CLASS ACT

KIDS BENEFIT FROM GOLFERS' GENEROSITY

HUA HIN, THAILAND

In the lead up to Christmas you may recall that we ran a front page story headlined 'Peace And Goodwill', which featured information about a local charity's fundraising efforts. The charity is the Bright Dawn Foundation, and this week we have been informed how those efforts have been going, and this is news we are very pleased to share with our readers.

The featured fundraising effort in that story was a prize quiz, which raised over 11,000 baht, but the even better news is that the foundation has received a very generous donation from the Hua Hin Golf Society, who held a charity golf day and a charity dinner at the Dusit in December, and the total money raised was 244,964 baht.

This money has all been donated specifically to fund the Bright Dawn Foundation's computer literacy project at Huay Sai Ngam School in Nong Plub. This project involves upgrading the present computer classroom and installing 9 new computers. This special learning centre will be designed to teach the children basic computer skills and give them access to the internet and Thai language distance learning programs relevant to the subjects they study at school.

The Foundation has ongoing involvement in three primary schools in the area, all of which suffer from a general lack of resources and funding, particularly serious teacher staffing shortages, food shortages and rundown and dilapidated buildings. so while the money that has been raised is fantastic, more help is always needed. If you want to donate or learn more about their efforts, please call Jill Moore on 082 355 4228, or email: brightdawnfoundation@gmail.com or huahingolfsociety@hotmail.com. You can also find out a lot more about the foundation by visiting their website at www.brightdawnfoundation.org, as well as finding out who won the quiz and what all the correct answers were!

Cold Beer - Two Pool Tables - Friendly Welcome
Located on the Canal Road
between the traffic lights and the 7-11

Return Bar is one of only a few bars in Hua Hin that has a full size (9 feet) pool table, as well as a more standard size table for the pool hackers amongst us! They have a team entered in the Hua Hin Pool Billiards League which plays every Friday (see p 28 for current standings, results and fixtures) and new players are always welcome. Open every day from late afternoon, Return Bar is a great place to relax away from the hassles of the town centre, and somewhere you will find yourself coming again and again!

■ Do you wonder why we say certain things, or what they really mean? Each week we will examine a different word or phrase and tell you how it came about.

This week it is..SOPA

SOPA stands for Stop Online Piracy Act (also known as House Bill 3261 or H.R. 3261), and is a bill that was introduced in the United States House of Representatives on October 26, 2011, by House Judiciary Committee Chair Representative Lamar S. Smith (R-TX) and a bipartisan group of 12 initial co-sponsors. The bill, if made law, would expand the ability of U.S. law enforcement and copyright holders to fight online trafficking in copyrighted intellectual property and counterfeit goods. However many believe that SOPA (and it's Senate cousin known as the Protect IP Act) are written in such a way that almost any website could be accused of breaking the law, and this includes ones outside of the USA - in fact these are the main target of the Act.

Why is this in English Corner? Opponents to this Act are adamant that not only is it against the First Amendment of the US Constitution, but that it could also end most people's normal use of the Internet; as this column, and others in AWOL make extensive use of internet research to bring you interesting and entertaining reading, that could mean an end to this column or possibly even this newspaper.

'Surely that is an exaggeration?' we hear you cry! Well, the answer to that is probably best made by quoting a few of the many well read and educated people, and organisations who are opposing SOPA:

On November 15, 2011 Google, Facebook, Twitter, Zynga, eBay, Mozilla, Yahoo, AOL, and LinkedIn wrote to key members of the U.S. Senate and House of Representatives, saying SOPA poses "a serious risk to our industry's continued track record of innovation and job creation, as well as to our nation's cybersecurity." Yahoo has reportedly quit the U.S. Chamber of Commerce over the organization's enthusiastic support for SOPA.

The European Parliament adopted a resolution last month stressing "the need to protect the integrity of the global Internet and freedom of communication by refraining from unilateral measures to revoke IP addresses or domain names." Rep. Nancy Pelosi, the House Democratic leader, said in a message on Twitter last week that we "need to find a better solution than #SOPA." A letter signed by Reps. Zoe Lofgren and Anna Eshoo, both California Democrats, and Rep. Ron Paul, the Republican presidential candidate from Texas, predicts that SOPA will invite "an explosion of innovation-killing lawsuits and litigation."

