REV IT UP AND GO!

HUA HIN BIKE WEEK CELEBRATES TEN YEARS

HUA HIN, THAILAND

The tenth anniversary gathering of the Hua Hin Bike Week started today at 19 Rai or Queen Sirikit Park, and continues tomorrow (Saturday 29th November), a week earlier than previous years as this year it would have directly clashed with His Majesty the King's birthday celebrations, which take place next Friday, 5th December. On a side note, we are not publishing AWOL next Friday for the same reason, as many of the venues we normally deliver to will be closed.

Hua Hin Bike Week first took place in 2005, and has been coordinated and organised every year by Khun Aod, otherwise known as the leader of the Vampire MC group. The venue for many years was the large vacant plot of land along the canal road, but in recent years they have tended to stage it at this years venue, when available. For those unfamiliar with Hua Hin, head north on the Phetkasem Road from the centre of town, and take a right into soi 35 at the traffic lights beside the King's Palace - this road bears left and then runs parallel to the sea and the location is further along, near to the Immigration office.

Hua Hin has already seen the arrival of some groups of bikers this week, and the town will be full with mean looking leather clad groups, who are mostly some of the nicest people you could hope to meet, and everyone is welcome along to the events, which will include live music, competitions and lots of rare and customised machines. Registration costs 200 baht and T-shirts featuring this year's promotional logo will be available for 300 baht. Much of the money raised is normally given to charities and other good causes. As always, please be careful on the roads as they will be busier than normal, and please give plenty of room to bikers.

■ A section for all you budding etymologists where each week the origin of a word or phrase is investigated.

This week it is..... Go like the clappers

Go very fast; in a vigorous manner.

This term isn't common outside of the United Kingdom, and is now considered rather archaic even there. It originated around the time of WWII as RAF slang. The earliest citation I can find is from a 1942 newspaper piece by Associated News staff Writer Alfred Wall, in which he listed various RAF slang terms:

"A pilot chased by the enemy 'goes like the clappers', or full out".

What 'the clappers' refers to isn't entirely clear, although by far the most likely derivation is as a reference to the clappers of bells. An early form of the phrase was 'go like the clappers of hell' and, given that bells have clappers, it may be that it may that the rhyme of hell and bell is significant. RAF pilots were often from English public schools where the ringing of handbells to mark the time was common. Bells were rung more vigorously as the time remaining to get to class/chapel etc. was about to run out. The image of schoolboys dashing to class while handbells were being energetically rung matches the meaning of the phrase very well.

There is another suggestion, that it was first rabbits that 'ran like the clappers'. This notion comes from the French word for a rabbit hole - clapier, which was adapted into English as clapper. Rabbit burrows, especially those that were constructed in order to breed semi-tame rabbits, (or conies, as they were then called) were called clappers. This was known in the 15th century; for example, from the romantic poem Roman de la Rose, 1405:

"Conies... That comen out of her claperes."

The proposal has two significant flaws. Firstly, the phrase and the meaning don't match. Rabbit would have 'run from the clappers', not 'run like the clappers'. Secondly, the 'rabbit-burrow' meaning has long been archaic and unused. The most recent example of its conversational use that can be found in print is from 1725, although there are still some place names that derived from this source - for example Sharpenhoe Clappers in the English Chilterns.. The phrase originated in the RAF in the mid 20th century - long after clapper meant something else entirely.

NO AWOL NEXT WEEK!

Friday December 5th is His Majesty the King's birthday and it is likely that many of the places we normally deliver the paper to will be closed in his honour, so we have taken the decision not to publish next week.

We apologise for any inconvenience but we will return on Friday 12th December. Thank you for going AWOL.

WEIRD NEWS

■ SPAIN Cannabis cake puts eight unaware party-goers in hospital

A birthday party had to be ended prematurely when eight guests were taken to hospital – because the cake was made with cannabis butter.

According to Spanish daily 20 Minutos, two brothers had been celebrating their birthday at a bar in Oviedo in northern Spain.

But guests began to feel a little strange after biting into a birthday cake baked by the mother of one of the guests which had a surprise ingredient: butter mixed with marijuana.

Bemused medical staff at Asturias Central Hospital immediately realised what was up when the stoned party-goers arrived in the emergency ward and contacted police.

The guest who had brought the cake was 'in no fit state to be interrogated', said police, but they soon discovered the culprit when they called his mother – and she admitted to getting a bit creative with her cooking.

Health officials noted all the guests were over 18 and none of them suffered any permanent damage.

■ USA Woman goes directly to jail (does not pass go, does not collect £200) after slapping boyfriend over Monopoly game

Board games have been known to cause arguments.

But one woman was arrested after taking things a step further: slapping her boyfriend over a game of Monopoly.

Officers in Hooksett, New Hampshire, were called to the home of 21-year-old Alyssa Ferraro after they received a domestic disturbance call relating to the board game.

And Ferraro told arresting officers that she and her boyfriend had a row while playing and she had responded violently.

