QUEEN'S CUP TRIATHLON IN KAO TAO BRINGS OLYMPIC SPIRIT TO TOWN

HUA HIN, THAILAND

Do you fancy emulating some of the sportsmen and women currently gracing our screens at the London Olympics? Or would you like to experience some real life spectator action at a sporting event in the Hua Hin area? With the 2012 Olympic Games currently focusing the eyes of the world on amazing sporting feats and endeavours, the annual Queen's Cup Hua Hin International Triathlon 2012 couldn't have come at a better time. The races will be held on Sunday 19th August from 7am, with both a duathlon and a triathlon taking place.

Created to celebrate Her Majesty the Queen's 80th birthday, this is the fourth year of the event which will start and finish from the picturesque fisherman's village of Baan Tao Kao, located 10km south of Hua Hin. It is set to become one of the largest Triathlons in South East Asia, with an expected attendance of 500 racers from around the world.

The triathlon will consist of a 1500 metre swim, followed by a 41 kilometre bike ride and a 12 kilometre run, while the duathlon has a 5 kilometre run in place of the swim. The routes for the swim and the runs are around the Kao Tao vicinity, while the bike section will take the competitors south past Pak Nam Pran before looping north again.

There are both individual and team competitions, with trophies and prize money, with a total sum of 200,000 baht to be given out. Every finishing athlete will receive a medal and the winners will of course be presented with the Queen's Cup.

More information about the races, routes, rules and registration can be found on the website devoted to the event at www.huahintriathlon.com.

DRIVING YOU MAD

TIPS FOR ROAD USERS IN THAILAND

Welcome to an occasional column offering advice and tips for anyone using the roads in Thailand. Some of them will be serious, others somewhat tongue in cheek, but all of them are borne out of experience. This first edition features some information that will crop up again, and is essential for using the roads here.

Possibly the most important thing any visitor or newcomer to the roads in Thailand should be aware of is to discard any previous notions of how things are done in your own country or other road using experiences. While on paper the traffic laws are very similar to other countries, the practical application is not. There is also an incredible inconsistency in both enforcement and how people use the roads. The first piece of advice that we would give also applies to driving everywhere else, but is much more important in Thailand, and that is to regard all other road users as complete and utter idiots and expect them to do absolutely anything at any time. This is not to say that all other road users ARE complete and utter idiots - lets just say we have to work on the basis of the lowest common denominator.

Things you will probably witness that will demonstrate why this approach is needed are as follows:

- Vehicles of all kinds and sizes driving towards you on your side of the road, particularly motorbikes;
- Vehicles driving the wrong way down a one way street;
- Use of mirrors - remember that mirrors are only used to check make up and hair, if at all;
- Pedestrians walking straight across a road without looking;
- Vehicles and people attempting to cross a railway line when the barriers are coming down and a train is approaching;
- Vehicles, particularly motorcycles, driving at night either without lights at all, or with the front light completely obscured by whatever is in their front basket (normally their crash helmet!);
- Use of mobile phones - the ability to talk on the phone while riding a motorbike and simultaneously balancing large shopping bags is a sacred artform here, and extra points are awarded for having children either riding on or driving the bike.

If you have witnessed ridiculous road use in Thailand, please tell us about it by sending an email to submissions@awolonline.net

■ Do you wonder why we say certain things, or what they really mean? Each week we will examine a different word or phrase and tell you how it came about.

This week it is... Damp squib

Something that fails ignominiously to satisfy expectations; an anti-climax, a disappointment.

The first thing to say about the expression 'damp squib' is that is is 'squib', not 'squid'. Squid are a species of cephalopod. In their natural environment squid are usually damp but that's as near to this phrase as they are likely to get.

A squib is a form of firework, usually cylindrical in shape with a paper fuse at one end, which provides a mild explosion - think 'dynamite lite'. Clearly, fireworks work best when they are dry. Anyone who, at a backyard bonfire, has lit the blue touch paper and retired only to see the firework phut and fizzle out will know the disappointment of a damp squib.

In the 16th century, 'squibs' were also short, sharp literary compositions of a satirical or sarcastic character. Both the 'firework' meaning and the 'satire' meaning are first found in print in the 1520s and it isn't entirely clear which came first.

The first use found of the expression being used figuratively certainly derives from the 'firework' meaning. That is in the London newspaper The Morning Post, March 1837, in a complimentary article about the British parliamentarian George Grote:

Mr. Grote is a nice man. We rather like Mr. Grote. Mr. Grote does not vote black white; or fiz and splutter, after the fashion of a damp squib.

'Squib' isn't a word that we find ourselves using very often, hence the erroneous 'damp squid' isn't difficult to find in print, for example, this piece from the Trinidad & Tobago Express, June 2005:

I imagine the excitement will last for another few weeks before it peters out into a damp squid...

