ABSENT WITHOUT LEAVE FOR THE EXPAT IN ALL OF US
What's happening, and might be happening, in and around Hua Hin

THE HEAT IS ON

HUA HIN SWELTERS AS HEATWAVE CONTINUES

HUA HIN, THAILAND

Temperatures in Hua Hin and surrounding areas are set to continue at close to boiling point (100˚ Fahrenheit) and possibly higher as the sun will be at its closest point to Thailand and directly above it on Sunday. While temperatures have actually been recorded officially as close to the annual average for this time of year, the 'real feel', a combination of the actual temperature and humidity have reached 45˚ Celcius (113˚ Fahrenheit) at peak times.

While everybody needs to take care in such high temperatures, foreigners, the elderly and children should be particularly careful, as there can be a real threat of heat stroke or heat exhaustion. Symptoms of heat exhaustion include giddiness, headache, nausea, shortness of breath and mental confusion. When the body temperature reaches 41°C or higher, the sufferer will have convulsion or become unconscious; and this is heat stroke. Immediately, the body temperature must be brought down and first aid be given, or else the sufferer's life will be in great danger.

To avoid the risk of heat stroke a few precautionary measures should be taken; Wear light-coloured, loose and air permeable clothing to reduce heat absorption and promote heat loss from sweating; Bring and drink plenty of fluid to prevent dehydration; Avoid drinks containing caffeine (e.g. coffee and tea) or alcohol, because they can speed up water loss from the body through the urinary system; Do not engage in prolonged activities such as hiking or trekking, as heat, sweating and exhaustion place additional demands on one's physique; Perform outdoor activities in the morning or evening, if possible; Do not stay inside a parked vehicle; Seek medical advice if feeling unwell.

WEIRD NEWS

■ POLAND Thief swallows crazy amount of stolen goods to avoid prison

A light-fingered thief took extreme action in an attempt to avoid being put behind bars when he swallowed all of his ill-gotten gains.

Dariusz Piotrowski was arrested after fleeing a house he is suspected of burgling in the Polish capital of Warsaw.

The 39-year-old was taken into custody and began complaining about stomach pains before an X-ray revealed where he had disposed of all the incriminating evidence.

He swallowed six watches, a fork, a spoon, cigarette lighters and other objects before he was picked up by police.

'Officers lost sight of him briefly after chasing him, but then found him hiding in the bushes of a garden of a nearby house,' said a police spokesman.

'It was while he was crouched down in the shrubbery that he probably took the opportunity to try to mask his crime by eating the objects he had stolen.'

Piotrowski said his unusual ability to swallow different objects had helped him throughout his life of crime.

The case featured in a textbook by the Polish Anaesthetics' Society.

■ FRANCE Police discover 'missing' child only existed on Facebook

Police searching for a 'missing' child discovered the youngster only ever existed on Facebook.

Detectives thought they were racing against time after receiving a report that two-year-old Chayson Basinio had vanished from a supermarket car park.

A kidnapping inquiry was opened and a local lake was dredged, with police fearing the worst, it was reported.

However, days later – as they prepared to tell the family to expect the worst – they could find no trace of their existence in real-life. Despite the 'Basinio' family having full Facebook profiles, they appeared to be completely imaginary.

French police are now questioning the woman who made the initial report about the missing child.

Public prosecutor Eric Mazaud said: 'The inquiry for kidnapping and sequestration has obviously been redirected into one of reporting an imaginary crime or offence.

'It [the inquiry] was long and complicated but we can now say that the young Chayson has never existed and nor have his father or mother.'

■ A section for all you budding etymologists where each week the origin of a word or phrase is investigated.

