STRICT ENFORCEMENT OF LICENSING HOURS LOOMS

HUA HIN, THAILAND

Several bars in the centre of town were this week taken to task and fined for breaking the terms of their alcohol licences; police raided several establishments in the Soi Binthabaht and Soi 80 areas on Tuesday afternoon and a number of licensees were held at the police station for up to six hours. The penalties outlined in the 2008 Alcoholic Beverage Control Act for selling alcohol outside the times laid down are 'imprisonment for the term of not exceeding six months or to a fine of not exceeding ten thousand Baht or both'; when this law was passed there was great confusion as to whether the hours stipulated related only to shops or also applied to bars, and it seems clear now what the answer is.

The legal hours are well known to anyone who has visited a 7/11, Tesco Lotus or Villa Market, as there are prominent signs informing customers that alcohol cannot be sold between the hours of two and five o'clock in the afternoon, and between midnight and eleven o'clock in the morning. This is the first time that AWOL has heard of bars being punished for this however, and may indicate another drive by the authorities to enforce the act. It does appear though that any venue that has either a hotel or restaurant licence is exempt from these hours, but it would be advisable for anyone with an alcohol licence to check their status with either a lawyer or local police.

Whenever this sort of action is taken it begs the question of the bar business community as to why they do not form an organisation that can help to advise members as well as act on their behalf and work with the police and other authorities to achieve a satisfactory outcome for all. So many foreigners enter the business and get caught out, and police time could be spent more efficiently on real criminals.

■ CHICAGO, USA Woman uses Craigslist to search for stranger who got her pregnant at gig

A woman has left a post on small advert website Craigslist in an attempt to track down a man who became the father of her unborn child during a sexual encounter at a Motörhead gig in Chicago.

They say what goes on tour stays on tour. But one music fan has a very personal – and permanent – memento from a brief encounter at a heavy metal gig.

A blue-haired rocker has advertised for her paramour via the missed connections section of small advert website Craigslist – to tell her fellow metal lover that's he's about to become a father.

The 28-year-old goes into considerable detail about exactly what they got up to in the toilet at the Motörhead and Megadeath gig at Chicago's Aragon Ballroom before dropping the bombshell news.

She describes herself as clad in fishnet stockings, a silver boob tube top and biker boots.

Her brief encounter was with a man sporting a red mohawk, a double 'viper' tongue piercing and black pentagram gauges. She writes: 'I was grinding on you in the pit, then we went to the bathroom and got f up.'

She then goes on to describe in detail too graphic for us to repeat exactly what happened next, adding: 'You were really good and you had to gag me so I would[n't] make too much noise.'

And if that doesn't get his attention, she adds: 'Anyway I'm pregnant. It's yours. Contact me if you want to be part of your child's life.'

News of the gig-goer's unusual posting quickly went viral, although not all the responses have been positive. Many are doubting whether it is real, some think it is a joke or possibly even Craigslist staff posting it to keep the site prominent. However as the listing has now been removed this seems unlikely.

■ Do you wonder why we say certain things, or what they really mean? Each week we will examine a different word or phrase and tell you how it came about.

This week it is... Grandfather clock

A name for the kind of weight-and-pendulum eight-day clock in a tall case, formerly in common use.

Grandfather clock is the colloquial name for the style of clock that is more properly called a Longcase clock. The clocks live up to their name and are very tall - a feature that is alluded to in Henry Clay Work's 1876 song Grandfather's Clock, which is the source of the name:

My grandfather's clock
Was too large for the shelf,
So it stood ninety years on the floor;
It was taller by half
Than the old man himself,
Though it weighed not a pennyweight more.
It was bought on the morn
Of the day that he was born,
And was always his treasure and pride;
But it stopped short
Never to go again,
When the old man died.

Smaller models of longcase clock are sometimes called grandmother (nominally, shorter than 6' 3") and grand-daughter (shorter than 5' 2") clocks. These names derive from grandfather clock and have no other connection to grandmothers or grand-daughters.

■ SCARY (thanks to Grahame)
Statistics show that 25% of women are on medication for mental illness.
That's very scary..... it means 75% are running around with no medication at all!

■ THE CRIB
One night a wife found her husband standing over their baby's crib. Silently she watched him. As he stood looking down at the sleeping infant, she saw on his face a mixture of emotions: disbelief, doubt, delight, amazement, enchantment, skepticism.
Touched by this unusual display and the deep emotions it aroused, with eyes glistening she slipped her arm around her husband.
"A penny for your thoughts," she said.
"It's amazing!" he replied. "I just can't see how anybody can make a crib like that for only 500 baht."

■ GOOD RESTAURANT
Two senior couples are walking along, wives in front, husbands in back. Herb says to Sam, "Gee, we went to a new restaurant last night and had the best meal ever. Good prices too."
Sam says, "Well, we like to eat out too. What was the name of the restaurant?"
Herb says, "You'll going to have to help me out here a little. What's the name of that pretty flower, smells sweet, grows on a thorny bush?" Sam says, "How about rose?"
"Yes, yes, that's it!" cries Herb, then calls ahead to his wife. "Rose. Hey, Rose. What was the name of the restaurant we ate at last night?"

FEATURED GAME

SATURDAY, 21ST APRIL 2012
PREMIER LEAGUE
Arsenal v Chelsea 18:45
Emirates Stadium, London, England

A second crucial London derby in a week for Chelsea after their FA Cup semi final against Arsenal's North London neighbours. Unless they get as inept a referee again, we can't see the Blues getting anything from this, and we think Arsenal will knock them out of the race for fourth place and strengthen their grip on third. Home win.

REFEREE DECLARES CHELSEA WINNERS OF THE SUPERBOWL

■ LONDON, ENGLAND

BREAKING his silence yesterday on the controversial 'goal' awarded last Sunday, referee Martin Atkinson has announced that Chelsea Rovers won their game in straight sets.

Speaking from the front garden of somebody else's house and dressed as a Roman centurion, he said he was satisfied with his officiating during the FA Cup semi-final at the Crucible in Sheffield.

Atkinson said: "For Chelsea's second basket, Cudicini was clearly lbw so I had no choice other than to award Spurs a ten-second time penalty and sin bin their cox for ten minutes.

"I spoke with both managers after the race and neither Alex Ferguson nor Alf Ramsey had any complaints. My report will be submitted to the FA just as soon as I can find the magical door at the back of my wardrobe."

Left: Chelsea will now play Duncan Goodhew in the final, according to Atkinson

Meanwhile, Chelsea will celebrate their victory by opening a lack-of-charm school for football fans hoping to brush up on the finer points of what the club have branded 'Twatiquette'. Located in the grounds of their Cobham Arsehole Centre, students will be taught on the finer points of race relations, marriage vow loopholes and reasons for not keeping your fat, cretinous mouth shut for a single minute.

Tutor Wayne Hayes said: "We will be accepting students on scholarships from poor backgrounds if they show exceptional promise on being a godawful pile of cack. But generally speaking our alumni will be potbellied Surrey taxi drivers who would be Daily Mail readers if they did not think reading 'made you some kind of poof'."

Adverts for the centre will soon appear in spray paint at locations across the globe, including Ground Zero, the Cenotaph and all newly-erected headstones in the UK over the next three months.
