DASTA WAY TO DO IT!

SUSTAINABLE TOURISM PLAN AGREED - AN EARLY CHRISTMAS PRESENT FOR THE AREA?

HUA HIN, THAILAND

The Designated Areas for Sustainable Tourism Administration (DASTA) has signed a memorandum of understanding with Phetchaburi and Prachuap Khiri Khan provinces on tourism zoning.

Under their sustainable-tourism plan, they intend to establish four zones: high-end beach, family beach, agricultural tourism, and eco-tourism. One of the objectives is to promote Hua Hin, Cha-am and Pak Nam Pran as high-end beach destinations to attract foreign tourists. Hotels will be asked to join the scheme by upgrading their facilities to increase their room rates.

At the signing ceremony last week in Cha-am were Prachuap Khiri Khan Governor Weera Sriwathanatrakoon and Phetchaburi Governor Monthian Thongnit, along with Dr Nalikatibhag Sangsnit, DASTA's director-general. They vowed to work more closely, especially with local communities, to promote the area's simplicity and the sustainability of its tourist allure.

Nalikatibhag said there would be a 10-year strategic plan, with improvements in infrastructure and city landscapes the focus. The hope is that Hua Hin and Cha-am will be able to avoid further problems such as garbage, environmental damage, shortages of parking, and congestion that have accompanied their fast tourism growth.

According to DASTA, about 2.46 million tourists visited Hua Hin last year generating Bt9.21 billion of tourism revenue, while 2.1 million went to Cha-am with Bt8.85 billion revenue. This put them as the 11th and 12th largest contributors of tourism revenue last year, with 1.14 and 1.09% of the total respectively. Currently, 70 per cent of tourists in the area are Thais. The average Thai tourist stays one night with total spending of Bt2,000, while the average foreigner spends four nights, spending Bt3,000 per day. There are about 16,000 rooms in total with half of them registered legally.

WEIRD NEWS

■ BELO HORIZONTE, BRAZIL Builders cement car to pavement after driver refuses to move it

A disagreement got slightly out of hand when builders cemented a car to the pavement.

The argument came about when the car dealer refused to move a parked VW Caddy from the pavement in Belo Horizonte, Brazil.

Mark Drummond, who is not the owner but was responsible for selling the car on, said the pavement had been used to display vehicles for more than 20 years.

Local media reports it is not technically illegal to park here as it is a public space, but construction workers were unable to complete maintenance on the pavement because of the parked car.

They asked Mr Drummond to remove it but he refused, so then they cemented it to the pavement.

Celso Antonio de Faria, the owner of the cement company said: 'He said I could not lay a finger on the car.'

The Brazilian transport department sent a towing company to remove the car following a number of complaints from locals but found the car fixed to the ground.

■ MILAN, ITALY Christmas 'Tree of Pleasure' ordered to have sex toys removed from its branches

O Christmas Tree, O Christmas Tree, how lovely are your… phallic adornments?

One tree in central Milan has been causing a stir for all the wrong reasons, after a sex toy website decorated it with vibrators.

It was all too much for city officials, however, who ordered the removal of the racy trimmings.

It said that the Christmas season 'qualifying as a holiday for children and families, requires sobriety in urban decorations', particularly when it comes to widely-used festive symbols such as trees.

The owner of the sex toy e-business, Norma Rossetti, said she complied immediately with the authorities' order.

The 'Tree of Pleasure', she says, was part of her mission to make sex toys 'completely normal everyday objects'.

The erotic items chosen for the tree were elegant and not X-rated, she added, while admitting that, although she received some complaints, most people were interested and enthusiastic about its design.

■ A section for all you budding etymologists where each week the origin of a word or phrase is investigated.

This week it is..... The Twelve Days Of Christmas

This is, of course, the famous song that will be heard or sung around Christmas, but its origins are very cloudy and have inspired some remarkable explanations.

