AWOL

ABSENT WITHOUT LEAVE FOR THE EXPAT IN ALL OF US
What's happening, and might be happening, in and around Hua Hin

THE PRICE IS RIGHT!

AWOL AD COSTS SLASHED!

HUA HIN, THAILAND

There is a distinct lack of local news this week, so we are taking the opportunity to let you, our readers and in particular our current and potential advertisers, know that our bi-annual price review has just been completed for all our advertising options.

We are acutely aware that almost everyone has been forced to be a little more careful with their money in recent months, and that there are many individuals, families and businesses that are struggling for a number of reasons, but particularly the drops experienced in tourism numbers, resulting in less customers and lower incomes. Advertising is, unfortunately, one of the first casualties of business belt tightening, and here at AWOL we have witnessed this first hand.

Because of this, the temptation by many would be to raise prices to compensate for the lost trade, but we are doing the very opposite; over half of our price points have gone down and none have increased, in the hope that more of the businesses out there can at the very least consider placing an advert with us. You can find a few more details about our price reductions on page 9, but by the time this issue hits the streets our updated Media Guide will be available to anyone who wants it either by emailing us on sales@awolonline.net, calling or texting us on 081 649 8361, as well as available to download from our website, www.awolonline.net.

We are also in the process of installing a system on our website allowing advertisers to book and pay for print display adverts online, enabling the use of debit and credit cards as well as bank transfers and cash. We believe that an advert in AWOL pays for itself many times over, and we hope that our lower prices will encourage you to give us a try. And we ask you to speak to some of those who do advertise with us to get their opinion.

A section for all you budding etymologists where each week the origin of a word or phrase is investigated.

This week it is..... The writing is on the wall
Imminent danger has become apparent.

'The writing is on the wall' is also sometimes expressed as 'the handwriting is on the wall' or as 'mene mene'. The first of those variations is an obvious synonym but what does 'mene mene' mean? This is a shortening of 'mene mene tekel upharsin', which is of Aramaic origin. If your Aramaic isn't that strong you can get some guidance from the Bible, Daniel 5, in the story of Belshazzar's feast. To cut a long Old Testament story short, Belshazzar was indulging in a drunken revelry and debasing sacred temple vessels by using them as wine goblets when a disembodied hand wrote 'mene mene tekel upharsin' on the palace wall.

On the face of it, and using a literal translation, this appeared meaningless. The expression seemed to mean 'two minas, a shekel and two parts' or alternatively 'numbered, weighed, divided'. None of this meant much to Belshazzar, who decided that he needed further interpretation and sent for the Jewish exile Daniel. It then became clear that the phrase was an elaborate wordplay, relying on the fact that each word can denote a different coin, and the third word can be interpreted as 'Persia'. Daniel's interpretation, as recorded in the first easily understood English version of the Bible, the King James Version, 1611, was:

And this the writing that was written, MENE, MENE, TEKEL, UPHARSIN. This the interpretation of the thing:

MENE; God hath numbered thy kingdom, and finished it.

TEKEL; Thou art weighed in the balances, and art found wanting.

PERES; Thy kingdom is divided, and given to the Medes and Persians.

The point of the moral tale was that Belshazzar couldn't see the warning that was apparent to others because he was engrossed with his sinning ways.

The subtlety of the biblical wordplay is now somewhat lost on those of us who don't speak ancient Aramaic. Perhaps a flavour of the style can be conveyed by comparing it to the lyrics of the popular World War II novelty song Mairzy Doats:

Mairzy doats and dozy doats and liddle lamzy diveya
A kiddley divey too, wooden shoe?

Literally, that's meaningless but a wartime Daniel could have translated it into its actual meaning:

Mares eat oats and does eat oats and little lambs eat ivy,
A kid'll eat ivy too, wouldn't you?

'Writing on the wall' began to be used figuratively, that is providing warnings where no actual writing or walls are involved, from the early 18th century; for example, Jonathan Swift's Miscellaneous works, 1720:

A baited Banker thus desponds,
From his own Hand foresees his Fall;
They have his Soul who have his Bonds;
'Tis like the Writing on the Wall.

■ GRIM
I looked out my window and saw a guy in a black robe who was trying to clear the frost off his car with a scythe. So I thought I'd go and help.
"Stop," said my wife, grabbing my arm. "You're de-icing with death."

