STORMY WEATHER

LOY KRATONG WASHED OUT; OTHER EVENTS THREATENED BY UNSEASONAL WEATHER

■ HUA HIN, THAILAND

The annual festival of Loy Kratong was virtually a washout this week as the heavy rain and rough seas dampened both people's enthusiasm and their attempts to float their kratongs. The event is often accompanied by windy conditions but it is usually dry, and hundreds of street sellers of food, kratongs, nick nacks and novelties will have seen a dramatic effect on their takings.

Another event that could be adversely affected by the weather, although we hope not, is the annual Hua Hin Bike Week, taking place this year on Friday 30th November (today) and Saturday 1st December; this has also had a late venue change from it's usual place along the canal road to the area known as '19 Rai' or more formally as Queen Sirikit Park. It will be a big party regardless of the weather, with plenty of food, live music and of course hundreds of bikes, but we urge people to be careful of potential slippery conditions on the roads.

The inclement weather is forecast to continue intermittently over the next few days, possibly coming to an end just after the most auspicious holiday of the year, His Majesty The King's birthday on Wednesday December 5th. It should improve before then but apparently there is still a chance of some rain or thunderstorms. For next week's local forecast and tide times, plus a summary of national and international weather information, please turn to page four.

While we cannot give any analysis as to why the weather pattern has been so strange recently, it does seem likely that from next week on we will be looking at a virtually unbroken dry spell until at least the end of April, the norm for this area, when everyone will be begging for rain again!

■ GERMANY Lawyer's former lover 'tried to kill him with 38DD breasts'

A lawyer's former lover wanted to make his 'death as pleasant as possible' as she tried to smother him with her 38DD breasts, a court in Germany has heard.

Tim Schmidt, 30, claims 33-year-old Franziska Hansen wanted to kill him out of jealousy at his successful career. The lawyer alleges his ex tried to smother him with her breasts while 'pretending it was a sex game'.

Hansen has denied the charge of 'attempted manslaughter with a weapon'.

Mr Schmidt is quoted by the Daily Mail as telling the German court: 'The incident happened in May – we were having sex. She was sitting on me naked and I was kissing her breasts. Suddenly she grabbed my head and pushed between her breasts with all of her force. I couldn't breathe any more, I must have turned blue. I couldn't tear myself free and I thought I was going to die.'

The 30-year-old said he managed to eventually free himself and fled naked to a neighbour who instructed him to ring the police.

■ NORFOLK, ENGLAND Police mistake rotting bait box for corpse in fisherman's car

Police broke into a fisherman's car in Norfolk after mistaking a fly-ridden bait box for a rotting corpse, it has been claimed. George Wallis said his Chrysler Neon, parked in North Walsham, had its rear windscreen smashed before the officer involved realised his mistake. A passer-by had called 999 after becoming worried that a swarm of flies visible in the car hinted at grisly contents, but in fact the bluebottles had hatched from maggots in a bait box four days earlier. Police subsequently towed the car to Great Yarmouth, but Mr Wallis said he will have to pay for the car to be scrapped as he cannot afford the £150 towing fee or the £20-a-day storage charge. 'The police made my vehicle insecure by breaking into it, they should pay not me,' he told the Daily Telegraph. 'I can't afford to get it back, but I need a vehicle.'

Norfolk constabulary said, 'The officer had genuine concerns about what could have been in the vehicle.' The force added, 'If the owner feels they shouldn't pay, they can write to legal services at force headquarters.'

■ A section for all you budding etymologists where each week the origin of a word or phrase is investigated.

This week it is....The toast of the town

A person who is widely admired.

As we know, toast is browned bread. People began eating toast, or at least they began writing about it, in the 15th century. The first reference to it in print is in a recipe for a ghastly sounding concoction called Oyle Soppys (flavoured onions stewed in a gallon of stale beer and a pint of oil) that dates from 1430. Toast wasn't part of the recipe as such; the instructions were to serve the oyle soppys as "hote as tostes". Actually, our mediaeval ancestors didn't eat toast. Like batter on fried fish and pastry on Cornish pasties, which were originally just casings that were thrown away, toast was discarded rather than eaten after it was used as a flavouring for drinks. Lodowick Lloyd's text The Pilgrimage of Princes, 1573, describes this: Alphonsus tooke a toaste out of his cuppe, and cast it to the Dogge.

As well as a flavouring, toast was used to warm drinks and most of the early citations refer to toast being warm or hot. One of our oldest proverbs, as listed in John Heywood's invaluable 'A dialogue conteinyng the nomber in effect of all the prouerbes in the Englishe tongue', 1546, gives toast as a synonym for hotness: Love had appeerd in hym to her alwase Hotte as a toste.