Chief among these is that the song was created as a coded reference to important articles of the Christian faith. This comes from the fact that Catholics in England during the period 1558 to 1829, when Parliament finally emancipated Catholics in England, were prohibited from ANY practice of their faith by law - private OR public. It was a crime to BE a Catholic.

The theory goes that each of the Christmas gifts in the song are hidden meanings to the teachings of the faith. The "true love" mentioned in the song doesn't refer to an earthly suitor, it refers to God Himself. The "me" who receives the presents refers to every baptized person. The partridge in a pear tree is Jesus Christ, the Son of God.

2 Turtle Doves = The Old and New Testaments

3 French Hens = Faith, Hope and Charity, the Theological Virtues

4 Colly Birds = the Four Gospels and/or the Four Evangelists

5 Gold Rings = The first Five Books of the Old Testament, the "Pentateuch", which gives the history of man's fall from grace.

6 Geese A-laying = the six days of creation

7 Swans A-swimming = the seven gifts of the Holy Spirit, the seven sacraments

8 Maids A-milking = the eight beatitudes

9 Ladies Dancing = the nine Fruits of the Holy Spirit

10 Lords A-leaping = the ten commandments

11 Pipers Piping = the eleven faithful apostles

12 Drummers Drumming = the twelve points of doctrine in the Apostle's Creed

Two very large red flags indicate that these claims about the "secret" origins of the song are nothing more than a fanciful tale, similar to the many apocryphal "hidden meanings" of various nursery rhymes. Firstly, there is absolutely no documentation or supporting evidence for this claim whatsoever, other than mere repetition of the claim itself, and secondly, the claim appears to date only to the 1990s, marking it as likely an invention of modern day speculation rather than historical fact.

What we do know is that the twelve days of Christmas in the song are the twelve days between the supposed birth of Christ (Christmas, December 25) and the coming of the Magi (Epiphany, January 6). Although the specific origins of the song "The Twelve Days of Christmas" are not known, it possibly began as a Twelfth Night "memory-and-forfeits" game in which the leader recited a verse, each of the players repeated the verse, the leader added another verse, and so on until one of the players made a mistake, with the player who erred having to pay a penalty, such as a offering up a kiss or a sweet. This is how the song was presented in its earliest known printed version, in the 1780 children's book Mirth Without Mischief. (The song is apparently much older than this printed version, but we do not currently know how much older.) Textual evidence indicates that the song "The Twelve Days of Christmas" was not English in origin, but French. Three French versions of the song are known, and items mentioned in the song itself (the partridge, for example, which was not introduced to England from France until the late 1770s) are indicative of a French origin.

It is possible that "The Twelve Days of Christmas" has been confused with (or is a transformation of) a song called "A New Dial" (also known as "In Those Twelve Days"), which dates to at least 1625 and assigns religious meanings to each of the twelve days of Christmas (but not for the purposes of teaching a catechism).

Either way, we hope that you get what you wanted at Christmas - have a good one!

■ VODKA - REDBULL CHIRSTMAS PUDDING RECIPE

Ingredients:

1 cup of water
1 cup of sugar
1 cup of brown sugar
4 large eggs
1 bottle Vodka
2 cups of dried fruit
1 tsp baking soda flour
1 tsp salt
1 cup of lemon juice
Some nuts
1 can of Red bull

Method:

Sample the vodka to check quality. Take a large bowl, check the vodka again. To be sure it is the highest quality, pour one level cup and mix with a little red bull & drink. Repeat.

Turn on the electric mixer. Beat one cup of butter in a large, fluffy bowl. Add one teaspoon of sugar. Beat again.

At this point it's best to make sure the vodka is shtill OK. Flavour with red bull to taste. Try another cup. just in case turn off the mixerer.

Break 2 leggs and add to the bowl and chuckin the cup of dried fruit.

Pick fruit off floor.

Mix on the turner. If the fried druit gets stuck in the beaterers pry it loose with a screwscriver.