This week it is..... Keep the ball rolling
Maintain a level of activity in and enthusiasm for a project.
The American expression 'keep the ball rolling' was preceded by the similar, now archaic, British phrase 'keep the ball up'. They had much the same meaning, the earlier one alludes to keeping a ball in the air, that is, conveying the notion of keeping an activity going. This was used figuratively by the radical social philosopher Jeremy Bentham, in a letter to George Wilson in 1781, referring to his efforts to keep a conversation going:
"I put a word in now and then to keep the ball up."
Bentham may be long dead but continues to be radical. He didn't opt for the traditional coffin, buried six feet under, but willed that his body be stuffed, mounted and put on display. It is exhibited in a cabinet at University College, London (see right, although the severed head has now been removed). Many students at the University in the 1960s took the opportunity to open the cabinet doors to see Bentham peering back through the waxy glass - quite disconcerting.
The 'keep the ball rolling' version of the phrase owes its origin and popularity to the US presidential election of July 1840. That election is widely regarded as introducing all the paraphernalia of present-day elections, that is, campaign songs, advertising slogans and publicity stunts of all kinds. The unpopular incumbent President Martin Van Buren was pitted against Whig candidates, General William Harrison, a war hero who had fought against the Shawnee Indians at Tippecanoe, and John Tyler. The Whig candidates revelled in a folksy 'cider-drinking, log-cabin, men of the people' image and adopted the first known political slogan - 'Tippecanoe and Tyler, too'. A song of the same name was considered to have sung Harrison into the presidency:
Don't you hear from every quarter, quarter, quarter,
Good news and true,
That swift the ball is rolling on
For Tippecanoe and Tyler Too.
Harrison's campaign literature referred to Victory Balls. These weren't, as we might expect, dance parties that celebrated his famous victory, but ten-foot diameter globes made of tin and leather, which were pushed from one campaign rally to the next. His supporters were invited to attend rallies and push the ball on to the next town, chanting 'keep the ball rolling'.

CAPRICORN DEC 22 - JAN 19

While you're often disgusted by the shallowness and ignorance you see all around you, you have to admit it's made it easy for you to get dates.

AQUARIUS JAN 20 – FEB 18

The King's men part you can understand, but you've never really comprehended how all the King's horses were supposed to help.

PISCES FEB 19 – MAR 20

While it may be true that the Emperor has no clothes, you have to admit that if you were the Emperor, you'd walk around naked too.

ARIES MAR 21 – APR 20

A messenger from the Lord will appear to you in glory this this week and in a voice that shakes mountains and shivers oceans, announces price hikes on all divine services.

TAURUS APR 21 – MAY 21

Mars and Venus will both appear in your sign this week, as will Zach Galifinakis, who is apparently in everything these days.

GEMINI MAY 22 – JUNE 21

When the moment of truth you've been praying for all these years will finally arrives, you'll reject it out of hand rather than admit that it's all been the cat's fault.

CANCER JUN 22 – JUL 22

While you've always had good luck at work while operating on the buddy system, next week's attempt to use only sign language will be a complete disaster.

LEO JUL 23 – AUG 22

While you're starting to think that your problem is that you're too "in your head," it's actually a rare species of cranial tapeworm.

VIRGO AUG 23 – SEP 22

Your attempt to achieve fame no matter what the cost in blood will fail, although the stories of the What's-His-Name Killer will be told for generations.

LIBRA SEP 23 – OCT 23

Although they say it's not over until the fat lady sings, increasingly unrealistic body image standards mean it's now over during vocalization by any female over 135 pounds.

SCORPIO OCT 24 – NOV 21

You'll be trapped in a paralyzing dilemma that can only be solved if you learn something new or have an original thought of your own.

SAGITTARIUS NOV 22 – DEC 21

This is a good time to make aggressive moves in your romantic life, but not so aggressive that you actually cause yourself physical harm with the Fleshlight.

■ LIFE

On the first day, God created the dog and said, "Sit all day by the door of your house and bark at anyone who comes in or walks past. For this, I will give you a life span of twenty years."

The dog said, "That's a long time to bark. How about only ten years and I'll give you back the other ten?"

And God saw it was good.

On the second day, God created the monkey and said, "Entertain people, do tricks, and make them laugh. For this, I'll give you a twenty-year life span."

The monkey said, "Monkey tricks for twenty years? That's a pretty long time to perform. How about I give you back ten like the dog did?"

And God, again saw it was good.

On the third day, God created the cow and said, "You must go into the field with the farmer all day long and suffer under the sun, have calves and give milk to support the farmer's family. For this, I will give you a life span of sixty years."

The cow said, "That's kind of a tough life. How about twenty and I'll give back the other forty?"

And God agreed it was good.

On the fourth day, God created humans and said, "Eat, sleep, play, marry and enjoy your life. For this, I'll give you twenty years."

But the human said, "Only twenty years? Could you possibly give me my twenty, the forty the cow gave back, the ten the monkey gave back and the ten the dog gave back; that makes eighty, okay?"

"Okay," said God, "You asked for it."

So that is why for our first twenty years, we eat, sleep, play and enjoy ourselves. For the next forty years, we slave in the sun to support our family. For the next ten years, we do monkey tricks to entertain the grandchildren. And for the last ten years, we sit on the front porch and bark at everyone.