■ CHAT DOWN
I was standing at the bar one night, minding my own business & this fat ugly bird came up behind me, grabbed my arse and said,
"You're kind of cute ,Have you got a phone number?"
I said, "Yes, have you got a pen?"
She said "Yes, I've got a pen."
I said, "You better get back in it before the farmer misses you then."

■ KAFTAN
I bought a big, multi-coloured kaftan.
"It's for my wife," I explained to the assistant.
"Hippy?" she asked.
"Yes," I said, "and stomachy and arsey."

■ DANGEROUS
Labour leadership front runner Jeremy Corbyn is on record as supporting female-only train carriages to protect women from dangerous men on trains.
Using that same logic, I look forward to the day he declares his support for male-only motorways.

■ TOP OF THE POPS
In at number 3) it's Blair.
New at number 2) it's Ritchie.
And a new entry at number 1) we have Messi.

It's the Lionel countdown.

■ BREAKDOWN
Just seen Mike and the Mechanics' tour bus broken down at the side of the road.

Lying gits.

CAPRICORN Dec 22 - Jan 19
You thought a life of safari adventures, epic cookouts, and jungle cats awaited you, but it turns out the local bistro was not in fact advertising for a "lion cook."

AQUARIUS Jan 20 – Feb 18
While the pursuit of true love should be your guiding principle in life, the girl at the coffee shop will melt the eyes out of your head with a well-aimed pot of French Roast Sumatran if you don't stop bothering her.

PISCES Feb 19 – Mar 20
Only minor and mostly cosmetic changes this week.

ARIES Mar 21 - Apr 20
This is a good time to make big moves at work, as you'll show up Monday to find all the furniture's gone and everyone has relocated to a new office somewhere outside Chiang Mai.

TAURUS Apr 21 – May 21
You'll have a desire to strengthen old bonds of friendship, so it's really too bad that everyone who has known you for more than two years hates you.

GEMINI May 22 – June 21
You'll be roundly condemned by members of the Academy of Country Music when, despite their specific instructions, you let your babies grow up to be cowboys.

CANCER Jun 22 – Jul 22
Mercury in retrograde in your sign is a signal that you're about to be run over by some guy backing up his Mercury, which is in turn a sign that the Zodiac is getting just plain lazy.

LEO Jul 23 – Aug 22
While the smiling old woman isn't lying about her award-winning cupcakes, she is withholding crucial information regarding the depraved and sadistic nature of the local cupcake awards.

VIRGO Aug 23 – Sep 22
You'll be devastated but not surprised to learn your life is a cheap remake of that of St. Pilaster of Avens, who died in 1421 in a similar grease fire.

LIBRA Sep 23 – Oct 23
You find yourself unable to comply with simple requests this week, as you lack the internal resources to "be cool," "get down," or "boogie."

SCORPIO Oct 24 – Nov 21
This sign of the Zodiac will be phased out this week and its duties subsumed by other signs. During this time of change, please assume that you will have a torrid romance with a stranger or be hit by a train.

SAGITTARIUS Nov 22 – Dec 21
The stars indicate you will wonder for the rest of your life what would have happened if you had just gone ahead and kissed that girl at the party the other night.

DO YOU LIKE TO COOK?

Is cooking your hobby? Is cooking a passion?
Come and join us in our new
Hua Hin Hobby Cooking Members group

The cooking sessions are once a month. Each member has a chance to host the group in their home and make dinner for them. There are no guidelines as far as what to cook, as long as the meal is homemade and they provide the recipes. Costs are shared and each member brings their own drinks.

My idea was to regularly gather people who have the same passion; cooking. As there are many nationalities it will be exciting to discover new food cultures and to share recipes. A cooking group is also a social event; cooking together is fun and is an opportunity to make new friends. You do not need to be a chef in order to join the group. Whatever your level of cooking is, most important is that you like cooking, are open to new ideas and are prepared to participate regularly at the members' cooking sessions. If you are interested in receiving more information you can email me at sikkens2011@gmail.com

TO HULL AND BACK

MAGS MEANDERINGS: FROM SOM TAM TO MUSHY PEAS

LOCAL HEROES

On September 1st 1651 a very well known character set sail from Hull on what would become his legendary travels. The 18 year old was the son of an eminent Hull solicitor, but he had chosen adventure rather than to follow in his fathers' footsteps. It proved to be an interesting choice, and although Robinson Crusoe was only a fictional character he was still a local lad who was going places, albeit to a desert island.

