WORLD IN MOTION

THIRD 'HUA HIN WORLD CUP' TO BE STAGED

HUA HIN, THAILAND

The first weekend in December sees the third instalment of the Red Piano Hua Hin World Cup, following the tournament's success in 2013 and 2014 when Finland beat Sweden in the final. The first event was won by Sweden beating Russia in the final. The six a side football competition will take place over two days, Saturday 5th and Sunday 6th December, at the Football Station on Soi 94 between the hours of 9am and 5pm, with an after party will be held at Urban Fuzion at 7pm.

Teams have not yet been completely confirmed, with some nations still needing players to be able to confirm their participation, but definitely taking part are England, Sweden, Switzerland and Finland, while there may be a combined team from Belgium, France and Holland, depending on numbers for each of those. Ireland and Scotland are also planning on taking part. Team and player registration is still ongoing, so anybody wishing to take part should contact the organisers through the Facebook page at huahinfootballworldcup2015. Some nation's squads are already full but if this is the case for your nationality there may be an international team put together to accommodate you. Each nation can have a squad of ten players (six in the team plus four substitutes).

The organisers are very grateful to a number of sponsors, namely the main sponsor, Red Piano Restaurant and Wine Bar, Brasserie de Paris who are providing free lunches for participants, and VIQUA, the number 1 UV light water filter system company in the world.

Closer to the event we hope to bring you a reminder and an update with the full list of teams along with more detail of the set up. Spectators will be welcome to attend and cheer on their respective representatives in what will be a fun weekend.

A section for all you budding etymologists where each week the origin of a word or phrase is investigated.

This week it is..... The law is an ass

Said of the application of the law that is contrary to common sense.

This proverbial expression is of English origin and the ass being referred to here is the English colloquial name for a donkey, not the American 'ass', which we will leave behind us at this point. Donkeys have a, somewhat unjustified, reputation for obstinance and stupidity that has given us the adjective 'asinine'. It is the stupidly rigid application of the law that this phrase calls into question.

It is easy to find reference works and websites that attribute the phrase to Charles Dickens, who put it into print in Oliver Twist, 1838. When Mr. Bumble, the unhappy spouse of a domineering wife, is told in court that "...the law supposes that your wife acts under your direction", replies:

"If the law supposes that," said Mr. Bumble, squeezing his hat emphatically in both hands, "the law is a ass - a idiot".

In fact, 'the law is an ass' is from a play published by the English dramatist George Chapman in 1654 - Revenge for Honour:

Ere he shall lose an eye for such a trifle... For doing deeds of nature! I'm ashamed. The law is such an ass.

'Published by' doesn't necessarily mean 'written by'. In 1653, Chapman's play was registered, as The Parricide, or, Revenge for Honor, to fellow playwright Henry Glapthorne. Some scholars contend that the play was the work of neither gentlemen and was written around 1620.

Whoever the author was, we can be sure it wasn't Charles Dickens. However, it was Dickens who brought the phrase to the general public. Oliver Twist was an enormous success when it was first published as a serial and has become one of the world's best selling novels.

Is there an English phrase or saying that you would like to know more about?

CAPRICORN Dec 22 - Jan 19
After a solid decade of enduring horrifying and unrelenting psychosexual nightmares, you will finally meet the man of your dreams.

AQUARIUS Jan 20 – Feb 18
You finally win the love and admiration of all American citizens now that it means exactly jack shit.

PISCES Feb 19 – Mar 20
Seriously, if kielbasa on a roll with coleslaw and barbecue sauce isn't the best thing in the entire world, the stars would like to know just what is.

ARIES Mar 21 - Apr 20
No one can argue effectively without the correct set of tools, so make sure you have a hammer in each hand.

TAURUS Apr 21 – May 21
Just take things one day at a time this week, even though you're up against a race of impossibly advanced aliens who can move through time at will.

GEMINI May 22 – June 21
Fire and water magicks are strong in your sign this week, so maybe it's time to consider quitting your job on that offshore oil rig.

CANCER Jun 22 – Jul 22
You will be caught utterly and completely off-guard by next week's events, causing you to wish once again that you had some sort of way to tell the future.

LEO Jul 23 – Aug 22
While it's true you're not the brightest person around, take solace in the fact that you're not going to win any beauty contests, either.

