ANOTHER DRUGS GANG NABBED IN HUA HIN

■ HUA HIN, THAILAND

Last Saturday, 10th May, Thai police swooped on a gang who had been selling drugs in Hua Hin and arrested them. The gang had been operating out of the Caddy Shack bar in Soi Selekan, and those arrested included the owner, Mrs. Jintana, 45, also known as Tookta, Mr Abraham Kamara, 32, a Sierra Leone citizen, and five lady boys aged between 20 and 27, some or all of whom worked at the bar.

The arrests were carried out by Pol. Col. Chatchai Rienmek, vice director of Prachaup Khiri Kan provincial police, Pol Col. Chinnavorn Jieasakul, director of the narcotics suppression bureau and the head of operations, Pol.Lt.Col Patcharapong Lopart, deputy director along with other officers. They recovered bags of crystal meth, cocaine, marijuana, a Toyota Fortuner, two motorbikes, gold chains, and 3 golden rings found in the possession of those arrested. The police officers secretly purchased drugs for 25,000 baht after they were tipped off that drugs were being sold in the entertainment area.

Pol Col Chatchai said that their investigation revealed that Mrs. Jintana purchased the drugs from Mr. Abraham, who lives in Sukumvit Soi 93 in Bangkok, and transferred money to his Thai wife's bank account. The lady boys then sold the drugs to tourists in the area. A warrant for the arrest of Mr Abraham's wife has also been issued, as well as a request to freeze the assets of all involved. According to reports, all of those arrested have confessed to their crimes, and are now awaiting the full weight of Thai law, which is notoriously harsh on drug offenders.

There have been several notable arrests for serious crimes, particularly drugs related, in Hua Hin in recent months, but it is unclear whether this is simply better policing or indicates an increase in these types of crime in the area - without meaningful crime figures being made available locally we must hope its the former.

WEIRD NEWS

■ SINGAPORE 6ft snake emerges from toilet to bite housewife

A Singapore housewife who felt a sharp pain in her thigh while on the toilet was horrified to discover a six-foot python had emerged from the toilet bowl and sunk its teeth into her leg.

Noraslinda Asat, 34, was in the ground-floor toilet of her home when she heard a bubbling noise and felt the bite. After several attempts at grabbing the snake, she pulled it off.

Mrs Asat estimated that the snake was 6ft long and as thick as her husband's forearm.

After a short time in hospital, where she received an injection for the bite, she was discharged, but Mrs Asat has revealed the real damage is psychological.

She is so traumatised that she is afraid to use the toilet in her home, preferring to go to public ones instead.

Officers from Animal Concerns Research and Education Society were unable to find the snake after being called to the scene. A friend of Mr and Mrs Asat later saw the snake in a manhole but was also unable to catch it.

This is the second time a snake has been found at the Asat home. Mrs Asat's mother also saw a snake in the toilet bowl but it slithered back inside when it saw her.

■ CHINA Chewy piece of calamari turns out to be a condom

This has got to be up there among the most revolting food finds of all time – a condom in a calamari.

Disgusted diner Mai Liang was halfway through her fish and squid rings dish at a restaurant when she discovered a particularly 'rubbery' piece was actually a contraceptive.

Events took another bizarre twist when the owner of the restaurant in Anhui province, China, grabbed the condom and swallowed it.

'It was disgusting. My first horrific thought was: Is it used?' explained Ms Liang.

'Imagine my horror when I turned it over with my fork and it turned out to be a contraceptive.'

Restaurant boss Yi Ze Teng says she ate the condom to stop the argument with her customer and has accused the diners of putting it in their food to get a free meal.

'They said if I ate the condom, they would leave the matter, so I swallowed it,' Ms Ze Teng revealed.

The diners have hired a lawyer in a bid to secure a compensation package.

■ A section for all you budding etymologists where each week the origin of a word or phrase is investigated.

