ROUNDUP

A SUMMARY OF RECENT AND UPCOMING LOCAL EVENTS

■ HUA HIN, THAILAND

No major news to report on in the local area this week, so we are filling this space with information on some events that have recently happened or are about to happen.

Last Friday saw the Charity Golf Day for the Hutsadin Elephant Foundation, which was favoured by glorious weather and by all accounts was a big success - we will be bringing you more on this in a later issue.

This weekend sees the remaining days of the month long Art Exhibition by Wanwimol Kesa-Ngam (Nang) at Cicada Market in Khao Takiab, which is well worth a visit, as is the Artist Village on the Pala U Road where Nang and her husband along with a variety of other artists are based.

Also this weekend, on Sunday 3rd, is the second Hua Hin Car Boot Sale - the first one was washed out by the torrential rain but with the weather rapidly improving the organisers hope for a good turnout this time. It is being held at the Zab Wer Restaurant on Soi 112 from 9am to 1pm, and will be held on the first Sunday of every month.

Inside this issue you should find a voucher from Snoopy's Bar on Poolsuk Road, and we think your Thai friends would be delighted to receive it as it is a special offer for them. If you don't find one, don't worry! There will be more in the next three issues at least, so make sure you grab your copy of AWOL on a Friday evening.

Finally the good folks at Terrace 90 restaurant in Soi 90 are having some hip shaking fun with regular live music shows of the King Of Rock'n'Roll! Every Saturday in November they are the venue for Ritchie Newton's Elvis Presley Show, so put on your Blue Suede Shoes - It's Now Or Never!

DEATH AND TAXES

By Roger Norwood

Last month's announcement by Thailand's Public Health Minister of a proposal to levy a charge on tourists to partly offset unpaid medical bills of foreigners has met with a storm of protest, with many feeling that such a scheme would be both difficult to operate, as well as potentially driving tourists to other destinations.

Last week World Tourism and Travel Council president and CEO, David Scowsill, waded into the debate, noting that Thailand's tax system related to tourism failed to meet WTTC's framework for what he called "intelligent taxation."

"We developed a framework of 'intelligent taxation' which considers a number of different criteria – and Thailand's tax proposal fails on almost every one," he said.

The largest expense the Thai public hospitals face within the unpaid bills results from the most common fate to befall tourists here - motorbike accidents. It strikes me that better regulation and enforcement of the businesses that rent and sell bikes could be a better solution, so that sufficient accident insurance was held by anyone riding a motorbike; the regulations are already in place for this, but once again it is the enforcement of the regulations that is either deemed too difficult or is another victim of bribery; thus a completely unavaoidable tax is proposed that won't lose votes.

It is also likely that the brunt of this will be borne by tourists who already hold sufficient funds or insurance anyway to cover any accident that might befall them, and who would likely end up in private hospitals, not public.

I doubt that the additional proposed 500 baht fee on its own will actually sway anyone from not coming to Thailand, but as another incremental cost on top of poor exchange rates and increasing prices, along with some general bad press the Land Of Smiles has been getting in recent months and years, it could end up being the straw that breaks the camel's back if it is introduced.

■ SOMALIA Britney Spears songs used to scare off pirates in Somalia

Britney Spears is being used as a secret weapon… to scare off Somali pirates. Her hits are blasted out to deter kidnap attacks, merchant navy officer Rachel Owens revealed. Spears's chart-toppers Oops! I Did It Again and Baby One More Time have proved to be the most effective at keeping the bandits at bay.

Second Officer Owens, who works on supertankers off the east coast of Africa, said: 'Her songs were chosen by the security team because they thought the pirates would hate them most. These guys can't stand Western culture or music, making Britney's hits perfect.'

Ms Owens, who regularly guides huge tankers through the waters, said the ship's speakers can be aimed solely at the pirates so as not to disturb the crew. 'It's so effective the ship's security rarely needs to resort to firing guns,' said the 34-year-old, from Gartmore, near Aberfoyle, Stirling. 'As soon as the pirates get a blast of Britney, they move on as quickly as they can.'

Steven Jones, of the Security Association for the Maritime Industry, said: 'Pirates will go to any lengths to avoid or try to overcome the music.' He added: I'd imagine using Justin Bieber would be against the Geneva Convention.'

