FLYING TONIGHT!

NEW AIRLINE STARTS SERVICES FROM HUA HIN AIRPORT

■ HUA HIN, THAILAND

Following two previous efforts by Bangkok Airways and SGA, Hua Hin Airport is once again being utilised by a regular service to and from Bangkok's Suvarnabhumi Airport, this time provided by Thai Regional Airlines.

The service began towards the end of June and operates daily, departing Hua Hin at 5pm, arriving in Bangkok forty minutes later, with the return flight departing at 9.50am and arriving at 10.30am. Current fare promotions are 1700 baht one way or 3400 baht return (plus 50 baht tax each way), with a generous luggage allowance of 40 kilos, although the normal fare is 1,990 baht in each direction.

The service has started with the smallest planes in their fleet, the eight seater twin engined Piper PA-31-350 Navajo Chieftain, although the company also boasts the 78 seater ATR72 and 150 seater Airbus A320. Thai Regional Airlines (telephone 090-779-2779, 090-779-3779, 02-134-7152, Website www.thairegionalairlines.com), also run flights from Bangkok to Korat and Buriram, and between Hat Yai and Phuket.

Many in Hua Hin will be hoping that the service fares better than the previous efforts, and that other routes will be added out of Hua Hin, particularly to Phuket, as this journey is a long one whether by road (about seven hours) or by air (which currently entails travelling to Bangkok first). Direct routes to other parts of the country would also be a boon to many and would be a boost to the town. All we can say is - Good luck to Thai Regional Airlines and all who fly with them!

■ Do you wonder why we say certain things, or what they really mean? Each week we will examine a different word or phrase and tell you how it came about.

This week it is... A frog in the throat

Temporary hoarseness caused by phlegm in the back of the throat.

'A frog in the throat' is an American phrase that entered the language towards the end of the 19th century. The expression doesn't have a fanciful derivation (see more on that below) but comes directly from the fact that a hoarse person sounds croaky - like a frog.

The earliest reference found to the expression is from How to be Man, a 'book for boys', written by the American clergyman Harvey Newcomb in 1847. Newcomb encouraged the youngsters to resist the temptation of 'improper diversions': Now let me beg of you to learn to say NO. If you find a 'frog in your throat,' which obstructs your utterance, go by yourself, and practise saying no, no, NO!

The expression must have been in popular use in the USA by 1894, when it was used in an advertisement as the name of a proprietary medicine for sore throats, in The Stevens Point Journal, November 1894:

"The Taylor Bros. say that 'Frog in the Throat' will cure hoarseness. 10 cents and box."

Interestingly, a reference to the phrase was printed just four weeks later in the English newspaper The Hastings and St Leonards Observer, in an article about 'Yankee advertising'. The journalist describes how a local chemist had adopted an American advertising window display in order to sell the imported 'Frog in Your Throat' lozenges. The display consisted of artificial frogs dressed up as medieval English peasants and to lend some zest to the campaign, the advertising agents invented a back story claiming that 'a frog in the throat' was 'an old English expression, once in common use, but now forgotten here'.

It is easy to find websites that claim 'a frog in your throat' derives from the belief that 'in medieval times physicians thought that the secretions of a frog could heal a sore throat'. That belief was real, but any link between it and the phrase 'frog in the throat' has no basis in truth and no supporting evidence. As a general rule, any explanation of the origin of a phrase that begins with 'In medieval times...' should be treated with suspicion.

■ D-I-S-C-O (thanks to Grahame)
A Husband took his wife to a disco on the weekend.
There was a guy on the dance floor giving it large - break-dancing, moon-walking, back flips, the works.
The wife turned to husband and said:
"See that guy? 25 years ago he proposed to me and I turned him down."
Husband replys, "Looks like he's still celebrating"!!!

■ EYES
I was talking to a fat lass with huge breasts last night.
"My eyes are up here..." I said, as she looked down at the kebab in my hand.

■ LITERALLY
The missus left a note on the telly for me, "Its not working, I'm leaving"....
I plugged it in, turned it on, absolutely nothing wrong with it...

■ DEEP
Any organisation is like a tree full of monkeys, all on different limbs at different levels.
Some monkeys are climbing up, some down.
The monkeys on top look down and see a tree full of smiling faces.
The monkeys on the bottom look up and see nothing but assholes.

■ GROANER
My girlfriend has run off with a tractor driver. She couldn't tell me to my face , sent me one of those John Deere letters!

CAPRICORN DEC 22 - JAN 19

You never thought you'd be the type to laugh at the old pie-in-the-face gag, but that was before you found a recipe for ball-bearing-and-glass pie.

AQUARIUS JAN 20 – FEB 18

Try and get back to basics this week. Learning to dress yourself, brush your teeth, and eat with utensils would be a good place to start.

PISCES FEB 19 – MAR 20

Nothing you've ever been through has prepared you for how much you miss Kate. Every other time you've missed people either somewhat more or a little less, so this time is new.

ARIES MAR 21 – APR 20

It's not the hammer of life that's going to beat you down this week, but the ladle of Kathy Clodmeyer, who is frankly sick of you asking for more gravy.

TAURUS APR 21 – MAY 21

If nothing else, next week will certainly be a lesson to you about listening to Dan when he gives you advice about good sources of all-natural fiber.

GEMINI MAY 22 – JUNE 21

They'll say it's for your own good, but you really don't see how this much electricity running through your genitals could possibly be beneficial.

CANCER JUN 22 – JUL 22

Learn to appreciate the little things in life, because the big things will either cost more than you have or take more time than you've got left.