This week it is..... As daft as a brush
Very foolish.
On the face of it, brushes wouldn't seem to be any more daft than anything else. As the source of the expression isn't obvious, various suggestions have been put forward as to what form of brush is being referred to; for instance:
- The phrase originated as 'as soft as a brush' and the brush is the tail of a fox. This is plausible in that 'soft' is a northern English term for stupid, and foxes tails are in fact quite soft to the touch.
- The brushes in the expression are the boys that were employed in the 18th/19th centuries to climb inside chimneys to sweep them. The theory here, which is somewhat less plausible, is that the boys were made into idiots by being repeatedly dropped on their heads when being lowered down the chimneys.
Nevertheless, as we shall see, the 'brush' in this simile is neither of these; it is, as the dictionary would have it "A utensil consisting of a piece of wood or other suitable material, set with small tufts or bunches of bristles, hair, or the like, for sweeping or scrubbing dust and dirt from a surface", that is - a brush.
In looking for early examples of 'daft as a brush' in print we find that it first starts appearing in the 1950s. An example is in William Morgan Williams's The Sociology of an English Village: Gosforth, 1956:
The wives of two members of a kin-group locally thought to be eccentric and extremely unsociable were pointed out by several people as 'gay queer' and 'daft as a brush'. [Gosforth is in Cumbria, UK]
1956 seems later than one would have expected and, as the word 'daft' has always been used more often in the north of England than in other places, a scan of some north country references seems in order. Voilà. 'Daft as a brush' it is in fact predated by an earlier variant 'daft as a besom'. The earliest citation I can find is a listing in William Dickinson's A glossary of the words and phrases of Cumberland, 1859:
Daft, without sense. "Ey, as daft as a besom."
A 'besom' is of course a brush made from twigs and a corroboration that the phrase originated with the 'besom' rather than the 'brush' version comes in another glossary, from just a few years earlier and collected in the same area - John and William Brockett's A glossary of North country words, with their etymology, 1846:
Fond, silly, foolish. An old Northern word. 'Fond-as-a-buzzom', remarkably silly.
The use of 'fond' to mean foolish predated our current usage, which is 'to be fond of something or someone'. That present day meaning migrated from the earlier word, which in time came to mean 'display a foolish affection for'. In Richard Rolle's Psalter, 1339, the author refers to 'fonnyd maydyns' (foolish girls). The word appears in more contemporary language in John Lyly's Euphues: the Anatomy of Wyt, 1578:
He that is young thinketh the old man fond.
So remember, if you are visiting the English northern counties and some old codger says that you are 'as fond as a buzzom', it isn't exactly a compliment.

deVere GROUP

Every week in this article Helen Couldrey, a financial consultant with the deVere Group, and also a qualified English lawyer, will give you tips and ideas of how to take advantage financially of being an expat. Helen has clients in Bangkok, Hua Hin and Cha-Am who she helps to maximise the financial benefits of living overseas.

LIVING THE GOLDEN YEARS

79 per cent of people get their car serviced each year, yet only 26 per cent of people annually review their retirement planning position. This is an alarming statistic considering that a car is often a 5 year investment, whereas a robust retirement plan will allow you to live out your golden years in the way you choose. As people live longer (and inflation steadily rises), more and more people are beginning to realise the vital importance of a sound financial strategy for their retirement. This is just as well as the days when you were supported just by the state or your employer during retirement are fading fast, particularly if you're an expat.

This means that the funding of your retirement is now, more than it has ever been for previous generations, a personal responsibility. YOU are the person in control of your future. Any contributions that you may get from the state or company schemes should be considered the icing on the cake, not the cake itself.

PERSONAL INTERNATIONAL RETIREMENT PLAN

So what are the options as an expat? Well, paying into a pension scheme in your home jurisdiction is often prohibited whist earning abroad. Further, you may not be eligible for state contributions if you fall short of certain thresholds. With these in mind, a popular solution is a personal international retirement plan.

Ultimately, this means a private international offshore plan that exists outside of the regular, domestic solutions. These offshore plans are very simple and you can easily set one up with the help of a financial advisor, and just make monthly contributions into it from your income, leaving the markets to do the hard work. As the plan is held offshore there is no tax on the growth which is a superb benefit to expats looking to make their money work hard! After the first two years, you can access your fund at any time, which provides a lot more flexibility than a regular pension plan. As the life of an expat is changeable, these plans move with you wherever you go in the world, growing tax free whilst you begin another chapter in your life.