■ CHINA Woman's blind date turns out to be her father-in-law, husband is not happy

The last thing you need when planning to cheat on your husband with a mystery man is for the guy to turn out to be his dad. That's what reportedly happened when Lili went on a secret rendezvous in Heilongjiang province, north-east China, with a man she had met on the internet. Little did the 28-year-old know she had arranged a blind date with her father in law, Wang Pai, after they had both used false identities. As if things couldn't get any worse, it transpired the unfaithful wife had been followed to the hotel location by her husband, and the man's son, Wang Jai.

When she rang the doorbell to the room while in her pink bathrobe and the dad answered, Mr Jai went berserk and started to assault both of them. Mr Pai, 57, spoke of his surprise at finding out his secret date was his daughter in law. He said: 'We eventually agreed to meet for a romantic liaison, but when I opened the door I don't know if she was more surprised or me.

'She turned round and ran off down the hallway straight into her husband, my son, who had been following her.'

The husband was detained for five days after knocking out two of his wife's teeth and causing his father to be taken to hospital with a head injury.

■ A section for all you budding etymologists where each week the origin of a word or phrase is investigated. This week it is..... Wing it

To do something with in an impromptu manner, improvising, with little preparation.

Authors have long used 'wing' as a verb and referred to birds that 'winged their way' and later, metaphorically, to time, love etc 'winging its way' to a recipient. That's not the 'winging it' we are concerned with here though, which has nothing to do with wings with feathers. This expression might also be thought to be derived from 'on a wing and a prayer', which alludes to aircraft that return to base more in hope than expectation. That's not the origin either and, if anything, the derivation is the other way about. 'Winging it' is a theatrical expression which refers to impromptu performances given by actors who had hurriedly learned their lines while waiting in the wings and then received prompts from there.

This phrase dates from the late 19th century and the verb 'to wing' was defined in an 1885 edition of Stage magazine:

"To wing'... indicates the capacity to play a rôle without knowing the text, and the word itself came into use from the fact that the artiste frequently received the assistance of a special prompter, who... stood... screened..by a piece of the scenery or a wing."

The phrase 'winging it' is used in print explicitly in 1933, although it must have been well-established before then, in a book that could hardly be better equipped to explain the meaning, Philip Godfrey's Back-stage: a survey of the contemporary English theatre from behind the scenes:

"He must give a performance by 'winging it' - that is, by refreshing his memory for each scene in the wings before he goes on to play it."

■ MEN ARE JUST HAPPIER PEOPLE

What do you expect from such simple creatures?
Your last name stays put.
The garage is all yours.
Wedding plans take care of themselves.
Chocolate is just another snack.
You can be King.
You can never be pregnant.
You can wear a white T-shirt to a water park.
You can wear NO shirt to a water park.
Car mechanics tell you the truth.
The world is your urinal.
You never have to drive to another public loo because this one is just too icky.
You don't have to stop and think of which way to turn a nut on a bolt.
Same work, more pay.
Wrinkles add character.
Wedding dress 10,000 baht. Morning suit rental 1000 baht.
People never stare at your chest when you're talking to them.
The occasional well-rendered belch is practically expected.
New shoes don't cut, blister, or mangle your feet.
One mood all the time.
Phone conversations are over in 30 seconds flat.
You know stuff about tanks.
A five-day holiday requires only one suitcase.
You can open all your own jars.
You get extra credit for the slightest act of thoughtfulness.
If someone forgets to invite you, he or she can still be your friend.
Your underwear is 500 baht for a three-pack.
Three pairs of shoes are more than enough.
You almost never have strap problems in public.
You are unable to see wrinkles in your clothes.
Everything on your face stays its original colour.
The same hairstyle lasts for years, maybe decades.
You only have to shave your face and neck.
You can play with toys all your life.
You have something to play with in your pocket all the time.
Your tummy usually hides your big hips.
One wallet and one colour for all seasons.
You can wear shorts no matter how your legs look.
You can 'do' your nails with a penknife.
You know how wide your car is.
You have freedom of choice concerning growing a moustache....
You can do Christmas shopping for 25 relatives on December 24th in 25 minutes.

No wonder men are happier.
Pass this on to the women who can handle it.
And to the men who will enjoy reading it.

