What's happening, and might be happening, in and around Hua Hin

NO AWOL NEXT WEEK - NEXT ISSUE 9TH JANUARY

STUCK IN A RUT

OUT WITH THE OLD BUT SAME OLD, SAME OLD?

■ HUA HIN, THAILAND

Traditionally we have used the front page of our last issue of the year to look back and forward to the year that has passed and the year before us; part of that process is to look at what we had to say this time last year, and we could almost reprint that front page again this time round. Last year our headline read 'Annus Horribilis' as 2013 had seen extreme weather and a bad high season, with politics taking centre stage as the main culprit damaging Thailand's tourist trade.

We don't like using headlines more than once but 2014 would be good reason to as it has been another horrible year for many businesses, particularly those involved in or affected by tourism. The weather has been better though, and while most have welcomed the military and the new broom they have been brandishing, the continuing martial law, although it doesn't really affect day to day life, has dealt another crushing blow to the tourist trade, with some local businesses reporting that numbers are down by over a quarter from last year, and even official figures are stating drops of around 8 per cent in tourist numbers.

So what lies ahead in 2015? Given that the planned elections have now been pushed back to 2016 it seems likely that the new year will be a bit of a waiting game for many, trying to get by and hoping that it will be at least a little better than 2014. It may well present some golden opportunities for those with cash to spare in both the property and business markets, and this in itself may trigger better times for others. However all we can say now is that we hope this time next year will see us able to look forward with a lot more optimism than we can this.

A section for all you budding etymologists where each week the origin of a word or phrase is investigated.

This week it is..... Elvis has left the building
The show is over - go home.

This was announced at the end of Elvis Presley's concerts to encourage fans to accept that there would be no further encores and to go home. It is now used more widely to indicate that someone has made an exit or that something is complete.

Oddly, although the phrase was routinely used to encourage the audience to leave, the first time that it was announced it was to encourage them to stay in their seats. That first use was in December 1956 by Horace Logan, who was the announcer at the Louisiana Hayride show, in which Elvis was a regular performer. Presley had very quickly become very popular with teenagers but had previously taken a regular lowly spot at the Hayride, which was his first big break. He was on the bill quite early in proceedings but after his performance was over and the encore complete, the crowd of teenagers, who weren't Hillbilly enthusiasts, began to leave. Logan announced:

"Please, young people ... Elvis has left the building. He has gotten in his car and driven away ... Please take your seats"

Al Dvorin was the regular stage announcer for Elvis Presley during the 1970s. He picked up the phrase and his version can be heard on several live recordings:

"Ladies and gentlemen, Elvis has left the building. Thank you and goodnight."

The use of this term and the fact that Elvis is probably the most prominent celebrity to be known (despite claims to the contrary) to be unambiguously dead, have given rise to the verb 'to Elvis', that is, to make a sudden exit. The Kelsey Grammar sitcom 'Frasier' used a play on the line at the end of each show - "Frasier has left the building."

Is there an English phrase or saying that you would like to know more about?

CAPRICORN Dec 22 - Jan 19

While it's true there's nothing you wouldn't do to make your friends happy, that impulse will soon come into conflict with your willingness to do anything for a decent piece of pie.

AQUARIUS Jan 20 – Feb 18

You never thought you'd get tired of the endless parade of deep-fried food that is your life, and sure enough, it hasn't happened yet.

PISCES Feb 19 – Mar 20

Unfortunately, popular entertainment has led you to believe that when you try to deliver a baby while trapped in a malfunctioning elevator, the mother and baby both survive.

ARIES Mar 21 - Apr 20

You'll inspire thousands to go out and do something with their lives in order not to wind up being as pathetic and useless as you are.

TAURUS Apr 21 – May 21

The rescue workers won't need to knock down an entire wall of your house to get you out, but they want to make you feel extra fat.

GEMINI May 22 – June 21

You'll resolve not to fall for the same old tricks just as your shoelace goes untied, a menacing figure looms up right behind you, and you finally find true love.

CANCER Jun 22 – Jul 22

Someday you'll look back on all this and laugh, you sick, demented, inhuman monster.

LEO Jul 23 – Aug 22

Love means different things to different people, but you'll have a hard time finding someone to whom it means "a profound degree of affection."

VIRGO Aug 23 – Sep 22

It's kind of disappointing, really, but it turns out you and your archenemy actually aren't that much alike at all.

LIBRA Sep 23 – Oct 23

People have a hard enough time believing "timbersports" are a real thing without you trying to achieve notoriety by becoming its all-time most penalized participant.

SCORPIO Oct 24 – Nov 21

It turns out that sorting is one of God's least favorite things, as you'll learn this week when you decide to kill them all and let Him sort them out.

SAGITTARIUS Nov 22 – Dec 21

You've decided to pull one last big job and then retire, although it is unclear exactly how this will work for a trombone instructor.

■ THE FUNERAL PROCESSION

A Jewish man was leaving a convenience store with his espresso when he noticed a most unusual Italian funeral procession approaching the nearby cemetery.

A black hearse was followed by a second black hearse about 50 feet behind the first one. Behind the second hearse was a solitary Italian man walking a dog on a leash.

Behind him, a short distance back, were about 200 men walking in single file.

The Jewish man couldn't stand the curiosity.

He respectfully approached the Italian man walking the dog and said: "I am so sorry for your loss, and this may be a bad time to disturb you, but I've never seen an Italian funeral like this. Whose funeral is it?"

"My wife's."

''What happened to her?"

"She yelled at me and my dog attacked and killed her."

He inquired further, "But who is in the second hearse?"

"My mother-in-law. She came to help my wife and the dog turned on her and killed her also."

A very poignant and touching moment of Jewish and Italian brotherhood and silence passed between the two men.

