THE ELEPHANT MEN

KING'S CUP ELEPHANT POLO RETURNS

HUA HIN, THAILAND

The highly popular King's Cup Elephant Polo tournament is celebrating its eleventh anniversary this year, taking place from Wednesday 12th to Sunday 16th September at the Suriyothai Army Base approximately 20 minutes from the town centre.

With free admission for everyone, spectators can rub shoulders with European and Asian royalty, international sporting stars and local celebrities. The event includes a spectacular opening parade through the main streets of Hua Hin, Thailand's last 'elephant spirit men' (Kru Ba Yai), traditional dancers, a baby elephant camp and fun fair and a wide range of food and beverage outlets to tantalise the taste buds.

The tournament this year will see the New Zealand All Black's Robin Brooke, Olo Brown and Adrian Cashmore go head to head with European royals Prince Carl-Eugen Oettingen-Wallerstein and his wife Princess Anna and daughter Princess Joanna. Miss Tiffany Thailand will also be playing in the tournament for the first time adding a hint of fun and a lot of colour.

International and local celebrities, including US actress Isabelle Fuhrman, Former Thai PM Aphisit Vejjajiva, super models Cindy Bishop, Lukkade Methinee and Australian Marie Claire's Editor in Chief Jackie Frank have all painted a piece of "The Big Picture" elephant-themed painting which will be auctioned off for charity at the final gala dinner.

The tournament was introduced to Thailand in 2001 by Anantara Hotels, Resorts & Spas and has grown to become one of the biggest charitable events in Thailand and has raised almost US$500,000 for projects that better the lives of Thailand's elephant population.

DRIVING YOU MAD

TIPS FOR ROAD USERS IN THAILAND

Welcome to an occasional column offering advice and tips for anyone using the roads in Thailand. Some of them will be serious, others somewhat tongue in cheek, but all of them are borne out of experience. This week we look at u-turns and traffic lights.

The Thai road system is an odd combination of the British and American models, with the obvious example of Britishness being driving on the left, while the US shows up in several ways, most notably that (in most cases) you are allowed to turn at a red light (obviously this is turn right in the USA but in Thailand turn left). Signs are sometimes present advising drivers that they either can or can't 'turn on red', and sometimes these signs are in English as well. Hua Hin has become a confusing place in the last couple of years in this regard, with the main traffic light controlled junctions originally allowing drivers to turn left on red, and then signs went up prohibiting it, and then they came down again, and then on some junctions they appeared again...we think you get the picture! Of course drivers from other parts of Thailand who are used to being able to turn, often pull up behind someone who is stationary in the nearside lane at one of these junctions where it is prohibited (but not necessarily with a sign!) and will give the stationary car a blast or two on their horn. We are unsure how many drivers get stopped by police for turning on red in Hua Hin, but for foreigners it is always better to be safe than sorry. Motorbikes of course, as always, are exempted from this.

As for u-turns at the spots designated on divided highways, Hua Hin again seems at odds with the rest of Thailand, presumably in some sort of giant experiment in traffic management. Many of you will have noticed that a number of u-turns are permanently blocked off, particularly on the stretch south of Market Village, while the one that is normally open has a fluctuating cone situation - sometimes one is allowed to use the designated lane to u-turn, sometimes traffic is forced to do so from the 'fast' lane.

Of course the most interesting (read: frustrating) time to drive in the town centre is on a holiday weekend, when all u-turns are prohibited along with all right turns at junctions on the main road!

If any reader has been able to work out what the idea behind this is, please send an explanation by email to submissions@awolonline.net

■ Do you wonder why we say certain things, or what they really mean? Each week we will examine a different word or phrase and tell you how it came about.