'She got into an argument with her boyfriend over a game of Monopoly and open-hand slapped him in the face,' according to a police statement obtained by CBS Boston.

Ferraro was taken directly to jail (she did not pass go nor collect £200), where she was charged with domestic violence-related simple assault.

She was bailed for $2,000.

The alleged victim didn't require medical attention.

■ USA Four female guards fell pregnant to same inmate in one American prison

Four female prison guards fell pregnant to one inmate in a prison in Baltimore – a gang leader so powerful he said that in the jail, 'I am the law.'

Tavo White showered the female guards with gifts including cars and diamond rings.

White reportedly made $16,000 (£10,000) a month from smuggling drugs and cellphones into prison with help from his accomplices.

An FBI wire tap captured White saying, 'This is my jail. You understand that,' and claiming to control everything from contraband to mob hits within the prison.

Four guards – Jennifer Owens, Katera Stevenson, Chania Brooks and Tiffany Linder – allegedly fell pregnant to White while he was behind bars

Owens had 'Tavon' tattooed on her neck and Stevenson had 'Tavon' tattooed on her wrist.

The details came to light after authorities busted a major smuggling ring inside the prison – and 13 female prison guards, seven inmates and five co-conspirators face racketeering charges.

Guards allegedly smuggled hard drugs and mobile phones into prison in their shoes for the 'Black Guerrilla Family', a gang which also operates on the streets of Baltimore City.

All 12 officers have been suspended without pay, and the department are moving to fire them.

CAPRICORN Dec 22 - Jan 19
This is an excellent time for romance in the workplace, leaving you wishing you hadn't signed that pesky form saying you wouldn't have any.

AQUARIUS Jan 20 – Feb 18
You'll experience a sense of bone-deep certainty that you have not lived in vain now that "lying down on top of things" has actually become a fad.

PISCES Feb 19 – Mar 20
You'll build a better mousetrap, all right, but your mousetrap will be so terrifyingly good that people will avoid beating a path to your door for the sake of their own mortal souls.

ARIES Mar 21 - Apr 20
Sometimes words are simply not enough to express how someone is feeling, which is why people keep insisting on defecating on your doorstep.

TAURUS Apr 21 – May 21
Your quest to become the World's Greatest Lover will be derailed as you continue only meeting people who think you'd be a really great parent.

GEMINI May 22 – June 21
Your old solution isn't going to work on your new problem. Try drinking twice as much of it.

CANCER Jun 22 – Jul 22
You've often said you'd like a word with whoever is responsible for all the bullshit, leaving you conflicted when you're promoted to manager of all the bullshit.

LEO Jul 23 – Aug 22
It will be nothing short of inspiring to see how quickly the community mobilizes once your profile goes up on the dating sites.

VIRGO Aug 23 – Sep 22
You'll narrowly avoid an unlikely set of circumstances that almost sees you married to a horse, but you'll still be joined in matrimony to the two guys who were in the horse suit.

LIBRA Sep 23 – Oct 23
Although you'll admit you enjoy the new Doctor Who, you resent being referred to as "the kind of person who likes the new Doctor Who."

SCORPIO Oct 24 – Nov 21
The attention will be nice and all, but until Thursday you'll have no idea there is a world record for Amount of Crap Put Up with in a Lifetime.

SAGITTARIUS Nov 22 – Dec 21
Your inability to be spontaneous is well known, which will leave people struggling to put a name to what happens when you combust without warning next Wednesday.

■ CHILDREN WRITING ABOUT THE OCEAN….

1) - This is a picture of an octopus. It has eight testicles. (Kelly, age 6)
2) - Oysters' balls are called pearls. (Jerry, age 6)
3) - If you are surrounded by ocean, you are an island. If you don't have ocean all round you, you are incontinent. (Mike, age 7)
4) - Sharks are ugly and mean, and have big teeth, just like Emily Richardson. She's not my friend any more. (Kylie, age 6)
5) - A dolphin breaths through an asshole on the top of its head. (Billy, age 8)
6) - My uncle goes out in his boat with 2 other men and a woman and pots and comes back with crabs. (Millie, age 6)
7) - When ships had sails, they used to use the trade winds to cross the ocean. Sometimes when the wind didn't blow the sailors would whistle to make the wind come. My brother said they would have been better off eating beans. (William, age 7)
8) - Mermaids live in the ocean. I like mermaids. They are beautiful and I like their shiny tails, but how on earth do mermaids get pregnant? like, really? (Helen, age 6)
9) - I'm not going to write about the ocean. My baby brother is always crying, my Dad keeps yelling at my Mom, and my big sister has just got pregnant, so I can't think what to write. (Amy, age 6)
10) - Some fish are dangerous. Jellyfish can sting. Electric eels can give you a shock. They have to live in caves under the sea where I think they have to plug themselves in to chargers. (Christopher, age 7)
11) - When you go swimming in the ocean, it is very cold, and it makes my willy small. (Kevin, age 6) (Mine too!!)
12) - Divers have to be safe when they go under the water. Divers can't go down alone, so they have to go down on each other. (Becky, age 8)
13) - On vacation my Mom went water skiing. She fell off when she was going very fast. She says she won't do it again because water fired right up her big fat ass. (Julie, age 7)
14) - The ocean is made up of water and fish. Why the fish don't drown I don't know. (Bobby, age 6)
15) - My dad was a sailor on the ocean. He knows all about the ocean. what he doesn't know is why he quit being a sailor and married my mom. (James, age 7)

■ CHARITY

Yesterday I saw a dishevelled old hairy tramp recycling putrefied rubbish, swearing at strangers and begging for money after his family spent all his on heroin.

