ELEPHANT DRIVE

CHARITY GOLF DAY FOR HUTSADIN FOUNDATION

HUA HIN, THAILAND

Next Friday, 25th October, sees the first charity golf day for the Hutsadin Elephant Foundation, in its efforts to expand and improve the facilities it currently provides to care for elephants that need medical care, help and a safe environment.

The event is being organised by a number of expats and Thais who help the Foundation in whatever way they can, and is being held at the Banyan Golf Club south of the town. Teams of four will be playing rounds with a number of the holes sponsored by local businesses, and while the competition between the teams plays second fiddle to the fundraising efforts, it will be a fun day out for spectators as well. For up to date information on tee off times for the teams, as well as the facilities available, please contact 089 586 1700 or email tonyh1959@hotmail.com.

The Hutsadin Elephant Foundation is located just off the Hua Hin - Nong Plub Road (also called the Pala U Road) which leads to the bypass; they are just after the crest of the hill on the right hand side. Entrance is free, although any donations are gladly accepted, and elephant trekking is available for a fee depending on how many people and elephants are involved. Foreigners are advised that the best time to visit is when the expat volunteers are present, and the number of fantastic reviews they receive on websites like Trip Advisor backs this up. Both holidaymakers and expats should make the Foundation a key place to visit from both an enjoyment perspective and to help them with both moral and financial support. The Foundation can be found on Facebook or by calling 032 827098-100

We hope to be able to bring our readers a full report on the golf day in due course, and hope that plenty of money is raised for such a good cause.

HARD GRAFT

By Roger Norwood

For all the great reasons to visit and reside in Thailand, some days here present you with a host of reasons to leave, and I had one such day this week.

I say that it was one day, but in fact the day was a culmination of a whole series of issues that had been niggling away for a period of time, and they just happened to all coincide on the day in question.

I won't bore you with the details of the issues, but I will bore you with what the fundamental aspects were of why they were so annoying and what I believe is the reasons so many expats end up whinging.

The first aspect is regarding what I call 'getting what you pay for' - this applies to goods, services, and things like building and home maintenance services. Labour and most products here are still cheap by comparison to the West, and it shows, but some things are not, and when these goods or services fail, we are used to being able to get something done about it.

The second aspect is what you encounter when you try to get someone to do something about whatever has failed; this could be when you speak to the company or service directly or when you ask a Thai friend or partner to do so on your behalf. If you handle it, and your Thai is lacking, you will first have to try and get to an English speaker that both understands the problem and is actually able to tell someone else to do something. If you ask a Thai to handle things for you, they will either tell you that it is a waste of time and just to (effectively) accept it, or their attempts will more often than not, turn out to be a waste of time!

At the heart of this is two problems; one is the unwillingness of Thais to go into a confrontation, due to the possibility of loss of face for either side; the other is that more often than not, at some point in the past, a payment was made to allow something that shouldn't have happened to happen, and by the time you suffer because of this, it is too long ago for anything to be done about it, even if it could be proved.

There is a lot of hard graft going on in Thailand, and it is something that we should all keep in mind when faced with the 'hard days'.

■ NEW YORK, USA Man 'scared to flush' after toilet explodes in his face

We've all heard the sayings about explosions of a rather unpleasant substance on farms and in factories. In some cases, it can even hit fans.

But one man was landed in it after a toilet exploded in his face, with shards of porcelain knocking him unconscious.

Michel Pierre was testing the water pressure in his flat when the blast happened. He woke up covered in blood and needed more than 30 stitches to his face, arms and legs.

The 58-year-old was so traumatised by the explosion that he now uses a rope to flush the toilet from a safe distance. He is also planning to sue the company that manages his block of apartments in Brooklyn, New York.

His lawyer, Sanford Rubenstein, said: 'There is a serious problem in the building. Clearly toilets are supposed to flush, not to explode.'

Three other tenants in the building also needed treatment in hospital after similar incidents.

Pierre is said to be immensely relieved he wasn't sitting down at the time of the blast.

■ ECCLES, UK Greggs refuses to sell Eccles cakes to the town of Eccles during an Eccles Festival

The Greater Manchester town of Eccles once saw a profusion of the treats being sold and eaten, but the sugar-topped treats have now been cast aside following 'lack of demand.' 'We sell products for which strong demand exists and Greggs made the commercial decision to stop selling Eccles cakes in its north-west stores around a decade ago, after customer demand for the product in the region declined significantly,' a spokesperson said.