Life has now been explained to you.

■ FISH OUT OF WATER

If you think Hua Hins' expats are sometimes inclined to be a little eccentric, think again. Holmefirth - a small town in West Yorkshire - takes some beating.

If you are now thinking that you don't know the place you are probably wrong again. Holmefirth was home to that popular old British TV series 'Last of the Summer Wine,' which is still repeated everywhere. Thailand included. The main characters, Compo, Clegg and Foggy, were the epitome of English eccentricity, or at least the Yorkshire version of it, (which is considered by many to be even more whacky.) They were also of course fictional characters. Or were they?

Now a real life resident of Holmefirth seems to have carried on the tradition begun by Compo and Co. The retired, and possibly very bored, engineer, who shall remain nameless, spent years perfecting an Aquatic Perambulator for his pet Malcolm, a goldfish. It seems that Malcolm looked bored, so the caring owner decided to build a device which would allow Malcolm - in his bowl - to be pushed around town for a change of scenery without the water in the bowl slopping around.

And anyone who has ever tried to transport a goldfish bowl complete with water and fish from A to B will appreciate just how useful that could be.

So Malcolm enjoyed trips around town and visits to the pub, and lived to the grand old age of 12. You really couldn't make it up could you? Just Google 'aquatic perambulator' to check, as I had to, that reports of Malcolms' perambulations weren't dated April 1st.

Meanwhile back at the ranch on the other side of Yorkshire, while Hua Hinians either avoided or endured their annual Songkran soaking, Hull City Football Club fought its' way through to the Wembley Cup Final for the first time in its' long and chequered history. The delight - and to some supporters astonishment - of the semi-final victory only marred by the prospect of having to pay for a second trip to London for the final on May 17th. No doubt the coach and rail companies will be rubbing their hands together in glee.

Our word this week, for no particular reason at all, is entablature, meaning the upper part of a classical building which is supported by columns. A short trip to the Colonnade will give a very vague idea of the concept.

FEATURED GAME

SUNDAY 27TH APRIL 2014
PREMIER LEAGUE
Liverpool v Chelsea 20:05
A win for Liverpool here would not win them the title, but it would be a giant step towards it as it would rule Chelsea out of contention, and if Man City fail to beat Crystal Palace they would only need one more win or possibly draw to clinch it. However this season has been nothing if not surprising, and we have a suspicion that Chelsea will get a result here, and that the title race will go to the last day.

WORLD LEADERS EXPRESS CONCERN AS LIVERPOOL ANNEX MANCHESTER UTD

■ MANCHESTER, ENGLAND

Leaders around the world have resolutely condemned the annexation of Manchester United football club by Liverpool FC despite a hastily held referendum showing 95.5% support among the Man U fans for secession to its more powerful neighbour.

'The vote is completely illegal,' said one United fan who still thinks Wayne Rooney is quite good. 'But actually if it means we get closer ties with Europe then, on balance, 'like', I'm all for it.'

There has been discontent since a new leader was undemocratically appointed at Old Trafford who many now see as incapable of maintaining unity among supporters from the club's vast geographical base which stretches as far afield as Surrey. 'I was going to give it all up and emigrate to Wycombe Wanderers,' said one despairing fan from Guildford, 'but I can stick with it now. I truly believe being part of Liverpool gives my children the best hope for the future.'

In the late hours of Sunday night, heavily-armed men occupied strategic sites around Old Trafford, insisting they were only there to protect the well-being of the many who wanted to switch allegiance, and throwing a defensive cordon around the pie van.

Left: Obama comforts Cameron before their joint statement on the annexation as the Prime Minister wonders if the same fate will befall him as David Moyes

'They don't have any identification and they're not wearing team colours, but then they try to sell you kitchen implements you don't need, crack loads of jokes and, if anything gets heated, repeatedly tell everyone to calm down,' said Old Trafford groundsman Bert Trout, who had become increasingly concerned about the direction the club was taking. 'They can deny it all they like but the whips, the furry hats, the false number plates; they're obviously Scousers. Thank God someone who knows what they're doing is here to sort this mess out.'

While relieved to be free of the old regime, some of the Manchester fans admitted to unease and apprehension for any trophy success this year. The global tension tangibly lifted when Liverpool insisted that Man Utd would still have a great deal of autonomy and installed Ken Dodd as new interim manager.
