SONGKRAN FESTIVAL SPLASHES DOWN

HUA HIN, THAILAND

Relief from the oppressive heat and humidity will soon be at hand as the Thai New Year festivities explode onto the streets with the traditional Songkran Festival, which officially runs from 12th to the 16th April (Thursday to Monday). There will not be an AWOL next week due to the holiday, and the difficulty of delivering under water fire! We will return with an issue on 20th April.

For those who have never experienced Songkran in Hua Hin, it is a mixture of the traditional, quite gentle and charming sprinkling of water to cleanse you at the start of the new year, and the more modern mayhem with water pistols, buckets of iced water and attack groups in pickup trucks. The former will be found in the suburbs and outlying areas, while the latter is focused in the centre of town and in particular the central bar areas around Soi Binthabaht and Soi 80.

The roads will be jammed as thousands head to the town from Bangkok and elsewhere, and there will be more police checkpoints that will also hold up journeys. Unless you absolutely have to go through the town, or you want to join in the fun, the best advice is to try and avoid the town centre, or you will both be delayed and get very wet! Other good advice is to carry money, mobile phones and other valuables that can be damaged by water in Ziploc-style plastic bags, as well as having a spare set of dry clothes to hand. Be extremely careful when riding a motorbike as the mixture of water and talcum powder accumulates on the streets making them slippery, plus buckets of water will be thrown with vigour in your direction - foreigners are a prime target! Most of all, take everything in the way it is intended, which is having fun. Happy New Year and see you in two weeks!

■ HERCEG NOVI, SERBIA Breast election campaign poster: Serbian party Srpska Lista has front

Serbian political party Srpska Lista has decided to bypass any electoral rhetoric and give the people what they want - a big picture of some breasts.

The political leaders in Herceg Novi have stuck up giant roadside billboards featuring nothing but a huge pair of boobs and the number '5' to signify that Srpska Lista are fifth in the list on the ballot papers.

There is a tenuous reason for the provocative display - five is the local equivalent of a cup size 'D' in bras, and this eye-catching advert will make sure that voters do not forget that.

However, it is unlikely that too much deep thinking went into choosing the image for the risqué display - which features a woman's chest in a lacy white bra and sparkling jewellery, with designers opting to edit out her face and the rest of her body. But, it seems like the party may have made a bit of a boob with the picture choice, as it has caused serious concerns for motorists.

Drivers have been too busy ogling the breasts to keep their eyes on the road, and there has been several car shunts as a result.

One campaigner moaned to local media: 'Not only is this sexist and demeaning to women, it is dangerous as well.'

■ Do you wonder why we say certain things, or what they really mean? Each week we will examine a different word or phrase and tell you how it came about.

This week it is...Over the moon

Very happy or delighted.

This phrase has been part of the language for more than a century. It became more widely used in the late twentieth century, when it was adopted by English football managers in interviews after a victory.

The increased use of televised post-match interviews and hours of studio commentary during the 1970s brought many football managers before the cameras. Before that they were usually British ex-footballers who had left schools in the English or Scottish back streets early to play football. It's fair to say that many of them had little interest in the finer points of English grammar. The satirical publication Private Eye had a regular column, 'Colemanballs' which lampooned the utterances of professional sports participants, commentators and other celebrities, which made the phrase popular.

The actual origin of 'over the moon' is much earlier and, although not widely used before the 1970s, it would have been familiar to all who grew up in Britain in the 20th century, because the source was included, as High Diddle Diddle, in the influential 16th century nursery rhyme collection, Mother Goose's Melody; or Sonnets from the Cradle, circa 1760: High diddle diddle,
The Cat and the Fiddle, The Cow jump'd over the Moon,
The little dog laugh'd to see such Craft,
And the Dish ran away with the Spoon.

As with most nursery rhymes, the first appearance in print may well post-date the first use by years, centuries even - children didn't write their rhymes down. The text of such rhymes inevitably varied over time and, whatever the origin may have been, the version passed down to us is quite probably nonsense and isn't easily interpreted. What is clear is that the 'over the moon' line is a reference to excitement and energy. That's evidenced by one of the earliest allusions to the phrase in print - Charles Molloy's The Coquet, or, The English Chevalier, 1718:

"Tis he! I know him now: I shall jump over the Moon for Joy!"

■ GOOD NEWS

It has just been announced that a cure for dyslexia has been discovered. A spokesperson for the International Dyslexia Association reading from a prepared statement said, "This is music to our arse."

■ TOULOUSE SIEGE

Newspapers in France are claiming that the French government deserve more credit for their handling of the Toulouse shooter siege. They managed to last 32 hours without surrendering.

■ EASTER THOUGHTS

As Good Friday approaches, my thoughts turn to a bloke with long hair who will be remembered for dying on the end of a cross.
Happy Easter, Andy Carroll.

■ ARROGANT

My wife said she's leaving me because of my arrogance. I told her to close the door on her way back in.

■ THE JUGGLER

A juggler, driving to his next performance, is stopped by the police. "What are these matches and lighter fluid doing in your car?" asks the cop.
"I'm a juggler and I juggle flaming torches in my act."
"Oh yeah?" says the doubtful cop. "Lets see you do it." The juggler gets out and starts juggling the blazing torches masterfully.
A couple driving by slows down to watch. "Wow," says the driver to his wife. "I'm glad I quit drinking. Look at the test they're giving now!"

CAPRICORN DEC 22 - JAN 19

You'll be devastated but not surprised to learn your life is a cheap remake of that of St. Pilaster of Avens, who died in 1421 in a very similar grease fire.