Between October 7-13 the town of Eccles has dedicated its first ever festival to the 'world famous cake,' including activities such as an Eccles cake-off, cake-themed storytime, and a cake decoration workshop.

The snub by Greggs towards the currant-filled pastry left a bitter taste in the mouths of Real Lancashire Eccles Cakes. The cake manufacturers called Greggs' decision 'disgraceful' and told how they were favoured country-wide. 'As far as we're concerned our Eccles cakes sell really well. In fact, they're one of the top selling cakes in supermarkets,' said Ian Edmonds, production manager.

Eccles cakes were made popular after they were first sold within James Birch's shop in the town from 1793.

A section for all you budding etymologists where each week the origin of a word or phrase is investigated. This week it is.....Taken To the Cleaners

This phrase has two meanings (at least), one to mean losing all one's money gambling, the other being beaten up in a fight.

Both meanings are connected to the earlier phrase 'cleaned out', and there are other variations, particularly an American one, 'clean your clock'.

Gambling seems to be the common denominator for most of these phrases, but there is also some argument that there is a literal cleaners involved in the origin of the phrase. 'Cleaned out' though does not. To 'clean out' someone goes back a lot further. Jonathon Lighter's Historical Dictionary of American Slang lists it from 1819 in the sense of vanquishing or drubbing. All the early examples are either clean out or clean off but by Mark Twain's time it had reduced to just clean - in Roughing It, dated 1871; "He went for 'em! And he cleaned 'em, too!". The slang use of clock to mean face may also be from the nineteenth century, though the first examples are contemporary with the 1908 Trenton report. (The British had dial with the same sense from a century earlier.) Around that time to fix someone's clock in North America also meant to defeat somebody but in a more thorough way. However, to clock a man, meaning to hit him in the face, is recorded only from the 1930s. This in turn has now come to simply mean seeing someone's face, or appearance.

Getting back to gambling though, most people will have heard the phrase 'lost (or lose) their shirt' to mean losing everything. It's not completely proven that 'taken to the cleaners' is connected to this in a literal cleaning of said shirt before handing it over, but has the same basic concept of losing everything, i.e. cleaned out. Very likely the phrase was adopted by boxing fans when they lost money on a fight, and this was then further adopted by those talking about the fighters also being cleaned out or taken to the cleaners when they lost badly.

There is no real evidence for another explanation concerning dry cleaners or laundries removing valuables left in pockets, however attractive the idea that the phrase began there.

Is there an English phrase or saying that you would like to know more about?

LIMELIGHT GRAND REOPENING PARTY

The party at the Limelight bar, restaurant and guesthouse last Friday to celebrate their grand reopening was a great night thoroughly enjoyed by the many who attended, as shown by the photos here. The Filipino band were such a hit that they have been booked to appear for the next four Fridays, so if you missed the party go down and check them out, with the added bonus of a Thai buffet. The nights will kick off around 7.30pm.

■ LEPRECHAUN

A golfer playing in Ireland hooked his drive into the woods. Looking for his ball, he found a little Leprechaun flat on his back, a big bump on his head and the golfer's ball beside him.

Horrified, the golfer got his water bottle from the cart and poured it over the little guy, reviving him.

"Arrgh! What happened?" the Leprechaun asked.

"I'm afraid I hit you with my golf ball," the golfer says.

"Oh, I see. Well, ye got me fair and square. Ye get three wishes, so whaddya want?"

"Thank God, you're all right!" the golfer answers in relief. "I don't want anything, I'm just glad you're OK, and I apologise."

And the golfer walks off.

"What a nice guy," the Leprechaun says to himself.

"I have to do something for him. I'll give him the three things I would want... a great golf game, all the money he ever needs, and a fantastic sex life."

A year goes by and the golfer is back. On the same hole, he again hits a bad drive into the woods and the Leprechaun is there waiting for him.

"Twas me that made ye hit the ball here," the little guy says. "I just want to ask ye, how's yer golf game?"

"My game is fantastic!" the golfer answers. "I'm an internationally famous golfer now."

He adds, "By the way, it's good to see you're all right."

"Oh, I'm fine now, thank ye. I did that fer yer golf game, you know. And tell me, how's yer money situation?"

"Why, it's just wonderful!" the golfer states. "When I need cash, I just reach in my pocket and pull out $100 bills I didn't even know were there!"

"I did that fer ye also. And tell me, how's yer sex life?"

The golfer blushes, turns his head away in embarrassment, and says shyly, "It's OK."

"C'mon, c'mon now," urged the Leprechaun, "I'm wanting to know if I did a good job. How many times a week?"