Sample the vodka to check for tonsisticity - flavour with a little Bed Rull.

Next, sift two cups of salt. Or something.

Throw a pinch of Bed Rull over your shoulder.

Pick up the can, mop the floor.

Check the vodka.

Now shift the lemon juice and strain your nuts.

Add one table.

Add a spoon of sugar, or whatever you can find.

Turn the cake tin 360 degrees and try not to fall over.

Don't forget to beat off the turner.

Finally, throw the bowl through the window, finish the vodka and fall into bed.

CHERRY MISTMAS!

LEARNING FROM HISTORY

At the end of every year we look back on the events of the previous 12 months. Some good, some bad, and some which are destined to change the course of history forever.

Seventy years ago Thai and British people, along with their allies from many other countries, must have looked back on 1943 and wondered how they managed to survive the year in which the River Kwai bridge and the Hell Fire Pass were completed.

The concept of a bridge over the Kwai was by no means new. Even before World War II the Thai government had looked into the feasibility of constructing a rail link between Thailand and Burma. But European engineers called in to conduct surveys had concluded that the dense jungle and uneven land, which formed some of the worst terrain in South East Asia, made the project an engineering impossibility.

The war was to change all that, and the so called 'Japanese East Asia Prosperity Sphere' was to prove European engineers wrong - at a huge cost. This businesslike title encompassed the laying of a 420 kilometre rail link between Bangkok and Thanbyuzayat, where it would link up with an existing line. The River Kwai Bridge was just a very small part of the project, but one which was destined to become the most well known.

In June 1942 the Japanese had been defeated at the Battle of Midway, leaving them with no way to supply their troops in Burma by sea. Completion of the Thai/Burma railway suddenly became crucial to the Japanese war effort, and there was no shortage of labour in the form of their prisoners of war.

By 1943 track laying had reached the Burmese frontier at the Three Pagodas Pass. Many of the POW's who worked on that section, and on the construction of the bridge, were transported by train to Bangkok from prison in Singapore. A journey which took about 5 days, during which the prisoners were packed into enclosed, windowless carriages. Already sick and weak from their time in prison, some died along the way. For those who reached Bangkok alive there was another journey, much of it on foot, to Kanchanaburi, where the real work began.

The 500 metre long Hell Fire Pass had to be hewn out of rock. Begun in April 1943 by a labour force of 1,000 prisoners, the pass was completed in August of the same year, by which time only about 100 of those workers survived.

Heat, tropical diseases, exhaustion, and a diet consisting mainly of a little rice, all took their toll on those who worked on the railway. The Allied cemetery in Kanchanaburi began to fill up night by night. (It was considered more appropriate to move bodies to the cemetery under cover of darkness to avoid them being seen by other prisoners.)

There are no accurate numbers for those who were involved in the construction of the railway, but up to 13,000 Australian, British, Dutch and American prisoners of war died. The Kanchanaburi cemetery contains almost 7,000 graves. Another war cemetery in Thanbyuzayat is home to 3,617 dead. Those victims can at least be remembered and honoured, but clearly there were hundreds unaccounted for, who either died on the journey to Kanchanburi, or were simply left where they fell.

An even more sobering thought is that between 70 and 90 thousand civilian workers were estimated to have also died during the railways' construction. The civilian labour force was made up of Thais, Burmese, Malay, Singaporean and Javanese people. Some of you may even have Thai friends who lost family members during the construction of the most notorious railway in the world. They probably won't talk about it, and may not even be aware of their family history. That is the Thai way. But it is easy, and well worthwhile, to take a trip from Hua Hin to Kanchanaburi, and while you are there take a moment or two to remember the sacrificies made by all those people.

Christmas and the New Year is a poignant time for anyone who has lost a loved one, and particularly those lost in such circiumstances. The best way to remember and honour them is to try and make sure that no such torment is visited on any others, and not allow or accept our political masters to push us into conflicts that lead to such horrors.