The Jewish man then asked "Can I borrow the dog?"

The Italian man replied, "Get in the line."

■ BUNS

It's always flattering to be told you have a nice arse. Unless it's during a prostrate examination.

■ NEW YEARS RESOLUTIONS YOU CAN ACTUALLY KEEP

Read less.

I want to gain weight. Put on at least 30 pounds.

I will start buying lottery tickets at a luckier store

Stop exercising. Waste of time.

Watch more TV. I've been missing some good stuff.

Watch less T.V. in standard definition

Watch more movie remakes.

Procrastinate more.

I will do less laundry and use more deodorant.

I will no longer waste my time relieving the past, instead I will spend it worrying about the future.

Drink. Drink some more.

Start being superstitious.

■ WHY, WHY, WHY...

And there it was gone - again. Only three different New Year celebrations to look forward to now. Plus the 2015 launch of Coca Colas new product 'Fairlife' milk.

Although this so called 'premium' milk will be launched initially in the States, it seems like an ideal candidate for the next Thai Hi So must have drink. With its 50 percent more protein, 30 percent more calcium, half the sugar content of regular milk, and at only twice the price, who wouldn't rush out to buy it?

Talking of drinks - how does Smirnoff get those gold particles to suspend themselves in bottles of vodka? You may also ask why do they bother, although it does look pretty. Personally a pretty drink to me is a coffee bean aflame on a shot of Sambucca, but even that is a rare sight these days, when common sense dictates that splashing out on a good malt makes much better economic sense.

Theories include one that the gold flakes are held in suspension for ages due to the viscosity of the drink, a theory which does seem preferable to those involving coating the gold flakes with either paraffin or beeswax. Just imagine having that job on your CV. 'So Mr Smith, I see that you have been working for Smirnoff in their Gold Leaf Beeswaxing Division, what on earth makes you want to leave?'

On a much more serious note we can't let the week go by without remembering the 10th anniversary of the Asian Boxing Day tsunami. You won't all have been living in Thailand at the time. Those who were will never forget that day, or the contribution made by some HuaHin expats to the provision of essential supplies to the southern islands.

My own memory of the disaster will always be of the scene at Don Muang airport four days later, with ambulances arriving every 10 minutes or so carrying injured tourists for their flights home, and the eerie silence which hung over the whole airport. Even then the enormity of the situation didn't really sink in until I boarded a Phuket Air flight to Gatwick and realised how many seats were empty, and how many of the passengers who had made it were wearing only the clothes in which they had survived.

December also marks the less well remembered 30th anniversary of the Bhopal gas disaster in India, when a gas leak in a pesticide factory killed thousands, and injured over half a million people. The eventual death toll is thought to have reached over 25,000. To this day babies are being born with defects, caused by contamination of water supplies by the thousands of tonnes of toxic waste which remain dumped at the factory site. Meanwhile legal battles continue over the responsibility of majority share holder in the pesticide company, Union Carbide Corporation, and of UCCs American parent company Dow Chemical.

Although we know there can never be an end to either natural or man made disasters, every New Year we hope for better things to happen. We raise a glass or three to the future, and make our New Year resolutions. And in Britain we are being urged to sign up to 'Dry January', which promises to save us money and make us feel better - except of course for those who brew, distill, sell, and coat gold flakes with beeswax. We can't even buy Fairlife Milk as a substitute over here yet dammit!

Here's wishing you all a good Chang filled New Year.

This weeks word is a good one for you Scrabble players out there. 'Xiphoid' simply means a dagger like shape.

FEATURED GAME

SUNDAY 4TH JANUARY 2015
THE FA CUP - THIRD ROUND
Dover v Crystal Palace 20:00
This fixture has cup upset written all over it - a struggling recently promoted Premier League team managed by a man who has been relegated with several teams playing away against non-league opposition. Palace are also the closest Premier League team to Dover and there will also be a bit of Kent/ Surrey rivalry thrown into the mix. On paper it should be no contest but every year a tie like this comes along that defies the odds.
Financially it will be better for Dover to get a draw here and then cash in on a lucrative game at Selhurst Park, but equally their best chance of a win will be in front of their own fans, and if that happens they might get rewarded with an away day at one of the really big grounds. We are sure they'll be busting a gut to win this, and think they will with one of those freakish goals that only the FA Cup produces.

FOOTBALL REPORTING TO BE LIMITED TO UPSETS

■ ENGLAND

THE media is to cease reporting football results that, like Chelsea beating Hull, are entirely expected by everyone.

The media has decided to stop wasting valuable pages and airtime on matches which unfold exactly as anyone would have predicted with only minor numerical variation.

Mirror editor Tom Booker said: "As journalists say, man bites dog is news and Arsenal beat Newcastle four-one at home isn't. It's the equivalent of a front-page headline alerting the readers to the prospect of rain at the weekend, which we don't do because we're not the Daily Express.

"From now on games which finish exactly as anyone would have guessed, like City beating Palace last weekend, will get a one line write-up on page 47, just under the English Kabaddi Federation finals.

Above: The new media rules will mean that fans will no longer have to endure images like this one, taken some time in the last decade

Games between mediocre teams that are evenly matched, like United against Liverpool, will get two paragraphs next to the advert for hair loss cream and white vans.

Only matches with genuine surprises, like Spurs losing six-nil to Bradford Park Avenue, will get the full headline-and-photo treatment. And even then only the first time it happens. Nil-nil games get no write-up at all, because nothing happened."

QPR fan Wayne Hayes said: "Under this system Chelsea, who can be reasonably expected to win every game this season because everyone else is a bit rubbish, will become champions without it being reported in the press at all. That sounds top. I'm well happy with that."
