people will have to go through. They say obese spectators could get jammed in them.

"We'll be smearing the turnstiles with grease to reduce the possibility of roly poly men and women getting stuck," says Mr Cameron, "but admittedly some of our American visitors next summer could still find it a problem to slide through them. However, there will of course be plenty of strong policemen on duty to get any jammed spectators through the turnstiles with a hard helpful push."