A sobering note to go into the festive period, but may I wish all readers a very Merry Christmas from here in Hull, with one more THAB before the New Year comes

YOURSTARS

THERE'S A CURRY IN YOUR FUTURE AT S&S

Soi 94 S & S
INDIAN RESTAURANT
Curries from only 75 baht
Eat in or Takeaway 081 455 5298

CAPRICORN DEC 22 - JAN 19

You will buy an endangered snow lemming for your friend this Christmas, not anticipating that this friend intends to test whether or not lemmings really jump off of cliffs.

AQUARIUS JAN 20 – FEB 18

You will eat venison tonight, not expecting to be blamed for the lack of a red-nose in the sky this Christmas.

PISCES FEB 19 – MAR 20

Helpful tip- By putting poison in Santa's milk, you can convince him that you have the antidote* and that he only gets it if he leaves your present of choice under the tree. * Whether you do or not.

ARIES MAR 21 – APR 20

Your Christmas tree will seem perfect until you discover 3 annoying singing chipmunks in it.

TAURUS APR 21 – MAY 21

A large bearded man wearing all red will climb through your chimney with a large sack while you sleep. When you awake, your house will be cleared of all valuables.

GEMINI MAY 22 – JUNE 21

Santa Claus will not visit your house this year, for some reason. Also, you should get that chimney checked out soon. It will really start to stink by January 1st.

CANCER JUN 22 – JUL 22

Your ugly sweater collection will burn to the ground. Obviously, the stars are smiling upon you!

LEO JUL 23 – AUG 22

The ghosts of Christmas past, present and future will show you the true meaning of Christmas and how to be a better person. Unfortunately, you are not a morning person and by the time you get out of bed, it will be too late.

VIRGO AUG 23 – SEP 22

Christmas has been cancelled this year. Santa died laughing when you told him that you have been good.

LIBRA SEP 23 – OCT 23

Expect a big surprise this Christmas, you will receive the gift of your dreams, and it will be snatched away by a radioactive pelican.

SCORPIO OCT 24 – NOV 21

Getting your children a dog this Christmas will result in their improved social interactions, trust, self-esteem, and many other things (Other things include mysterious puddles and furry couches).

SAGITTARIUS NOV 22 – DEC 21

Your office Secret Santa Program will go terribly wrong when you buy your boss a Gray Wolf-Fur coat. In unrelated news, your boss is a dedicated member of the Save the Gray Wolf Foundation.

THE TWELVE FOOTBALL PREDICTIONS OF CHRISTMAS

OUR ANNUAL ATTEMPT TO SEE THE FUTURE OF FOOTBALL

■ THE WORLD OF FOOTBALL

ON THE FIRST DAY of Christmas our prediction came to be...
A World Cup trophy for Brazil

On the second day of Christmas...
Two sacked bosses - at Spurs as AVB's replacement also fails

On the third day of Christmas...
Three for the title - in the most competitive race ever for the Premier League title

On the fourth day of Christmas...
Four England call ups - to the World Cup squad for uncapped players

On the fifth day of Christmas...
Five fixers jailed - the authorities try to clamp down on the cheats

On the sixth day of Christmas...
Six goals for Suarez - as he continues his one man demolition of teams

On the seventh day of Christmas...
Seventh Swans are flying - with Swansea getting a top 8 finish

On the eighth day of Christmas...
Eight players leaving - Manchester United at the end of the season in a big clearout

On the ninth day of Christmas...
Nine goals awarded - at the World Cup using goal line technology for the first time

On the tenth day of Christmas...
Ten matches only - for Andy Carroll at West Ham as he gets injured again

On the eleventh day of Christmas...
Eleven shattered egos - as England suffer humiliation in the World Cup

On the twelfth day of Christmas...
Twelve excited cities - in Brazil as the World Cup is hosted in this many places for the first time

Have a great footballing festive season and we hope that everybody gets exactly what they want for Christmas!