This week it is... .Phrases from the Bible (final part)

The King James Version of the Bible has been enormously influential in the development of the English language. It ranks with the complete works of Shakespeare and the Oxford English Dictionary as one of the cornerstones of the recorded language. After Shakespeare, the King James, or Authorized, Version of the Bible is the most common source of phrases in English. Here is the final part of the many phrases that originated in the Bible (most, but not all from the King James Version):

It's better to give than to receive
Lamb to the slaughter
Let there be light
Love of money is the root of all evil
Love thy neighbour as thyself
Man does not live by bread alone
Manna from Heaven
Many are called but few are chosen
My cup runneth over
No rest for the wicked
Nothing new under the sun
O ye, of little faith
Out of the mouths of babes and sucklings
Patience of Job
Peace offering
Physician heal thyself
Pride goes before a fall
Put words in one's mouth
Put your house in order
Red sky at night; shepherds' delight
Reap the whirlwind
Set your teeth on edge
Sour grapes
Spare the rod, spoil the child
Strait and narrow
The apple of his eye
The blind leading the blind
The bread of life
The ends of the earth
The fruits of your loins
The Land of Nod
The letter of the law
The powers that be
The root of the matter
The salt of the earth
The spirit is willing but the flesh is weak
The wages of sin is death
The wisdom of Solomon
The writing is on the wall
Thorn in the flesh
To everything there is a season
Wash your hands of the matter
Weighed in the balance
Wheels within wheels
Woe is me

■ ELDGJA, ICELAND 'Lost' tourist joins police search and rescue operation... to find herself

An extensive police hunt to find a missing tourist in Iceland was called off this week after it turned out the lost woman had actually been looking for herself.

More than 50 people were involved in the extensive search and rescue operation around the volcanic region of Eldgja in Iceland's southern highlands on Saturday afternoon.

Police were called to the area after it was reported that a member of a tour party had failed to return to the bus after more than an hour.

Described as being 'of Asian origin, aged 20-30, about 160cm, wearing dark clothing and speaks fluent English', police say the tourist had failed to recognise the description of herself and had been on board the bus all along.

'She had no idea that she was missing,' explained one officer.

A failure to count the number of people on board, coupled with the fact the woman had changed her clothes and freshened up before getting back on the tour bus, had also contributed to the astonishing mix-up.

According to reports, a helicopter was also about to be sent to the area to assist the rescue operation before fog curtailed the plans.

The search was eventually called off at 3am after the missing woman was found alive and well with the rest of the tour party.

■ STOKE-ON-TRENT, ENGLAND Dozy policeman holds four suspects named 'Abu Dhabi' in passport mix-up

A police officer thought he had busted a fake passport gang after mistakenly believing all the suspects were named 'Abu Dhabi'.

The red-faced officer in Stoke-on-Trent confused the names on the passports with the country they flew to Britain from, according to Police magazine.

His suspicions were raised after noticing that all four men, held on suspicion of entering the UK illegally, were all called 'Abu Dhabi'.

Luckily the officer asked a colleague to take a second look at the passports before confronting the detained men.

'A local policing team was urgently tasked to check the identity and immigration status of four Iranian nationals who had recently entered the UK,' the magazine reported.

'On arriving the officer diligently checked the passport of the subjects, saying "This is highly suspicious - these documents must be false, they all have the same name - Abu Dhabi".'

The officer blamed the mix-up on forgetting his reading glasses, while the four men were released by cops, who found their passports were valid.

■ NEW YORK, USA Competitive eater scoffs 110 sausages in 10 minutes to set new world record

A champion eater has chomped his way to a new world record after devouring a whopping 110 sausages in 10 minutes.

Japanese competitive eater Takeru Kobayashi had little trouble wolfing down the mountain of wieners in front of a cheering crowd at New York State Fair on Sunday.

Despite his diminutive 5ft 4in frame and ripped torso, the 34-year-old's huge appetite has earned him a reputation as one of the most feared food competitors on the planet.

'I extend my stomach by drinking a lot of water. Right before this contest I just drink three gallons of water in one minute,' Kobayashi explained after his record-breaking effort.

Kobayashi, an official brand ambassador for New York hot dog maker Hofmann, is the current holder of four Guinness World Records for various eating accomplishments.

However he has been banned from competing in the premier International Hot Dog Eating Contest on Coney Island over a dispute with the competition's Major League Eating governing body.