Your deVere Group financial adviser can help you ascertain what kind of final 'retirement pot' you will need and can guide you through what contributions you should be making (and more importantly, what you can afford). As a wealth management professional, they will tailor the plan to you, your family and the requirements of your lifestyle, while taking account of inflation, to ensure no nasty shocks in 20, 30 or 40 years' time.

Regardless of age or whether you think you have everything sorted, make sure you review your retirement position with an independent professional. And remember, if you take the time to get your car serviced, then don't join the 74 per cent who fall short of reviewing their retirement strategy. In retirement planning, mistakes are too costly – on every level.

Let's make sure those 'Golden Years' are golden.

YOURSTARS

THERE'S A CURRY IN YOUR FUTURE AT S&S

Soi 94 S & S
INDIAN RESTAURANT
Curries from only 75 baht
Eat in or Takeaway 081 455 5298

CAPRICORN DEC 22 - JAN 19

Before making any important business decisions next week, ask yourself if you're using the same decision-making criteria that sent you to prison.

AQUARIUS JAN 20 – FEB 18

You'll undergo the kind of stress that would break a lesser woman and which will cause whatever kind of woman you are to shatter into a coarse powder.

PISCES FEB 19 – MAR 20

Your dreams will all come true next week, including the ones you have thus far mercifully forgotten on waking.

ARIES MAR 21 – APR 20

An in-depth study will reveal that, contrary to popular belief, bedbugs are great and you are the problem.

TAURUS APR 21 – MAY 21

You'll once again get into a public shouting match at an upscale bistro over what is and is not in fact gangsta.

GEMINI MAY 22 – JUNE 21

Somehow it just seems unfair that several famous people will make hundreds of dollars after picking you for next week's Mundane Individual Dead Pool.

CANCER JUN 22 – JUL 22

Nothing of note will happen to you this week, as the dozens of people you'll tell about it will be able to attest.

LEO JUL 23 – AUG 22

Venus rising in your sign this week sounds like a welcome harbinger of romantic good tidings but the Zodiac assures you it's merely decorative.

VIRGO AUG 23 – SEP 22

The largest meteorite ever to hit a person was about 45 pounds, making you a posthumous shoo-in for the record next Wednesday.

LIBRA SEP 23 – OCT 23

The universal red shift indicates that the stars are flying away from us at astounding velocities. Perhaps it is more accurate to say "from you."

SCORPIO OCT 24 – NOV 21

The stars are tired of politely nodding when you say you're single because you're "too picky." Put down the fork and pick up the soap, dammit.

SAGITTARIUS NOV 22 – DEC 21

They say God never gives us more than we can handle, which must mean He knows a way you can handle a swarm of hyperagressive Africanized bees.

■ HELP FOR NIGERIA

The USA are sending out a crack unit to find the kidnapped school girls in Nigeria.

Britain are sending Stuart Hall, Rolf Harris, Max Clifford and Dave Lee Travis.

Thanks to David for all of the following jokes

■ CLASSIC COLEMANBALLS

David Coleman was introducing Match of the Day immediately following a show featuring the cook Fanny Craddock.

He came out with the classic remark "And for those of you who watched the last programme I hope all your doughnuts turn out like Fanny's!"

■ PRAYER FOR GRANDPA

Dear God

Please send clothes for all those poor ladies on grandpa's computer

Amen

■ PHARMACY

Two young boys walked into a pharmacy one day, picked out a box of tampons and proceeded to the checkout counter.

The man at the counter asked the older boy, "Son, how old are you?" "Eight," the boy replied.

The man continued, "do you know what these are used for?"

The boy replied, "not exactly, but they aren't for me. They're for him. He's my brother. He's four. We saw on TV that if you use these you would be able to swim and ride a bike. Right now, he can't do either."

■ CULTURALLY TWINNED?

It must be about time that the 'powers that be' considered twinning Hua Hin with Hull?

After all there are some eery similarities between the two. OK maybe not many, and certainly nothing involving climate conditions. But there are at least tenuous links in the form of Polo and Jazz.

First Polo. As many of you will know Hua Hin has hosted the King's Cup Tournament in elephant polo for the past 12 years. Sadly the tournament is being moved to Bangkok this year, but over in Hull on May 12th the city's football stadium became the first of it's kind in England to play host to polo of the horse born variety.