■ MANCHESTER, ENGLAND NHS health and safety chiefs ban 'dangerous' metal paper clips

The future of the humble metal paper clip is under threat after being banned by NHS health and safety officials for being 'too dangerous'. Manchester NHS Trust officials made the decision to stop the use of the metal stationary item after a member of staff cut their finger using one.

In a memo to staff, it was warned that the use of metal fasteners was 'prohibited' and the offending clips must be 'carefully disposed of immediately'.

'Due to recent incidents, NHS Manchester has decided to immediately withdraw the use of metal paper fasteners,' explained the memo featuring an accompanying picture of a paper clip - just to avoid any confusion. 'Please ensure any that remain in use be replaced by similar plastic fasteners. The use of metal fasteners is prohibited and must be carefully disposed of immediately. Thank you for your co-operation.'

The clips have been banned from the city's GP surgeries, clinics and offices in favour of a plastic alternative.

However, a member of staff told the Manchester Evening News: 'It is ridiculous. They're vaguely sharp, like drawing pins and fountain pens. I can only assume top brass think that they've employed idiots who need nannying through the working day.'

■ THE WORLD World's laziest countries named in new poll featuring Britain

British people are among the laziest in the world, according to a new poll that has ranked countries in terms of idleness. A massive 63.3 per cent of the UK population was found to be inactive, making it the eighth laziest country out of the 122 ranked.

Meanwhile, Greece was seen to be the least lazy country in the study, with just 15 per cent of its people being inactive. Across the pond, the US is a lot less lazy than Brits may believe, coming 46th laziest.

People were classed as inactive if they did not get around 2.5 hours of moderate activity per week. Malta was given the top spot for idleness, with 71.9 per cent of citizens classed as inactive, with Swaziland (69 per cent) and Saudi Arabia (68.8 per cent) rounding out the top three.

Serbia, Argentina, Micronesia and Kuwait were all categorised as lazier than Britain, while the United Arab Emirates and Malaysia took the ninth and tenth spots.

Overall, women ranked lower than men in the study, with the highest percentage of inactive women being discovered in countries where they do not tend to work like Saudi Arabia.

■ NEWQUAY, ENGLAND Underage drinker caught using Rodney Trotter fake ID card

It was a flawed plan that would have Del Boy screaming 'You plonker!' after an underage drinker attempted to enter a pub using a Rodney Trotter fake ID.

The drunken youngster was barred from entering the Newquay Arms, after he pulled out the suspect driving licence last Saturday. Featuring a photograph of actor Nicholas Lyndhurst, who played Rodney in Only Fools and Horses, the card quickly aroused suspicions among amused door staff.

If Rodney's instantly recognisable face wasn't enough of a giveaway, then the address on the card, listed as Nelson Mandela House in Peckham, certainly was.

Another clue was the age listed on the comical ID which claimed the teenager was 52.

'I was there when he turned up,' explained the pub's manager, who didn't want to be named. 'He was a bit drunk, he handed over the ID and I looked at it and then scanned it to double check it was fake and then I noticed the picture.

'It had Rodney Trotter's picture and I said to him "so this is you?" and he just said "yeah yeah yeah". Then I asked him his date of birth and he said it. Then I told him it didn't match the one that was on the ID. I made the doormen UV the ID just to wind him up really and they started giggling and playing along with him.'

Local police Inspector Ian Drummond-Smith said the fake ID, which can be bought online for £2.99, could have landed him in jail. He said: 'Lucky for him he'd left before police arrived, as possessing a forged driving licence can attract two years' imprisonment. 'We have seized 13 forged IDs so far this season but even we saw the funny side of this one. I don't think it would ever have worked.'

■ PROWLER

Couldn't sleep so got up at 3am for a drink.
Stood in the kitchen in darkness, I suddenly noticed a man prowling in next door's garden.
Before I could react, my neighbour ran across the lawn and hit the prowler with a shovel.
I stood in astonished silence, watching as he immediately proceeded to start digging an impromptu grave in the garden with the blood-splattered shovel.
I almost jumped out of my skin as my half-asleep wife stole up to me and snuggled up behind me.
"What's up darling? You're shaking," she said wearily.
"You won't believe this babe. That guy next door, cheeky git's had my shovel all along!" I fumed.

■ OLYMPICS

The UK didn't get off to the best of starts with the Olympics, what with the Korean flag debacle. But at least they got the Swiss flag right, which is a big plus.

I'm sick of all these Olympic athletes going on about how hard they train and all their sacrifices.
What do they want, a medal?

Usain Bolt runs at 31mph which sounds good, but if he hits a child there's a 40% chance they'll die...