Former CNN journalist Rebecca MacKinnon argues that making companies liable for users' actions could have a chilling effect on user-generated sites such as YouTube. Policy analysts for New America Foundation say this legislation would enable law enforcement to take down an entire domain due to something posted on a single blog, arguing, "an entire largely innocent online community could be punished for the actions of a tiny minority."

SOPA would give both the government and major corporations the power to shut down entire websites accused of copyright infringement with neither a trial nor a traditional court hearing. The legislation is aggressively backed by Hollywood movie studios and major record labels, along with several major news providers, including Fox News and NBC-Universal, which have largely shied away from coverage of the bill.

This week saw the first of a series of deliberate internet blackouts by sites such as Wikipedia, and there is an online petition which AWOL encourages you to sign. We believe that SOPA is a poorly written bill which, if passed, would become the digital equivalent of book burning, or possibly more accurately, library burning.

CAPRICORN DEC 22 - JAN 19

The great thing about dogs is they still feel the same way about you when your back is turned. In related news, you'll never see the Doberman attack coming.

AQUARIUS JAN 20 – FEB 18

While it's true there are only two kinds of people in the world, the stars believe it would be unkind to tell you just how much better than you the other one is.

PISCES FEB 19 – MAR 20

It turns out that pianos hardly ever suddenly fall out of twelfth storey windows onto people, although you'll have a hard time feeling special about it.

ARIES MAR 21 – APR 20

You're not sure if your new mousetrap is better, but due to its horrifying use of liquefying blades, the world will beat a path to your door out of sheer morbid curiosity.

TAURUS APR 21 – MAY 21

You'll need to find new solutions to the same old problems this week, mostly because you're really building up quite a tolerance to alcohol.

GEMINI MAY 22 – JUNE 21

Take comfort in the fact we are all part of a larger plan, although really it's more of an eons-spanning game of universal domination played by uncaring immortals than a "plan."

CANCER JUN 22 – JUL 22

For the next week, laws will not apply to you, which is a real pain, as you've become pretty accustomed to Newton's first and third.

LEO JUL 23 – AUG 22

This is a terrible week to make decisions about your love life, although to be perfectly honest, the problem's less with the week and more with you.

VIRGO AUG 23 – SEP 22

It's time to make people take you more seriously. If they don't respond to your demands within a half-hour of reading this, start killing the hostages.

LIBRA SEP 23 – OCT 23

Walk confidently in the direction of your life's dreams, but be warned that it's really quite a long walk to Sea World.

SCORPIO OCT 24 – NOV 21

Although no one is currently keeping statistics on falcon attacks, your next few weeks will motivate several people to begin considering the necessity.

SAGITTARIUS NOV 22 – DEC 21

People say you're too easy going, unmotivated, and accepting of your own flaws, but you'll learn to live with that.

■ HEAVY ROUGH

Mike is playing a round of golf, and at the seventh tee, he slices his shot deep into a wooded ravine.
Off he goes in search of his lost ball, taking his eight iron with him.
He climbs down the embankment in search of the missing ball, and after a good ten minutes of hacking at the undergrowth, he spots something glistening amongst the leaves. Moving closer, he discovers that it's an eight iron, and it's in the hands of a skeleton!
Mike calls out to his friend, "Jim, I've got trouble down here!"
"What's up?" Jim asked from the edge of the ravine.
"Can you throw me down me my wedge," Mike shouted.
"You can't get out of here with an eight iron."

■ LOST WIFE (thanks to Karl)

Two guys, one old, one young, are pushing their carts around Tesco when they collide. The old guy says to the young guy, 'Sorry about that. I'm looking for my wife, and I guess I wasn't paying attention to where I was going.'
The young guy says, 'That's OK, but it's a coincidence as I'm looking for my wife, too. I can't find her and I'm getting a little desperate'
The old guy says, 'Well, maybe I can help you find her.. What does she look like?'
The young guy says, 'Well, she is 27 yrs old, tall, with red hair, blue eyes, is buxom wearing no bra, long legs, and is wearing short shorts. What does your wife look like?'
To which the first old guy says, 'Doesn't matter,--- let's look for yours.'