■ IPHONE

These new iPhones are amazing; there is an app on them called Siri which can answer questions, make recommendations and generally be a fantastic help. So I just asked Siri "Surely its not going to rain today?"
She said,"it is, and dont call me Shirley"
Then I realised I'd forgotten to take my phone off Airplane mode.

Curries from only 75 baht
Eat in or Takeaway 081 455 5298

CAPRICORN DEC 22 - JAN 19

After days of grave and anxious discussion, the stars have decided that it's better you don't know.

AQUARIUS JAN 20 – FEB 18

Your charred, lifeless body will time and again debunk the old myth about lightning never striking the same place twice.

PISCES FEB 19 – MAR 20

Your mother claims that she never raised a liar for a son, but then what else do you expect from a lizard-human hybrid born out of a top-secret government project?

ARIES MAR 21 – APR 20

Fun and despair will be in the air this week when a nearby confetti factory explodes, killing sixty-three employees.

TAURUS APR 21 – MAY 21

You've never been good at saying goodbye, which explains why your speech therapist keeps charging you for an extra half hour each week.

GEMINI MAY 22 – JUNE 21

The stakes will be raised this Thursday, moments before being repeatedly plunged by frightened townspeople into your chest.

CANCER JUN 22 – JUL 22

You'll soon stumble upon the secret to a happy marriage—a secret so simple you'll take perverse pleasure in keeping it from your wife.

LEO JUL 23 – AUG 22

There's a time and a place for everything, as you'll soon discover after falling into the rhinoceros pit during mating season.

VIRGO AUG 23 – SEP 22

Your first instinct this week will be to run, while your second instinct this week will be to find your legs.

LIBRA SEP 23 – OCT 23

The sudden rise in mood swings, wild food cravings, and rapid head-to-toe hair-growth can only mean one thing: It's that time of the lunar cycle again!

SCORPIO OCT 24 – NOV 21

Your entire life will flash before your eyes this week, an insignificant blip made all the more trivial by the Benny Hill theme that will accompany it.

SAGITTARIUS NOV 22 – DEC 21

While you may have valor, resolve, and even vigor, what you don't have is a basic understanding of what those words actually mean.

FEATURED GAME

SUNDAY 3RD NOVEMBER 2013
PREMIER LEAGUE
Cardiff v Swansea 23:00
There are two other huge games involving top four contenders today, but the uniqueness of this first all Welsh Premier League clash gets the nod this week. This derby match will be a very rowdy affair in the stands, but the question is will it transmit onto the pitch? Both sides play creative passing football, but we have no doubt that the Welsh players will play with fire in their belly - we fully expect red cards and a score draw.

SKY LAUNCHES SKY SPORTS HANDSHAKES

■ LONDON, ENGLAND

SKY Sports is launching a new subscriber-only channel focused entirely on sporting event handshakes.

The launch follows Manchester City manager and lager brand Manuel Pellegrini's refusal to shake hands with Chelsea boss José Mourinho, which experts agree was far more thrilling than the match itself.

Sky Sports Handshakes will show every handshake in the Premier League and Championship from multiple angles in slow motion with expert analysis, with the BBC broadcasting an evening highlights package.

Hastily-retrained handshake analyst Jamie Redknapp said: "Handshakes have at least as much bearing on who'll win the league as all that 4-4-2 drivel.

"Is Moyes's soggy lettuce leaf the reason United aren't even in the European places? Does Mark Hughes need to stop making friends and start grinding knuckles for Stoke?

"We answer the questions, and showcase our new EagleEye handshake camera which can pinpoint the very instant a handshake crosses the line from stridently heterosexual to having a gay subtext."

Above: Vinny Jones demonstrates the unique 'Gentleman's Tackle' handshake perfected in his time at Wimbledon, with Paul Gascoigne the grateful recipient

Sports fan Bill McKay said: "Shaking hands used to be a man's game, without all this slow clasping and caressing you get nowadays.

"Brian Clough, for example – now there was a manager – used to shake hands with rival managers by holding his hand at head height, curling the fingers into a fist and smashing it hard into their face. Bill Shankly, on the other hand, adopted the Eric Morecambe double handed slap on the cheeks style, which won him many admirers, with Alex Ferguson in particular adopting it, and crediting it for his years of success at Manchester United."
