ABSENT WITHOUT LEAVE FOR THE EXPAT IN ALL OF US
What's happening, and might be happening, in and around Hua Hin

YOU AIN'T SEEN NOTHING YET!

IT'S ALL FOR CHARITY, MATE!

■ HUA HIN, THAILAND

Local radio shows aimed at an English speaking audience have come and gone over the years, for varying reasons but predominantly the difficulty the foreign DJs had in obtaining the necessary paperwork.

Now a phoenix has risen from the flames and a new permanent radio show, in English, is being broadcast every day on Hua Hin Sky Web Radio, frequency 98.25 FM. The show is on live between three and four o'clock every afternoon, and recorded re-runs will be aired at other times. Anyone who wishes to see the show in action just has to head down to Market Village and go to the third floor - the DJ booth is next to the escalators nearest to the cinema. The broadcasts will also be available via the radio station's website at www.huahinskyweb.net.

The DJ in question is Phil, from the UK, who also sings in the band at Music Station (see ad page 2), and can be found there every night from 7pm onwards. His radio show is currently focusing on the myriad of charity work being done in and around the town, and he encourages anyone involved in a good cause to come down and talk about it on air.

AWOL is fully supportive of this, and would equally like to encourage anyone involved in such work to tell us about it, so we can feature your organisation in the paper. When possible we will give regular space in the paper to promote worthy causes, as well as give front page coverage to fund raising events.

DJ Phil has also just informed us of a special offer - anyone who turns up at the booth in Market Village during his show will get a voucher for a free small beer, cocktail or short at Music Station! So get yourself down to Market Village between three and four, get your voucher and request "an all time classic of all time" while you're at it! That's poptastic, and quite literally a free offer in a get something for nothing type way...

■ Do you wonder why we say certain things, or what they really mean? Each week we will examine a different word or phrase and tell you how it came about.

This week it is... Full tilt

At top speed; with maximum energy.

When we describe something as 'tilted' we usually mean 'inclined at an angle' and it could be said to be at 'full tilt' when it was about to topple over. The expression 'full tilt' is most often heard these days in regard to the Full Tilt poker game. Of course, that isn't the origin of the term, although the source is related to another type of poker - the lance used in medieval jousting.

Tilt derives from the Old English word tealt or tylte, meaning to totter unsteadily. It isn't surprising that tilting was the early name for jousting, as the sport involves two knights on horseback charging at each other and trying to topple their opponent off his horse. This is the same meaning of tilt as in the eponymous hero's 'tilting at windmills' in Cervantes' Don Quixote.

The earliest references to 'the joust' (or 'just') come from the 13th century and the alternative name 'the tilt' three centuries later. Henry Ellis edited a 19th century work called Original Letters Illustrative of English History. In that he printed a letter, dated 1511, which includes this text:

"Knightes shall present themself... in harneys for the Tylte."

The History of Tom Thumb, dated around 1600, contains the earliest reference to 'full tilt':

"The cook was running on full tilt, When Tom fell from the air."

The 19th century expression, 'full pelt' now has virtually the same meaning as 'full tilt'. To pelt is to attack by vigorously throwing things at someone. Oddly though, 'full pelt' doesn't mean 'throw as fast as possible' but 'run as fast as possible', especially when making an attack. Thomas Hood's poem The Tale of a Trumpet, circa 1845, contains the earliest known record of this:

Just fancy a horse that comes full pelt
But as quiet as if he was shod with felt

■ CANADA/USA Flea times tables as scientists teach insects how to count

Fruit flies have been taught how to count in a study that could explain why some people are bad at maths.

Geneticists repeatedly subjected the insects to a test designed to teach them numerical skills and finally hit on a generation of flies that could count – after 40 attempts.

The findings could pinpoint the genetics of dyscalculia – a learning disability that affects a person's ability to count and do basic arithmetic.

Tristan Long, a geneticist who worked on the study, said: 'The obvious next step is to see how the flies' neuro-architecture has changed' – though he admitted more work was needed to find out what the results actually mean and whether similar patterns could be found in humans.

Scientists taught the flies to count by exposing them to flashes of light during 20-minute laboratory tests.

The insects were left alone every time three flashes were made – but two or four flashes coincided with a shake of the box where the fruit flies lived.