Even as late as the 17th century people didn't eat toast but put it into drinks. Shakespeare wrote in The Merry Wives of Windsor, 1616: Go, fetch me a quart of Sacke, put a tost in 't.

It isn't hard to imagine that some 18th century culinary innovator, having a piece of toast and a drink served together, decided to eat the toast rather than submerging it. Jonathan Swift appears to be the first to have recorded this novelty in print in the poem Panegyrick on Dean, 1735: Sweeten your Tea, and watch your Toast.

As to 'the toast of the town', this came from the male drinking clubs of the early 18th century. The 'toast' was the woman who was regarded as the reigning belle of the season. The chaps were invited to flavour and heat their wine with hot spiced toasts and drink to 'the toast of the town'. The English Poet Laureate Colley Cibber wrote about 'toasting' in the comic play Careless Husband, 1705: Ay, Madam, it has been your Life's whole Pride of late to be the Common Toast of every Publick Table.

Later in the 1700s it became the norm for any celebrated person, male or female, to be applauded by a toast.

■ OBAMA

Barak Obama is having trouble sleeping one night, thinking about the worlds economic problems, the middle east and the war on terror, so he decides to take a walk around the White House portrait gallery.

He stops in front of Washington's portrait, "George," he says, "You were the founding father of our nation, how best can I help our country in these troubling times?"

A grey mist comes from the painting and coalesces into Washington's face, a voice says "Barak, go to congress."

A little more than shook up he continues.

He stops at Jefferson's portrait, "Tom," he says, "You were a great statesman, how can I best help our country in these troubling times?"

Again a mist ensues and a voice says, "Barak, go to the people."

Slightly less shook up he continued to Lincoln's portrait, "Abe," he says, "You did more than anyone to mould our country into what it is today, how best can I help our country in these troubling times?"

More mist and a voice says, "Barak, go to the theatre."

■ CHELSEA

How many Chelsea Managers does it take to change a Lightbulb?

They don't know. The lightbulb usually outlasts them.

It's predicted that by 2025, no living person will be more than six feet away from an ex-Chelsea manager

■ TOY HORSES

Just heard on the radio a bloke has been admitted to hospital with six toy horses stuck up his bottom. Medical staff describe his condition as stable.

CAPRICORN DEC 22 - JAN 19

A little piece of you will die this week, clotting the little fluids it helps to circulate, collapsing the little lungs it helps to expand, and completely shutting down your little nerve center.

AQUARIUS JAN 20 – FEB 18

They say imitation is the sincerest form of flattery. However, the exaggerated and drawn-out stutter they say it with indicates otherwise.

PISCES FEB 19 – MAR 20

You will soon make a comfortable living exploiting other people's deep-seated anxieties and crippling fears.

ARIES MAR 21 – APR 20

You have a mind like a steel trap, much to the horror of all those poor naked women locked inside.

TAURUS APR 21 – MAY 21

You never thought you'd be diagnosed with split-personality disorder, which is surprising, as Frank saw it coming a mile off.

GEMINI MAY 22 – JUNE 21

A prizewinning horse should have a thick coat, strong hindquarters, and an elegant gait. Also, it probably shouldn't talk, suddenly split in two, and run off in opposing directions.

CANCER JUN 22 – JUL 22

It's not enough to just sit there and cry about your problems all night long. Try also kicking your legs a bit to see if that helps.

LEO JUL 23 – AUG 22

Border guards will accuse you of trying to smuggle 10 pounds of prime Chilean beef inside your colon, though the condition they'll find it in will be less than desirable.

VIRGO AUG 23 – SEP 22

You're getting to be much too old for a babysitter, especially one who's supposed to be watching after your children.

LIBRA SEP 23 – OCT 23

The stars foresee a huge promotion at work this week. Get ready to move up to Senior Person Whom Nobody Takes Seriously or Respects.

SCORPIO OCT 24 – NOV 21

You'll kick back this week with a little bit of Grandpa's cough medicine, which is too bad, as Grandpa was a radiation oncologist.

SAGITTARIUS NOV 22 – DEC 21

Behind every successful man is a woman. However, if they find the basement full of yours, you can kiss your career in politics goodbye.

AWOL

ABSENT WITHOUT LEAVE IN CHA AM
FOR THE EXPAT IN ALL OF US

CHA AM, THAILAND

Welcome to this mini- AWOL devoted to near neighbours Cha Am. The intention of this section is to bring news, information, details of events and anything else Cha Am related to our readers.