■ LOST PURSE

I saw a woman drop her purse in the high street this morning, so I quickly followed her. As I was just about to tap her on the shoulder she started running for a bus. So I ran after her shouting, "You dropped your purse! You dropped your purse!"
She didn't hear me and proceeded to get onto the bus, so I got on the bus too. As I walked to the back of the bus I breathlessly said, "You dropped your purse on the floor outside McDonald's."
"Thank you so much" she said, "Where is it?"
I said, "I've just told you, on the floor outside McDonald's."

■ ITAPETINGA, BRAZIL Dealer caught after forcing addicts to tattoo his name on their bodies

A drug dealer in Brazil was caught after forcing more than 70 addicts to tattoo his surname on their bodies. Mario Sergio Freudenthal told users he would sell to them only if they agreed to be marked. Motivated by a 'huge ego', he was snared after police spotted his name inked on robbery suspects and dead bodies.

After making inquiries, police easily traced him, as he was the only person called Freudenthal in Itapetinga, a small town in Brazil.

This isn't the first time a criminal has been caught because of a tattoo. A car thief was jailed in Bristol after a tattoo on his neck, which contained his surname and date of birth, was captured by security cameras. Aaron Evans was sentenced to seven months in prison after admitting theft from a motor vehicle.

Superintendent Ian Wylie said: 'When faced with such evidence, there is no other way to go than 'guilty'.'

■ DERBY, ENGLAND Man gets £70 fine after double yellow lines painted under his parked car

Frustrated driver Patrick McCrystal was given a £70 ticket after double yellow lines were painted underneath his parked Ford Fiesta.

Mr McCrystal, from Derby, was further angered when he spotted flecks of yellow paint on his front bumper.

The 49-year-old petrol station worker - who regularly parked between the gap in the lines - said yesterday: 'I couldn't believe my eyes. They had extended the existing set of lines underneath my car, then a warden had slapped a ticket on it. When I parked there were double yellows in front of my car, double yellows behind my car, but nothing in between. It has been my regular spot for two years and there was nothing to indicate I couldn't park there.'

Although the fine has since been rescinded, Derby City Council admitted the error. David Gartside, the council's head of traffic and transport, said: 'It appears that there was a communication breakdown between our contractors doing the lining work and our enforcement officers. We apologise for any inconvenience.'

FEATURED GAME

SUNDAY, 22 JANUARY 2012
PREMIER LEAGUE
Arsenal v Man Utd, 23:00
Emirates Stadium, London, England
Always a momentous match as the two most experienced managers in the league come head to head; historically, Sir Alex has always held the edge over Wenger, but this has been an odd season, and we have a feeling that last week's defeat to Swansea will kick Arsenal into one of those unforgettable performances they sometimes produce. United beat a poor Bolton side last week but were not as convincing as the scoreline suggested, and have been showing defensive frailties this season. It should be a cracker with lots of goals and no doubt a piece of magic from Thierry Henry.

RESEARCH INTO ANDY CARROLL'S FIRST TOUCH TO BE USED FOR SATELLITE LAUNCHES, CONFIRMS SPACE AGENCY

■ LIVERPOOL, ENGLAND

Research into the effectiveness of Andy Carroll's first touch has led the European Space agency to enquire about his availability for upcoming satellite launches.

The Liverpool striker's close control has come under intense scrutiny in recent months, and despite it being described by some pundits as neither 'close' or 'in control', researchers at the European Space Agency insist it could prove invaluable in improving the efficiency of launching expensive technology into orbit.

European Space Agency Director General Jean-Jacques Dordain, revealed that Carroll's ability to propel a football vast distances away from his body with what appears to be minimal effort could herald an exciting new era in space technology.

Left: "Now Andy, remember that gilt edged chance you missed against Swansea? The satellite boys want the same thing only with a bit more elevation."

"We will be contacting Liverpool to enquire about Andy Carroll's availability, in the hope that we can carry out further tests based on our observations of his performances in recent games," he told us.

Mr Dordain also revealed that the tests will be carried out in a natural environment that will allow Carroll to feel totally relaxed.

"We have constructed a a mock-up of a Newcastle nightclub called the Blu Bambu club, and we will carry out the tests at around 3 O'clock in the morning," he revealed.

Mr Dordain also went on to reveal the simplicity of the testing itself.

"We are hoping that if someone passes the satellite to Andy from somewhere over fifteen yards, we will be able to sit back and watch as it drifts upwards towards the stratosphere," he said.