KobayashI's imposed exile from the contest has seen his long-term rival Joey 'Jaws' Chestnut move level in the competition for consecutive wins.

Hoffman's chief executive Frank Zaccanelli now wants the pair to compete in a head-to-head contest to settle the dispute once and for all.

'We're going to chase Joey Chestnut down and find out who's the best,' said Zaccanelli. 'But we already know.'

■ CALIFORNIA, USA Jet-set wedding reaches new heights

A couple reached new heights as they got married while hovering over Newport Beach in California - wearing water powered jet packs.

Former wedding planner Amanda Volf, 25, from Grand Rapids, Michigan, said she wanted a unique ceremony.

So the couple donned the 90,000 US dollar contraptions on their backs, along with a wetsuit for groom Grant Engler and white board shorts and a rash-guard shirt for the bride.

■ ST.BERNARD

While leading the Friday evening services, the Rabbi noticed a member of the congregation, Bernie, walk in with a St. Bernard dog.

The Rabbi, horrified, asked the Cantor to continue the service and went to talk to Bernie.

Rabbi: "What are doing here with a dog?"

Bernie: "The dog came here to pray."

"Oh, come on." says the Rabbi.

"YES!" says Bernie.

Rabbi: "I don't believe you. You are just fooling around; that's not a proper thing to do in temple."

Bernie: "Its true!"..

"Ok", says the Rabbi, "then show me what the dog can do."

"OK" says Bernie nodding to the dog...The dog proceeds to open up the barrel under his neck and removes a yarmulke, a tallis (puts them on his head) and prayer book and actually starts saying prayers in Hebrew!

The Rabbi is so shocked he listens for a full 15 minutes. When the Rabbi regains his composure, he is so impressed with the quality of the praying he says to Bernie. "Do you think your dog would consider going to Rabbinical school????"

Bernie, throwing up his hands in disgust says,

"YOU TALK TO HIM! He wants to be a doctor!"

■ WALL CLOCK

One day a wife complained, "This wall clock almost killed my mother today. It fell only seconds after she got up from the couch."

The husband grunted and replied, "That darn clock always was slow."

■ MARRIAGE COUNSELLING

A husband and wife were at a party chatting with some friends when the subject of marriage counselling came up.

"Oh, we'll never need that. My wife and I have a great relationship," the husband explained. "She was a communications major in college and I majored in theatre arts." He continued, "She communicates well and I act like I'm listening."

■ ZEN MASTER

The Zen Master is visiting New York City from Tibet. He goes up to a hot dog vendor and says, "Make me one with everything."

The hot dog vendor fixes a hot dog and hands it to the Zen Master, who pays with a $20 bill.

The vendor puts the bill in the cash box and closes it.

"Where's my change?" asks the Zen Master.

The vendor responds, "Change must come from within."

■ EXPLOSION

There has been an explosion in a Japanese car parts warehouse in Sunderland. It's raining Datsun cogs.

■ RAPPIN'

I once went to MC Hammers house and he didn't let me touch anything.

CAPRICORN DEC 22 - JAN 19

You'll discover the secret of fire this week—namely that it can make your ex-wife pay for everything she's done to you.

AQUARIUS JAN 20 – FEB 18

Lately it seems as though you're running out of steam. Shovel more coal into your firebox to rotate the paddle wheel.

PISCES FEB 19 – MAR 20

When given a choice between tuna salad or egg salad this week, go with the egg salad. Just trust the stars on this one.

ARIES MAR 21 – APR 20

Running away from your problems will fail this week, as will climbing out of your problems' reach and playing dead in hopes that your problems go away.

TAURUS APR 21 – MAY 21

The stars indicate that you've really done it this time. I mean, just look around, for God's sake. How did this even happen?

GEMINI MAY 22 – JUNE 21

Your passionate lovemaking will wake up the neighbors this week, making it a lot harder for you to have sex with them.

CANCER JUN 22 – JUL 22

All you'll want for Christmas are your two front teeth, along with your four bottom incisors, the six molars at the back of your mouth, and whatever other bicuspids are missing.