Blushing even more, the golfer looks around then whispers, "Once, sometimes twice a week."

"What?" responds the Leprechaun in shock.

"That's all? Only once or twice a week?"

"Well," says the golfer,

"I figure that's not bad for a Catholic priest in a small parish."

■ MAGIC POCKET

A policeman searched me in a Nightclub toilet last night and found a small bag of class A drugs.

"It's not my fault," I said, "Every time I try flushing them down the toilet they magically appear back in my pocket again."

"Do you really expect me to believe that?" he laughed.

I said, "I'll prove it to you if you want me to!"

"Go on then." he smiled, handing me the bag.

After flushing them, he looked at me and said, "Well, show me your pocket then."

"What for?" I asked.

He said, "The drugs."

I said, "What drugs?"

Soi 94 S & S
INDIAN RESTAURANT
Curries from only 75 baht
Eat in or Takeaway 081 455 5298

CAPRICORN DEC 22 - JAN 19

Clear and direct communication is key to a successful marriage. Try ending all of your domestic exchanges with "Roger that, good buddy."

AQUARIUS JAN 20 – FEB 18

No offense, but when Aquarius got into this business, dealing with empty and meaningless futures like yours sure as hell wasn't what it had in mind.

PISCES FEB 19 – MAR 20

Though you've been told that dressing up once in a while wouldn't kill you, the coroner's report this week will contain evidence to the contrary.

ARIES MAR 21 – APR 20

Everyone enjoys a good party, but try to control your childlike glee now that you're finally 10 years old.

TAURUS APR 21 – MAY 21

You'll finally get into shape this week, though which one exactly, isn't clear yet.

GEMINI MAY 22 – JUNE 21

Try to break your habit of turning to anonymous sources for general advice on your problems.

CANCER JUN 22 – JUL 22

You'll confront your problems head-on this Thursday, which is rather unfortunate, as your problems involve a mountain goat.

LEO JUL 23 – AUG 22

Though you are covered with pink fur, have a soft red rubber nose, and utter four simple phrases, you are by no means suitable for children.

VIRGO AUG 23 – SEP 22

You'll finally open up about your innermost hopes and dreams this week, though the whole thing will be pretty hard to hear with everyone laughing so damn hard.

LIBRA SEP 23 – OCT 23

Remember to take things one day at a time this week, even if you have the ability to exist outside of time.

SCORPIO OCT 24 – NOV 21

Lately it seems all your imaginary friends just want to sit around all day and watch television.

SAGITTARIUS NOV 22 – DEC 21

Your plans for the weekend seem simple enough, but they present a challenge when you realize you have no idea how to "get some girls."

FEATURED GAME

SATURDAY 19TH OCTOBER 2013
PREMIER LEAGUE
West Ham v Man City 23:30
After the acclaim that Sam Allardyce received for tactically outwitting Andre Villas-Boas in their last match, it will be interesting to see if he persisits with the same line up against an equally formidable opponent. Although City have been stuttering a bit, they have an immensely talented squad and this will be an absorbing contest, one that we think will be decided by the odd goal in City's favour.

WORLD AT HIS FEET

NEW ENGLAND LETDOWN HERO DISCOVERED

■ MANCHESTER, ENGLAND

ENGLAND fans are celebrating a new hero who they can place all their hopes in before being painfully disappointed.

18-year-old Adnan Januzaj, who scored an incredible two goals against bottom-of-the-table Sunderland in his last game, has been instantly anointed as the star who won't take England all the way in Brazil next year.

England fan Stephen Malley, who has a misspelling of the player's name tattooed across his back in gothic script, said: "We've found the man who can hype us into a nationalistic frenzy before breaking his metatarsal in a warm-up.

"Like Beckham and Theo Walcott before him, this kid's got what it takes to go from hero to national hate figure in one penalty miss."

England manager Roy Hodgson is cautiously interested in Januzaj, but plans to pick a squad with proven experience of completely bottling it on a world stage for Brazil.

Left: Perfect technique, fresh faced good looks, Januzaj seems to have it all - what could possibly go wrong?

He said: "With players like Wayne Rooney, whose record of dragging a team down is second to none, or with Steven Gerrard's reputation for coming into a struggling game and handing it to our opponents, there's no need to rush Adnan.

"Besides, he could yet choose to underachieve with the Belgian national side, to frustrate with Croatia, or to crash and burn with the acknowledged masters, Scotland.

"Either way, Januzaj needs a lot more experience of losing games before he's ready. I can't risk a player who could carelessly win games and spoil the cherished dream of failure in every Englishman's heart."