Seven sets of hooves pounding around on hallowed turf for the duration of 4 polo matches might not seem like a good idea to the average football fan, but the pitch was scheduled to be dug up the next day, providing an ideal opportunity to bring polo to Hull's masses. The few - about 300 - who did turn up for a pleasant - and free - afternoon were impressed. We can only hope for better attendances at the many events being planned for 2017, Hull's year as UK City of Culture.

Next is Jazz. Hua Hin will of course host it's popular annual Jazz Festival again next month. Meanwhile on May 10th the beach in front of of the Centara Grand Hotel was the venue for an extra event - Hua Hin Asia Jazz Festival.

By sheer coincidence Yours Truly was also at a Jazz gig on the same day. This one fortunately an indoor performance forming part of the Hull Jazz Festival. (Our 'April showers' seem to have misread the calendar this year.)

Now, to me jazz should preferably involve a saxophone or two, keyboards, and double bass. Drums, violin and guitar are also perfectly acceptable. Anything in fact which will provide for soft haunting melodies or more upbeat rhythms. So my introduction to improvised jazz was a bit of a shock. Not that the musicians were lacking in skill. Far from it. And it must be cultural, mustn't it? There are no doubt some of you out there who will appreciate improvisation, and for those who do it will be worth checking out the band 'Eyes Shut Tight' online. For me though I'm afraid it was a relief to escape into the rain and find the nearest hostelry.

Which brings us to one final, but very important event this month. I realise that there are just a few Arsenal supporters in your midst, but please Hua Hinians find it in your hearts this Saturday to offer up a prayer for Hull City at Wembley! We need all the prayers we can get....

Word of the week is 'mulatto'. A word that Jeremy Clarkson might be advised to add to his vocabulary in an attempt to avoid possible future brushes with the PC brigade.

FEATURED GAME

SATURDAY 17TH MAY 2014
THE FA CUP - FINAL
Arsenal v Hull 23:00
Looking at their final league placings, this appears to be a non contest, very similar to when Manchester City took on Wigan in last year's final, and everyone expected the Citizens to triumph, which of course they didn't. There will be nerves among Arsenal fans and players, as they have been trophy-less for several years now, while Hull have nothing to lose, already guaranteed a place in the Europa Cup next season. Add to that the international players for the Gunners who may be worried about getting injured ahead of the World Cup, and all the pieces are in place for another FA Cup upset. However fond we are at predicting them, though we don't think there will be one here. Hull have had a very easy ride to get to the final, only facing one Premier League team (Sunderland), although that was their only home tie in the competition. Arsenal on the other hand have faced three top six sides (Tottenham, Liverpool and Everton) plus Wigan and Coventry.
We think that this will end up being a relatively easy win for Arsenal, thus ending their long wait for a trophy; however would defeat cast doubt over Arsene Wenger's future once again?

MAN CITY TO PAY UEFA FINE AFTER QUICK LOOK DOWN BACK OF STADIUM SOFA

■ MANCHESTER, ENGLAND

The billionaire owners of Manchester City have raised the £50m needed for their UEFA fine after a quick rummage down the back of their sofa.

The fine comes after they breached financial fair play rules, by exploiting their massive wealth to gain a competitive advantage in domestic and european competition.

However club officials have said that they will pay the UEFA fine for exploiting their massive wealth by exploiting their massive wealth.

A spokesperson for the club explained, "£50m doesn't buy you much these days – it's barely two Marouane Fellainis – so raising that amount of money isn't an issue."

"Our Chairman, Khaldoon Al Mubarak, sent a suit to the dry cleaners with £11m in the pocket just last week, and this morning we found another £35m that had fallen down the back of the sofa in the boardroom."

"The players dropped the remaining four million in the changing rooms before training this morning, so we're all set."

"Do you think UEFA would prefer a jar of coins, or a cheque?"

Supporters of other clubs have questioned the use of fines on clubs with unlimited financial resources, and wondered if this is just a money-making scheme.

Football fan Simon Williams told us, "If you get caught speeding, you get a fine AND you get points on your licence – it's designed so that rich people don't just go around speeding all the time."

"But if they threw Manchester City out of Europe, that wouldn't pay for any first class flights or business lunches for any UEFA officials, would it?"

"That said, if a billionaire Arab wants to buy my club, I'm all for it!"