AQUARIUS JAN 20 – FEB 18

While the pursuit of true love should be your guiding principle in life, the girl at the coffee shop will melt the eyes out of your head with a well-aimed pot of French Roast Sumatran if you don't stop bothering her.

PISCES FEB 19 – MAR 20

Only minor and mostly cosmetic changes this week.

ARIES MAR 21 – APR 20

This is a good time to make big moves at work, as you'll show up Monday to find all the furniture's gone and everyone has relocated to a new office somewhere outside Gary, IN.

TAURUS APR 21 – MAY 21

You'll experience a desire to strengthen old bonds of friendship, so it's really too bad that everyone who has known you for more than two years hates you.

GEMINI MAY 22 – JUNE 21

You'll be roundly condemned by the Academy of Country Music when, despite their specific instructions, you let your babies grow up to be cowboys.

CANCER JUN 22 – JUL 22

Mercury in retrograde in your sign is a signal that you're about to be run over by some guy backing up his Mercury, which is in turn a sign that the Zodiac is getting just plain lazy.

LEO JUL 23 – AUG 22

While the smiling old woman isn't lying about her award-winning cupcakes, she is withholding crucial facts regarding the depraved and sadistic nature of the local cupcake awards.

VIRGO AUG 23 – SEP 22

You thought a life of safari adventures, epic cookouts, and jungle cats awaited you, but it turns out the local Waffle House was not in fact advertising for a "lion cook."

LIBRA SEP 23 – OCT 23

You find yourself unable to comply with simple requests this week, as you lack the internal resources to "be cool," "get down," or "boogie."

SCORPIO OCT 24 – NOV 21

Scorpio will be phased out this week and its duties subsumed by other signs. During this change, assume that you will have a torrid romance with a stranger or be hit by a train.

SAGITTARIUS NOV 22 – DEC 21

The stars indicate you will wonder for eternity what would have happened had you just gone ahead and kissed that girl the other night.

Vic Hua Hin Summer Camp 2012
22nd till 27th April 2012
For more than twenty years, Patravadi Theatre in Bangkok has the tradition of making arts with young people and develops their potentials. Its art camp brings together various professional artists to teach and work with the participants. A showcase that brings together the teachers and students on stage and their family and friends in the auditorium will be the concluding highlight of each camp.
Vic Hua Hin will continue this tradition in this summer school break. It is an ideal way for students to spend their holidays. Two groups of aged 6-12 and 13 and above are offered.
The Summer Camp 2012 costs 15,000 Baht for six day classes with performance at Vic Hua Hin on the last day. 13,000 Baht for day students.
For more informations please call 032 827 814-5.

PROPERTY FOR RENT

LIVE RENT-FREE IN HUA HIN?

It's a possibility if you are easy-going, trustworthy, and like dogs. I have more house than I need. Lately, I travel a few days each month. My dogs hate to be alone. I'm near the beach (North), outside the center of town (but not too far) and it's a very quiet area. The quid pro quo is that you help take care of the dogs, especially when I'm away, and help me keep the house up. (If you're handy, it's a plus). If this sounds like a fit for you, for a few weeks, months, or years, get in touch with me at garyhall771@gmail.com. Cheers.

STATUESQUE

LIVERPOOL TO ERECT STATUE OF ANDY CARROLL AS A REPLACEMENT FOR ANDY CARROLL

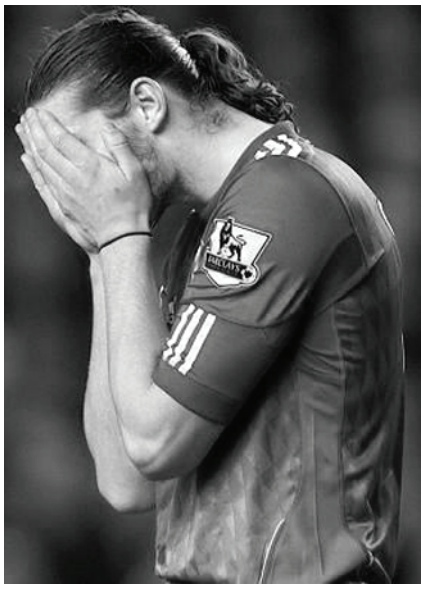
■ LIVERPOOL, ENGLAND

Liverpool have announced that they will attempt to increase Andy Carroll's goals to game ratio by replacing him with an Andy Carroll statue that will be situated in the Anfield car park.

The striker, who moved to Liverpool from Newcastle for a fee of £35m in January 2011, currently weighs in with an average of 0.17 goals per game, and manager Kenny Dalglish is hopeful that this would be bettered by an inanimate object several hundred feet away from the pitch.

"I think a statue of Andy positioned away from where the game is being played would be able to impose itself on the action much more effectively," revealed Dalglish.

"Andy needs to get himself in the right areas at the right time, and based on his performances over the last year, the right area for him to be is not on the pitch, and the right time is when a game is being played."



Left:The statue of Carroll will convey just the right amount of anguish and despair that the Liverpool fans and team are going through

The closest Carroll came to scoring in last week's game against Newcastle was when he was walking down the tunnel after being substituted in the 79th minute, and fans of the club are hopeful that this is an indication of the influence he can have on the outcome of games by being nowhere near the field of play.

"I think a 6ft 3inch statue of Andy Carroll made from limestone would be a great signing," revealed 43 year old season ticket holder Dave Greening. "Andy has shown what a great job he can do when he sits on the bench. He's even better when he's sat in the stands. Imagine what impact he could have if he was replaced with a statue and positioned in the car park."

"I think the title's definitely ours next season."