Heard a piece of music on the telly last night, didn't recognise it so used an app on my phone to identify it …….turned out to be the Australian national anthem!

Olympic Update ....the Romanians have taken Gold, Silver and Bronze, plus Copper, Steel, Brass and Lead from the Olympic Stadium in London!!

■ GIRLS NIGHT OUT

Two women friends had gone out for a Girls Night Out, and had far too many cocktails.
Completely trollied and staggering home, as no taxi driver would stop for them, they suddenly realized they both needed to pee. They were very near a graveyard and one of them suggested they slip behind a headstone or something.
The first woman had nothing to wipe with so she took off her lucky trapping pants , used them and threw them away. Her friend however was wearing pricey Victoria's Secret and didn't want to ruin hers, so she grabbed a large ribbon from a wreath on a nearby grave and proceeded to wipe herself with it. After finishing, they made their way home.
The next day the first woman's husband phones the other husband and said,
"These bloody girls nights out have got to stop. My wife came home last night reeking of gin and gone Commando !"
"Too right mate " said the other. "That's nothing - Mine came back with a sympathy card stuck between the cheeks of her butt that said,
'From all of us at the Fire Station, We'll never forget you!'

DON'T MISS THIS WEEK

Putahracsa Oceanside Beach Club & Restaurant – Fiesta Latina: every Friday Night with Déjà Vu at Oceanside Restaurant with Best Dancer, Raffle, Salsa Dancing and Latino food for THB 699++ per person throughout August

UPCOMING

Hua Hin Jazz Festival - still no concrete information on this and now the Tourist Authority of Thailand in Prachuap Kiri Khan have changed from 'it might be the second weekend in June' to 'maybe in August'. One official even told us that it has been cancelled, while another said that 'it might be in the next couple of months' and not a single soul can say who is meant to be organising it. Whatever the reason for this situation, it is terrible for the image of the town and will lead people to think that the people in charge are incompetent.

ONGOING

FEATURED GAME

SATURDAY 11 AUGUST 2012
SCOTTISH THIRD DIVISION
Balmoor Stadium, Peterhead, Scotland
Peterhead v Rangers 18:45
This is our featured game this week for a host of reasons, but seeing how the mighty have fallen, and their attempts to climb up again will be compelling viewing over the next few seasons, and for Celtic fans, an absolute joy. Rangers thumped East Fife from the division above 4 - 0 in the Scottish League Cup in the week in front of about 40,000 fans, but this game will only be attended by the maximum 4,000 capacity, something the Gers will have to get used to. Expect them to storm the division and almost every game including this one.

FANTASY PREMIER LEAGUE

IT'S BACK! The AWOL Challenge is up and running again - anyone who was in the league last season will automatically be entered again this new season once they re-register with the same log in, and new players are more than welcome to join up.

New players should go to http://fantasy.premierleague.com/ and sign up to the main game, then once your team has been set, click on 'Leagues' and then 'Join A League'; the code to join the AWOL Challenge is

165133-47924

Each week we will print a league table showing the top players in the AWOL Challenge, and you will also be able to follow your progress in both this league and the main competition on the Premier League website. You can join as many other private or public leagues as you want, or even set up your own mini league.

HAVE YOU GOT A LIGHT, BOY?

OLYMPIANS BLASTED FOR SMOKING OUTSIDE STADIUM

■ LONDON, ENGLAND

OLYMPIC athletes including Mo Farah and Jessica Ennis have been reprimanded for smoking near the main entrance to Olympic Park.

Cigarette smoking is strictly forbidden inside the complex, so a group of competitors had taken to gathering by the bins outside the main gate.

Multiple gold medallist Mo Farah said: "When you've got the hopes and dreams of a nation on your shoulders, that's when you really need a fag.

"Personally it's the only thing that sorts me out before a race."

LOCOG staff confiscated cigarettes and smoking paraphenalia including Andy Murray's briar pipe from competitors gathered in the area dubbed 'faggers' corner'.

Farah said: "Lord Coe reckons it gives the wrong impression if we're smoking out the front because kids in the queue can see us, but so what? The fans like to see our human side.

Left: Mo Farah coughs up a lung after enduring more than an hour without a smoke

"When I was twelve I saw Daley Thompson having a cig outside a stadium and because of how cool he looked I decided to take up athletics."

Heptathlon winner Jessica Ennis, who has since quit the Olympics so she can smoke unmolested, said: "Last week I only had roll-ups and I really wanted a straight. This amazing hurdler from Finland offered me one and we got chatting, now we're friends.

"Smoking brings people together, which should be what the Olympics is all about."

Doctor Stephen Malley said: "There is some evidence that cigarettes are detrimental to the health but it has never been proved.

"They're definitely nice though, once you get past the initial coughing stage, so smoking is probably a good thing to do.