The first 39 generations of flies were unable to prepare themselves for the shakes – failing to link the stimulation with the number of flashes of light.

Yet the 40th generation recognised that two or four flashes would result in them being roughed about, and they reared themselves in preparation for the disturbance, scientists reported.

The findings back up the theory that numerical skills such as mental arithmetic are ancient constructs.

The flies can now be added to the list of species to have developed numerical skills, including fish, chicks and bees, says the study which was carried out by the Wilfrid Laurier University, Canada, and the University of California.

■ GLASGOW, SCOTLAND Pepe the parrot annoys neighbours by screeching taxi bookings

Pepe the parrot has long-suffering neighbours spitting feathers because he keeps screeching taxi bookings he picked up from his former home in a cab office.

The yellow-headed Amazon shouts things such as 'taxi for Lidl', 'car one' and '10-4', said owner John McAlinden, from Glasgow.

The 55-year-old got in trouble after the bird, which was given to him by a friend recently, annoyed neighbours.

'It's like living in a cab office,' he said. 'It's hilarious. He also uses industrial language, which is a bit near the knuckle. Hopefully he's learned his lesson and will settle down a bit. I think he may have become stressed by his move but I'm now giving him some drops to try to calm him down.'

Mr McAlinden's daughter Simone added Pepe was 'very cheeky' after they received a visit from the law.

A Strathclyde police spokeswoman said: 'We were contacted on Thursday July 5 by a member of the public who had made a complaint about noise. 'Officers attended and it was quickly ascertained that the culprit was indeed a parrot. The owner was given advice and no further action was taken.'

■ FOUR WORMS IN CHURCH (thanks to Karl)

Four worms and a lesson to be learned!!!!
A minister decided that a visual demonstration would add emphasis to his Sunday sermon.
Four worms were placed into four separate jars.
The first worm was put into a container of alcohol.
The second worm was put into a container of cigarette smoke.
The third worm was put into a container of chocolate syrup.
The fourth worm was put into a container of good clean soil.
At the conclusion of the sermon, the Minister reported the following results:
The first worm in alcohol . . . . . Dead .
The second worm in cigarette smoke . . . Dead .
Third worm in chocolate syrup . . . . Dead.
Fourth worm in good clean soil . . . Alive .
So the Minister asked the congregation,
"What did you learn from this demonstration?"
Maxine was sitting in the back, quickly raised her hand and said . . .
"As long as you drink, smoke and eat chocolate, you won't have worms!"
That pretty much ended the service!

■ UNDERSTANDING WOMEN (A Man's Perspective)

I know I'm never going to understand women.
I'll never understand how you can take boiling hot wax, pour it onto your upper thigh, rip the hair out by the root, and still be afraid of a spider.

■ WHAT'S IN THE BOX? (thanks again to Karl)

A little old lady went to the grocery store to buy cat food. She picked up four cans and took them to the check-out counter.
The girl at the cash register said, "I'm sorry, but we cannot sell you cat food without proof that you have a cat. A lot of old people buy cat food to eat, and the management wants proof that you are buying the cat food for your cat."
The little old lady went home, picked up her cat and brought it back to the store. They sold her the cat food.
The next day, she tried to buy two cans of dog food. Again the cashier said "I'm sorry, but we cannot sell you dog food without proof that you have a dog. A lot of old people buy dog food to eat, but the management wants proof that you are buying the dog food for your dog."
So she went home and brought in her dog. She then was able to buy the dog food.
The next day she brought in a box with a hole in the lid. The little old lady asked the cashier to stick her finger in the hole.
The cashier said, "No, you might have a snake in there."
The little old lady assured her that there was nothing in the box that would harm her. So the cashier put her finger into the box and pulled it out. She said to the little old lady, "That smells like shit."
The little old lady said, "It is. I want to buy three rolls of toilet paper."

DON'T MISS THIS WEEK

'Art On The Way' Art Exhibition by Green Gallery and V64 Art Studio at The Living Room Bistro on Saturday 14th July from 6pm (opposite Coco 51); free bar until 8pm, plus live music.

