DROUGHT ZONE

HUA HIN ONE OF SIX DISTRICTS NAMED AS 'DROUGHT DISASTER ZONES'

■ HUA HIN, THAILAND

Irrigation officials from Prachuap Kiri Khan have reported this week that due to the severe drought currently experienced in the province, the reservoirs here are now at only 30 percent of their capacity.

Six districts in the province, namely Muang, Pranburi, Hua Hin, Sam Roi Yot, Kuiburi and Bang Saphan Noi have been declared drought disaster zones for the third consecutive year.

All of the six reservoirs in the province are averaging about 30 percent of their capacity.

The situation is critical at Pranburi Dam where there are about 86 million cubic metres of water left in the reservoir, which is about 24 percent of it's full capacity. Normally, the reservoir holds about 347 million cubic metres of water. Apparently this is enough for household usage but not enough for agriculture and industry.

The local population and farmers in the province are being strongly advised to try and minimise their water use and use water more efficiently until such times as the reservoirs have more water in them.

The last week has seen promising signs of rain but much more is needed, while unconfirmed reports suggest that the water infrastructure of Hua Hin is being worked on to improve both the supply and volume of water available, with extra pipelines from the north, west and south either already online or coming soon.

Hopefully the efforts succeed, as this is a key area that hampers both the image and related prosperity of the area. In the meantime we should all pray for rain...

■ USA 'Hashpoint' dispenser allows users to pick up cannabis 24 hours a day

It's every stoner's dream – a marijuana vending machine, preferably placed right next to another one dispensing crisps and chocolate bars.

But this 'Autospense' machine lets registered users of the drug pick up their prescriptions, 24 hours a day.

Sixteen US states – as well as Washington DC – allow patients with certain medical conditions to buy small quantities of cannabis.

Hundreds of dispensaries have popped up across the country, but now a US firm has decided to cut out the middle man.

Customers get PINs and cards to access to the Autospense, which offers a host of pot menu options. But The Dispensary Group, which makes the machines, doesn't let just anyone use them.

The machines are put behind cages that need a registration card to get past, while fingerprint authentication, CCTV and locks provide extra security.

The company said the machines 'introduce a higher standard of efficiency to a market known for being chaotic, poorly managed and counter culture'. It charges up to $1,235 a month to lease the machines.

Legalising medical marijuana has become increasingly popular in the US since California started the trend in 1996.

■ MADRID, SPAIN Man in Madrid survives being struck by lightning in the scrotum

A 53-year-old man has survived being struck by lightning in the scrotum while walking down a street in Madrid.

According to Spain's El Mondo newspaper, the unnamed man lost consciousness after being struck by lightning in the groin on Thursday night, with the bolt travelling down his leg and striking the ground.

His son called paramedics who later treated him for burns to the scrotum and feet at the scene in Madrid's suburb Tres Cantos.

He was then taken to Madrid's Hospital de la Paz where tests showed his heart and brain functions were not affected by the lightning strike.

The man is said to be in a stable condition in hospital.

■ Do you wonder why we say certain things, or what they really mean? Each week we will examine a different word or phrase and tell you how it came about.

This week it is... In the box-seat

In a superior or advantageous position.

This doesn't relate to boxes at the theatre, or even to seats made of boxwood. The box-seat was literally a box which was used as a seat for the driver on coaches. These were set at quite a height in order for the coachman to be able to see beyond the one or two pairs of horses that drew the coach. It isn't difficult to imagine how 'in the box-seat' took on its figurative 'advantageous' meaning. This English phrase has the same meaning as the American 'in the catbird seat' and, although the US version was coined later, there's no reason to suspect that it was derived from the earlier phrase.

The first reference I can find to box-seats is in an advertisement from The Times, June 1804:

"To be Sold, A LANDAU, little the worse for wear, with a barouche box seat."

Barouche is the name of a carriage with such a seat - "A four-wheeled carriage having a seat in front for the driver, and seats inside for two couples to sit facing each other". (see also Vis-à-vis)

The use of 'in the box-seat' to describe someone in a favourable situation began in the mid 19th century.

Is there an English phrase or saying that you would like to know more about? Email it to us on submissions@awolonline.net

■ ALASKA

These two guys had just gotten divorces and they swore they would never have anything to do with women again. They were best friends and they decided to move up to Alaska as far north as they could go and never look at a woman again.

They got up there and went into a trader's store and told him, "Give us enough supplies to last two men for one year." The trader got the gear together and on top of each one's supplies he laid a board with a hole in it with fur around the hole. The guys said "What's that board for?"

The trader said, "Well, where you're going there are no women and you might need this."

They said "No way! We've sworn off women for life!" The trader said," Well. take the boards with you, and if you don't use themI'll refund your money next year. "Okay," they said and left.

Next year this guy came into the trader's store and said "Give me enough supplies to last one man for one year." The trader said, "Weren't you in here last year with a partner?"

"Yeah" said the guy.

"Where is he?" asked the trader.

"I shot him" said the guy.

"Why?"

"I caught him in bed with my board."

While it's true that 2012 is your year, that just means you're responsible for its upkeep and maintenance, so you'd really better get going on that.

PISCES FEB 19 – MAR 20

Your inner beauty makes you shine with the light of a thousand stars, which is appropriate, as in broad daylight you're actually not that impressive.

ARIES MAR 21 – APR 20

You will experience unbounded happiness and success in every area of your life this week, unless of course there is something fundamentally and irreversibly wrong with you.

TAURUS APR 21 – MAY 21

Your life story will bring much-needed happiness and laughter to the world, especially the hilarious ending.

FEATURED GAME

SUNDAY 20TH MAY 2012
CHAMPIONS LEAGUE FINAL
Allianz Arena, Munich, Germany
Bayern Munich v Chelsea 01:45
This should be gripping stuff as Bayern have home advantage which suits Chelsea - they will be classed as underdogs for once and can play a counter attacking game. Tough call as to the final outcome but it will be tight; the Blues will miss Terry (some might say a blessing in disguise) and we think it will be the German side who will triumph.

NEWS INTERNATIONAL JOURNALISTS COULD FACE WAPE AND WETWIBUTION IN PWISON, WARNS FA

■ LONDON, ENGLAND

The same journalists who mocked England manager Roy Hodgson for his speech impediment were weminded today that many of them face pwosecution and a vawiety of pwison scenawios, many of which include bum-wape.

Wape is unfortunately vewy common in pwison and has been depicted in many films such as the Shawshank Wedemption and Amewican History X – a particularly wough one fwom behind that didn't weally need a weason, as if one needs to wam the point home.

With Webekah Bwooks and Wupert Murdoch still the subjects of an ongoing cwiminal investigation, journalists thwoughout the corporwation were informed today that many pwisoners are eagerly awaiting their awwival and had alweady begun to gwease down their wadiators in pwepawation.

Conditions inside Bwitish pwisons can be especially bleak with two of thwee sex-starved inmates often sharewing the same cell.

Weginald Wiley, a extraordinawily well-hung multiple killer who suffers from the same speech impediment as Roy Hodgson said "The twouble with Newth Internathional dishing it out like thith isth that nobody has weally forgiven them for being fuckerth."

"And I hate it when people mock my impediment, though I've learnt to channel my agwethion thwough wandom acts of welentleth anuth-based thexual violenth."

"James Murdoch isth welcome to take a shower with me anytime, just tho long as he wememberth to bwing his own bar of thoap."

Although Roy Hodgson today laughed off his treatment at the hands of the press, he sounded a note of his concern for his tormentors.

"When the scwews turn their backs, as they are likely to do when watching he Euwos, it could be vewy much a case of bwing on the wapists."