LEO JUL 23 – AUG 22

Jealousy will rear its ugly head in your life next week, look around, blink, burst out laughing, and then tell Envy, Lust, and Greed to get a load of how pathetic you are.

VIRGO AUG 23 – SEP 22

Your growing belief that there are monsters in the closet wouldn't be a concern if you weren't in command of so many main battle tanks.

LIBRA SEP 23 – OCT 23

It's true that animals like you, but that's mostly because you're fat and slow and will be easy to cut from the herd when your time comes.

SCORPIO OCT 24 – NOV 21

It's true they say that all's fair in love and war, but actually, the use of hollow-point ammunition and mustard gas is banned in both.

SAGITTARIUS NOV 22 – DEC 21

The doctors will claim you're only coming in for a routine checkup, but as soon as you're through the door, your archenemy's theme music will ring across the operating theatre.

UPCOMING

Hua Hin Jazz Festival - still no concrete information on this and now the Tourist Authority of Thailand in Prachuap Kiri Khan have changed from 'it might be the second weekend in June' to 'maybe in August'. One official even told us that it has been cancelled, while another said that 'it might be in the next couple of months' and not a single soul can say who is meant to be organising it. Whatever the reason for this situation, it is terrible for the image of the town and will lead people to think that the people in charge are incompetent.

■ USA US government denies mermaids exist after documentary mix-up

There is currently no proof to support the existence of mermaids, the US government has surprisingly announced.

The National Ocean Service (NOC), a scientific agency of the US Commerce Department, made the strange declaration this week after receiving several inquiries from members of the public.

It follows the airing of a programme on the Discovery Channel entitled: Mermaids: The Body Found, which several members of the public confused for a real-life documentary. The Discovery Channel admitted that some viewers mistook the programme for a science education show after it was accused of creating a 'wildly convincing picture of the existence of mermaids'.

To clear up the matter, the NOC decided to publish an article on the Ocean Facts section of its website simply entitled: 'Are mermaids real?' The article continued: 'No evidence of aquatic humanoids has ever been found. Why, then, do they occupy the collective unconscious of nearly all seafaring peoples? That's a question best left to historians, philosophers, and anthropologists.'

■ PHILADELPHIA, USA Cash-strapped and 'slightly used' school puts itself up for sale on eBay

A cash-strapped high school has thought of a novel way to raise some much-needed funds after putting itself up for sale on eBay.

Bidding started at $600,000 (£380,000) for The Learning Center in Langhorne, which is struggling financially after a series of severe budget cuts. Described as being 'pre-owned' and 'slightly used' on the online auction site, principal Jo Ann Holland hopes the listing will grab the attention of a wealthy benefactor.

While the winning bidder will not technically own the facility, which is part of the Neshaminy School District, they will, in return, be given a 'naming opportunity' and the chance to deliver a graduation speech. Other perks of buying the facility include receiving a personalised school coffee mug, free large pizza and the satisfaction of 'delivering an education to a group of kids who could really use it'. Bidding ended on Wednesday.

FANTASY FOOTBALL - EURO 2012

FINAL TABLE

	Team	MD	TOT
1	Celtic Reserves	59	313
2	Event Horizon Int.	47	271
3	LOST CAFE	60	263
4	Kee Mao	24	246
5	AWOL Wanderers	45	244
6	Dunne's Destroyers	21	186

A commanding victory by Celtic Reserves that matches the performance by Spain in becoming Euro 2012 Champions, so congratulations to both; if the winning manager would care to contact us (call 081 649 8361 or email info@awolonline.net) we will happily share (and pay for!) a celebratory drink or two, and if they want to bask in the glory we can also put their picture in a future issue of AWOL.

We will be running our usual Fantasy League for the coming Premier League season, and details will appear here when the game is ready.

BORING, BORING SPAIN

SPAIN SHOW BORING INABILITY TO BE RUBBISH

■ KIEV, UKRAINE

EURO 2012 winners Spain have come under more fire for showing a reluctance to mix things up by being bad at football.

After winning their third tournament in a row, the side's brand of possession trophy-keeping has had pundits longing for the more traditional style of 11 people who have no idea what they are doing.

Footballologist Wayne Hayes said: "Spain have put FIFA12 onto 'Beginner' mode, they've selected Carlisle as their opposition and they've chosen to play as, well, Spain. Yawn.

"They've done this by tediously investing in a long-term strategy of training youth players to focus on technique, ball control and teamwork. Well, anybody could do that, couldn't they? Obviously England won't because it's much more interesting for the fans to watch a constant procession of grinding mediocrity."

He added: "Spain were only able to score a succession of brilliantly crafted goals because

Italy got so bored they just nodded off."

Meanwhile, the defeated finalists will come to terms with their loss by sitting in stunning hillside villas staring wistfully across a sunkissed landscape, the Italian FA has confirmed.

The side were heavily beaten by a Spanish team that will take their winner's medals home to a land of equally breathtaking beauty but with slightly inferior cheese, much to the consolation of the Italians.

Manager Cesare Prandelli said: "It was always hard for the lads, coming into the final as beautifully-chiselled, stylish and wealthy underdogs but I think by the World Cup they'll come back stronger, better and more irresistibly handsome."

The conclusion of Euro 2012 means television schedules may now dip below the danger level of 90% sport, leaving desperate viewers with just Wimbledon, Formula 1, the Tour de France and 24-hour cricket.

Experts have urged the public to go to their local park and video themselves playing badminton until the beginning of the Olympic cycling events.