UPCOMING

Hua Hin Jazz Festival - still no concrete information on this and now the Tourist Authority of Thailand in Prachuap Kiri Khan have changed from 'it might be the second weekend in June' to 'maybe in August'. One official even told us that it has been cancelled, while another said that 'it might be in the next couple of months' and not a single soul can say who is meant to be organising it. Whatever the reason for this situation, it is terrible for the image of the town and will lead people to think that the people in charge are incompetent.

YOURSTARS

THERE'S A CURRY IN YOUR FUTURE AT S&S

Soi 94 S & S INDIAN RESTAURANT
Curries from only 75 baht
Eat in or Takeaway 081 455 5298

CAPRICORN DEC 22 - JAN 19

It's not right to tell someone you could make a better bowl of chili with your asshole. Be the better person and show them how.

AQUARIUS JAN 20 – FEB 18

You will cry because you have no shoes, until you see one of those guys who wears fingerless gloves everywhere. Then you'll think, Jesus Christ, at least you're not that guy.

PISCES FEB 19 – MAR 20

The stars say to hold tight. Your life is about to undergo a dramatic change. Feel free to interpret that as a hopeful statement if you like.

ARIES MAR 21 – APR 20

Remember, taking drugs is no way to be cool and have fun. Selling drugs is the way to be cool and have fun.

TAURUS APR 21 – MAY 21

There's almost certainly a more efficient way to get through life, but by this point you're pretty used to just following any old conga line that goes by.

GEMINI MAY 22 – JUNE 21

Someday you'll find you're no longer capable of working 60 hours a week just to scrape by, which is probably when you'll finally get a job.

CANCER JUN 22 – JUL 22

The stars aren't sure what's worse: that you keep insisting you're the inspiration for the lizard in the insurance commercials, or that it's true and you seem to take such pride in it.

LEO JUL 23 – AUG 22

The very heavens themselves shall bestow their benevolence upon you this week, allowing you to take 15 percent off selected entrées at a popular chain of restaurants.

VIRGO AUG 23 – SEP 22

You were sure your long, hellish ordeal was finally over, but it turns out it was renewed for another season and you still can't stop watching it.

LIBRA SEP 23 – OCT 23

You will be instrumental in disproving several popular theories next week, including the ideas that laughter is good for the soul and that a little fresh air never hurt anyone.

SCORPIO OCT 24 – NOV 21

A lot of people will be thinking about nothing but sex and violence all day, but you're the only one doing something about it.

SAGITTARIUS NOV 22 – DEC 21

The most difficult week of your life is coming up, but take heart: If you can get through that, you'll have something to remember during the next 1,872 uniformly boring weeks of your life.

SKIMPY BIKINIS BANNED BY BUTCH OLYMPIC LESBIANS

■ LONDON, ENGLAND

Women's beach volleyball players have been advised not to wear tight fitting bikinis at the 2012 London Olympics.

Athletes in the event have worn skimpy swimwear since the sport was introduced at the 1996 Olympics in Atlanta. Now the change has been made to reflect the cultural conventions of various participating countries and to deter English perverts from touching themselves whilst they are watching the action.

"Shorts of a maximum length of (1.18 inches) above the knee, and sleeved tops," will now be worn, according to the new IOC ruling.

"It's an attempt to broaden the diversity in the sport, which tends to be dominated by fit blonde Latvians and foxy Brazilians" said Olympic spokesperson Mabel Queen. 'There are also concerns that the icy cold and wet British summer weather may have some spectators mistaking competitors for coat hooks", Ms. Queen added.

Left: British stars Sandy Clunge and Fanny Growler

Members of the public voiced their concern at the clampdown after the qualifying tournament took place at Crouch End last week.

"I had my night vision goggles and chloroform confiscated by a pair of butch Canadian lesbians" said Eric Nonce, a QPR supporter from Dorking.

The retired Surrey vicar was also reprimanded by his wife for staring at a hairy Turkish girl for 4 minutes and 33 seconds. He was later ejected from the arena and put on a register with other offenders from the Home Counties after constantly clapping as the Iranian women picked up the ball when the play was over.

Tickets to watch the women's beach volleyball became unavailable immediately after they went on sale, although it has been rumoured that some will be made available on condition that people also buy some for the mens beach volleyball, whose sales have so far been 'sluggish'.