LEO JUL 23 – AUG 22

You're about to make one woman very happy, and hundreds of thousands of other women extremely relieved.

VIRGO AUG 23 – SEP 22

Your face will soon be on the cover of every newspaper in town, thanks to a rather gruesome printing-press accident.

LIBRA SEP 23 – OCT 23

They say that you're going blind, that your vision is rapidly deteriorating, but don't worry: They are just a coatrack and hat.

SCORPIO OCT 24 – NOV 21

Frustration will be yours this week when an airliner spirals out of control and crashes into the ground every time you're about to speak.

SAGITTARIUS NOV 22 – DEC 21

Don't let other people influence your future. That's what a vague and arbitrary set of cosmic indicators is for.

FEATURED GAME

SUNDAY 2ND SEPTEMBER 2012
PREMIER LEAGUE
Liverpool v Arsenal 19:30
Anfield, Liverpool, England
It's not often that these sides meet when they are both in the bottom half of the table, and unlikely to be repeated often, if at all in the future. Liverpool are a work in progress, and by the time this game happens, may well have changed their squad significantly, although they look to be playing quite well. The goalless Gunners are not firing up front, but not conceding either, but we think both those stats will change here. These are always charged occasions, and it will be interesting to see Arsenal being faced by a similar style of play to themselves for once. We think the home side have the edge, barring Wenger making a last minute signing of a top striker, and so Liverpool to get their first win of the season.

FANTASY PREMIER LEAGUE

IT'S BACK! The AWOL Challenge is up and running again - anyone who was in the league last season will automatically be entered again this new season once they re-register with the same log in, and new players are more than welcome to join up.
New players should go to http://fantasy.premierleague.com/ and sign up to the main game, then once your team has been set, click on 'Leagues' and then 'Join A League'; the code to join the AWOL Challenge is

Each week we will print a league table showing the top players in the AWOL Challenge, and you will also be able to follow your progress in both this league and the main competition on the Premier League website. You can join as many other private or public leagues as you want, or even set up your own mini league.
Please note that the tables on this page do not include the result of the Chelsea v Reading match played after our print deadline.

WEIRD TIMES

FANS CONFUSED AS MAN UNITED PLAY ON SATURDAY AT 3PM

■ MANCHESTER, ENGLAND

Confusion reigned among Manchester United fans throughout this week, after United played a home game last Saturday against high flying Fulham.

Robin van Persie made his full debut at Old Trafford as United attempted to put Monday's defeat at Goodison Park behind them.

But the site of the Arsenal legend playing in United's shirt wasn't what was confusing the fans.

"A three o clock kick off? On a Saturday?" one fan spluttered. "We aren't used to that. We hardly ever play on a Saturday! It's just not natural."

"It'll be difficult for the team to adjust to such a weird kick off time," another said prior to the match. "Their body clocks will be all over the place. We aren't a Saturday afternoon team. Saturday lunchtime, maybe, but not Saturday afternoon. We're more of a Sunday afternoon or Monday night outfit. "

"It's obviously an FA conspiracy designed to throw us out of sync," another fan fumed. "They just don't want us to win anything. It's bad enough that we have lost Howard Webb to City but piling Saturday afternoon kick offs on as well is just too much."

Left: United fans protest about the number of Saturday afternoon kick offs they are being given this season

An analysis by our experts reveals that up to the end of November this year United will have to endure the huge total of FOUR Saturday three o'clock starts, and are apparently lobbying Sky extensively to ensure they don't get any more when the televised matches from December to the end of the season are decided.

Sir Alex Ferguson has previously spoken about this issue, saying "Ahm full o' admirashion for the teams that won the title before Sky came along with all o' their money and more convenient kick off times - how they did it and played three games a week, a squad of only eighteen and just three subs I rilly cannae believe it."

Rumours are afoot that Ferguson is now keen to sign referee Kevin Friend as a replacement for Howard Webb, following United's victory on Saturday, in what is likely to be a frantic last few days of the transfer window.