I just thought; No, Bob Geldof, I'm not buying your bloody record this time.

■ PIRATES

Q. Why are Pirates called Pirates?

A. Cos they Aaaaaaaaaaaaaarrrrrrrrrrrr!

■ ONE OF THE BOYS

Women have been taking part in sports at a professional level since the early 1930's. Although limited at first to events such as tennis, gymnastics, archery, skiing and skating, by the second half of the 1900's it was clear that women could in fact manage most of the sports traditionally seen as male domains. And now of course people don't bat an eyelid at women footballers, boxers or jockeys.

Along with that levelling of the playing fields, it would be reasonable to expect an increase in female sports 'pundits' - commentators and experts - but with a few notable exceptions that doesn't seem to be the case. Certainly not in the UK anyway.

Yes we have Michaela Tabb, the first woman ever to referee a professional ranking snooker tournament which, in 2002, happened to be a match between Thailands' own James Wattana and Ken Doherty. (Which Doherty won 5 frames to 2.)

Then there is Clare Balding, born into horse racing, whose knowledge of the sport quickly gave her much more credibility than one male counterpart in particular - (who had better remain nameless, but who flapped his hands a lot and talked in betting speak.)

Retired tennis champion Sue Barker has also become a successful TV presenter, although she still carries the stigma of the one Cliff Richard almost married.

Then we begin to struggle. Sports journalist Hazel Irvine does a good job of holding together the male snooker pundits between matches at the Crucible. And there the list begins to peter out.

That is until the recent appointment of Isa Guha (above right) to the strangely named task of cricket 'summariser' for BBC radio. Which means that Isa will provide expert commentary in between overs.

Like our other few female pundits Isa is not without credentials, having played cricket for the womens' World Cup team. She is also, it has to be said, an attractive 29 year old, which may account for one of the tabloid press feeling the need to describe her as 'one of the boys'. A cringeworthy description for a woman who is clearly a talented sports professional in her own right.

I wonder if the media would even dream of referring to a male ballet dancer as 'one of the girls'? Just a thought.

The soap box now safely packed away, our word of the week is 'capias'. Please note this is not a mis-spelling. It is a legal word meaning a warrant or order for arrest.

FEATURED GAME

SATURDAY 29TH NOVEMBER 2014
PREMIER LEAGUE
West Ham v Newcastle 22:00
Two teams that struggled last season and whose fans were vocal in their disapproval of the manager, find themselves in the top six this season, just proving once again what a funny old game football is. Credit should be given to both managers for turning things around, and their respective owners who stuck by them. West Ham were unlucky last week to lose to Everton, and will be hoping that several players will be back from injury, while Newcastle continued their fine recent form, albeit with a narrow win over struggling QPR. We expect this to be a highly entertaining game with both teams going for the win, which makes it difficult to call, but we think home advantage will just edge it for West Ham.

BRENDAN RODGERS TO DROP JESUS FROM MELWOOD NATIVITY SCENE

■ LIVERPOOL, ENGLAND

Liverpool manager Brendan Rodgers has angered Christian fans by dropping Jesus from the clubs Christmas nativity scene, insisting He be kept fresh for Easter.

The Northern-Irishman, who chose controversially to leave out several regulars from his starting XI for his side's Champions League clash three weeks ago with Real Madrid, played down the Son of God's role in the religious feast.

"The boy Jesus, He's been picked for every Christmas period for the last 2,000 years, so we felt it was a good time to give him some rest and give someone else a run-out this time round," he told reporters.

"Being a regular starter in the Nativity, albeit with superhuman abilities known to bring men back from the dead, shouldn't mean we take away opportunities from other, more fallible examples of God's creations. Particularly if those in question symbolise the wasting of tens of millions of pounds."

Above: Rumours are that Mario Balotelli will play the Baby Jesus this year

Rodgers continued, "Easter is obviously a far more important fixture in the Gregorian calendar, where He took the sort of almighty flaying I saved for my very best players with the home clash against Chelsea, and last weekend's game against Crystal Palace. It makes perfect sense."

A club spokesman, who wished to remain nameless, suggested the club's board were less than happy at his decision to omit Jesus from the side's seasonal celebrations.

"Leaving Jesus of Nazareth out of the Nativity is tantamount to playing a European Champion away from home and your manager dropping your club captain to the bench."