If you have information or an event in Cha Am, or have a business in Cha Am and are interested in advertising in this section we have made an arrangement with Darren at the Cha Am Pub (see ad below) to be our local point of contact, or you can of course also contact AWOL direct by email on info@awolonline.net or any of our other contact methods shown on page 30.

HIGH SEASON HITS CHAAM

Recent research has shown that Hotel bookings are at an absolute peak in ChaAm, with most of the larger hotels already booked solid for the "High Season".

Every business in town is excited about the influx of tourists to the town after many years of almost starvation. The Scandinavians are once again flocking to our beautiful seaside village to enjoy the great family atmosphere ChaAm has to offer.

TELL US!

Next week we will feature some of the amazing Christmas deals that Restaurants are offering in the ChaAm Area. If you have a special offer or Christmas meal coming up, let us know by contacting Darren on 0822 510 871.

With the relocation of one our favourite Restaurants (Bella Pizza), comes the opening of Ital Thai in Soi Bus Station. Offering an Authentic Italian menu with home made Pizza & Pasta's it is sure to become a popular dining experience. (see ad this section)

BEWARE

The local police have been running a concerted campaign against "Drink Driving". We have been told that if your caught you "Will Face Prosecution" and the usual few hundred baht wont get you out of this. Expect road blocks on the unexpected secondary roads as the local force seems (at last) serious about this important issue.

OUTLAW MOTORCYCLE CLUB MISCONCEPTIONS

Organized crime, hit men, dirty deals, convicts. These are terms associated with bikers, members of outlaw motorcycle clubs. I'm not talking about your everyday biker, but the clubs often dubbed "motorcycle gangs." You see them riding in packs on the freeway and it's likely you cringe at the sight of them. But have no fear, you have been deceived.

For many years, I have been surrounded by this lifestyle and I am here to tell you it is not what you think it is. Yes, MC club members have undergone constant scrutiny for their lifestyle. They have often been mistaken for "gangs" which are associated with criminal activity. However, they are in fact clubs that conduct meetings and groups of motorcyclists who devote their time to a common interest: riding and good times.

The media is often misinformed and many reporters never even associate with members of MC clubs. Their claims are unfounded.

From my understanding, such clubs are more about earning and giving respect, commitment and loyalty. Sure, members can be intimidating but they are people just like you and I. They are your neighbours, your plumbers, your business partners. At the end of the day, they go home to their wives and children. Never in my life have I met men more dedicated and passionate. They are men who come together sharing not only a common interest, but a lifestyle. They protect each other and honour each other.

The misinformed will tell you they traffic illegal drugs and women. You might even hear that they prostitute their own girlfriends which is something I can personally say is a complete untruth. A member's old lady is considered property not in the sense that she can be bought, but that she is in a sense a part of the club and is to be respected for that reason.

Yes, some outlaw motorcycle members have experience with frequent legal issues but it is wrong to assume that the majority of them do. Did you ever stop to think that it is possible that it is because of the way society views this lifestyle that they are constantly being watched and observed by law enforcement?

I hope that if not anything else, I have at least shed some light on the MC lifestyle. Don't be afraid. Don't judge based on anything but truth.

ROMAN'S ROTA

EVERY CHELSEA FAN TO HAVE MANAGED CHELSEA BY 2014

■ LONDON, ENGLAND

CHELSEA FC has confirmed that every Chelsea fan in the UK will have a chance to manage their club over the next two years.

England's longest-running farce has drawn up a schedule of 10-minute managerial appointments, starting with 78-year-old Margaret Gerving from Surrey, who will oversee the first part of Saturday's match against West Ham.

The huge rota will begin as soon as Chelsea staff find Rafael Benitez, who is currently hiding somewhere in Stamford Bridge with the keys to the main entrance and all the forks from the canteen stuffed into his coat pockets.

Margaret Gerving said: "My grandson puts the football on sometimes when he comes to visit and that's given me enough insight to know that Torres can * whistle if he thinks he's starting up front. "I will be starting that nice Ashley Cole, though. Beautiful manners and immaculately turned out, he is. It's a mystery no nice young lady has snapped him up."

Left: Margaret Gerving tells John Terry to put his shirt back on as she oversees her first and only training session.

Margaret also revealed that her pre-match routine will involve "a nice cup of tea and maybe some custard creams".

Each sacking will be accompanied by a six-figure payout and it's hoped that Chelsea can help drag the country out of recession by the time the first few thousand people have been sent on gardening leave.

Employed people will be allowed to manage the club during their lunch hour and the under-fives will be given overnight slots which are anticipated to be quiet, apart from the occasional Travelodge-related incident.

A Chelsea spokesman said: "I don't have the full list of forthcoming managers to hand but I can tell you that David Mellor is the last person on the list, just after Lord Sebastian Coe."