By contrast Michael Hollingbery was a genuine local lad who really did go places, but, unlike Robinson Crusoe, you have probably never heard of him.

In 1958 Michael inherited the Hull based company which his father had established in 1933. That company would become electrical retail giant Comet.

Founded by Hollingbery senior as a tiny business carrying out repairs to radios, by 1939 the company had expanded to meet the demand for renting 'wireless sets' as they were known, and had a small fleet of vans serving 2,500 customers.

Its growth continued after the war as television became more readily available, and in 1968 Comet opened the countries first radio and TV discount warehouse, and pioneered 'out-of-town' retailing. By the early 2000's Alan Sugar - no stranger to electrical retailing - commented that Comet had 'changed the face of retailing....signalling the demise of the small electrical shop on the street corner, which simply couldn't compete.'

The company continued to be based in Hull, providing employment and training for thousands of local people, and in 2007 Michael was awarded an OBE for services to the community. He died two years later on September 3rd 2009, and unfortunately in 2012 Comet was declared bankrupt.

Perhaps the company always needed a Hollingbery at the helm. More likely the rapid growth in competition from the likes of Argos and Amazon was too much for it, and like Alan Sugars 'small shops on street corners' Comet simply couldn't compete.

Another local outfit which failed to compete in a spectacular way was Hull Kingston Rovers rugby league team. Supporters are still trying to come to terms with their teams' 50 - nil defeat to Leeds Rhinos last week at the Wembley cup final, which for such a rugby focused city was nothing short of a disaster. One relative who was at the match said 'it was 90 minutes of head in hands.'

Still, for those of us who don't really understand the game there is always the more positive thought that there is another Hull rugby league team to fall back on in the shape of Hull FC. Except it doesn't quite work that way, because like the city, the two teams are divided by the river Hull, with one set of supporters in the west, and the other in the east.

At least the most loyal of Rovers supporters braved the bank holiday rain early this week to welcome their team back to its' civic reception. Which is more than can be said for the owner of newly relegated again Hull City. (They are the ones who play with round balls by the way.)

Following the FA's refusal to allow him to change the name of the team to Hull City Tigers, the owner has spit out his dummy and announced that he won't be attending any matches this season. It is fair to say that he isn't being missed.

Word of the week is 'qursh'. A qursh is the unit of currency used in Saudi Arabia, which equates to one twentieth of a Rial.

FEATURED GAME

Sunday 6th September 2015
EUROPEAN CHAMPIONSHIP QUALIFYING
Wales v Israel 23:00 (Grp B)
Depending on results this week, this game could see Wales celebrating qualification to the finals of thier first major tournament since 1958., and ironically when they did so they beat Israel to do so. With games against the two bottom teams to come in October they have insurance, but this is likely to be a memorable occasion.

SUBBUTEO TO SUE LIVERPOOL DEFENCE FOR COPYRIGHT INFRINGEMENT

■ LIVERPOOL

Subbuteo are to sue the entire Liverpool back four for copyright infringement following their performance during their 3-0 home defeat to West Ham.

The game, which turned table tops into something even more boring, was a 1970's smash hit with boys yet to discover masturbation.

A spokesman for Paul Lamond games, who produce Subbuteo said retribution would be swift.

"Having watched the highlights, we were shocked at the similarities between how the Liverpool defence stood around watching the action around them, and how subbuteo players perform," he told us.

"Their complete failure to offer even the most basic of resistance in preventing a goal raised immediate alarm bells with our copyright lawyers."

Left: So alike it's uncanny - Dejan Lovren in action against West Ham and his Subbuteo figurine

"Dejan Lovren, in particular for the 2nd West Ham goal, exhibited all the rigidity and in-game awareness of one of our well-known figurines, and we just felt we had seen enough, and decided to act on our lawyers concerns."

Liverpool manager Brendan Rodgers warned the outfit any litigation would fail as miserably as his training ground methods.

"No-one in their right mind would believe you could acquire shambolic defending and a complete lack of tactics for an estimated outlay of forty quid for a Subbuteo set," he told reporters.

"That doesn't touch the sides."

"You need hundreds of millions of pounds to achieve that level of performance on a consistent basis."

However rumours persisted up to the transfer deadline that Rodgers was looking to bring in the Subbuteo figurine of Emlyn 'Crazy Horse' Hughes to shore up his leaky defence, as he was seen scouting the player in The Entertainer Toy Shop several times since the defeat.