VIRGO Aug 23 – Sep 22
Although at first it seems impossible to believe the zookeeper's story of how you were switched at birth, the fact remains that you're the only giraffe in your office.

LIBRA Sep 23 – Oct 23
This week it will seem you must either tell your secret love about your feelings or die. Next week, of course, you will die.

SCORPIO Oct 24 – Nov 21
Some trouble looms at work next week when first the boss decides to fire half the staff and then those people get mad and decide to murder everybody.

SAGITTARIUS Nov 22 – Dec 21
No real change for your star sign this week, unless you're one of those over-sensitive types who lets it get to them when the White House explodes.

■ INTEGRATION
While waiting to finalise their Australian residental status, two Afghanistani men start chatting. As they part, they agree to meet in a years time and see who has adapted better to the Australian way of life.
True to their word, they meet after the year is up. The first says to the second, "We have integrated so well... yesterday, I ate a meat pie and drank a VB while watching my son play Aussie rules, and we own a Holden VK Commodore."
The second man replies "Bugger off, ya towelhead."

■ THE PROBLEM WITH...
If we're okay with Saudi Arabia's record of beheading, stoning, flogging and crucifixion, what exactly is it that we don't like about ISIS?

■ TRANSPARENCY
Thanks to political correctness, nothing is clear anymore: We live in an age when transparent means someone who is both a mother and a father at the same time.

■ ODD SHAPED BALLS
Little known fact;
There is a play-off for fifth place in the Rugby Word Cup. It is called the Six Nations.

■ SYNDROME
I went to the doctor because my left thumb and index finger were swollen.

"Ah," said the doctor, "that's the CTRL-Z syndrome."

"Oh my God!" I replied. "Is there any way to undo that?"

■ MYSTERIOUS WAYS
When I was a kid I used to pray every night for a new bike. Then I realised that The Lord doesn't work that way, so I stole one and asked him to forgive me.

SHINING A LIGHT

Just when you think you have finally found the ideal internet solution to meet your needs, be it wifi access, download speeds, or the cloud, something else new sneaks over the internet horizon. And that horizon has a bad habit of creeping up much more quickly than you would have believed possible. If in fact you would have believed it possible at all.

Which to me is certainly the case with 'LiFi', possibly the next big thing in internet access. LiFi apparently is a way to use LED light sources to transmit data instead of WiFi zones. Although not perfected yet, time flies, and no doubt it could be available sooner than we think. In some places that is. If you already struggle to find wifi zones, decent speeds or even the home screen in rural areas of Thailand it could be a long wait there for LiFi. First the country would need to totally change its' lighting habits, but can you really imagine Thailand without all those different coloured neon tubes dangling around singing bars, hanging from trees, and illuminating the markets? It just wouldn't be the same.

Still, even if you do wish for better internet provision, spare a thought for the people of Cuba, which is one of the worlds' worst countries for internet access. So much so that their new wifi hotspots are reported to be causing a sensation, even though they aren't free to use. Since July over 35 hotspots have been provided there, with more to follow in the country where, according to UN information, only 3.4 percent of homes have an internet connection. So few that Cubas' one and only undersea fibre optic cable connection - from Venezuela - can cope with demand.

But despite a tempting offer from the States in the form of an exemption to their trade embargo on sales of US telecoms equipment to Cuba, its' government is proceeding with caution as far as the internet is concerned. Afraid that the country would be infiltrated with undesirable American ideology in return for such freebies is a 'big brother' scenario which the government doesn't much care for.

Can you really blame them?

There is no 'on this day' this week. Instead an 'on two days ago' in history. October 21st 1904 was the date on which an incident at sea almost led to war between Britain and Russia.

A Hull fishing fleet of 45 trawlers had cast their nets off the Dogger Bank. It was a dark foggy night, and the crews were all busy when they encountered a fleet of what they thought were British warships. Suddenly the trawlers were flooded by lights from the warships, which immediately opened fire on them. With their nets down the trawlers were unable to escape, and endured a barrage of fire for 20 minutes from what were actually Russian ships.

At that time Russia and Japan were at war with each other, and the Russian ships should never have attacked what was clearly a fishing fleet, its' nets and vessel shapes clearly visible in the glare of lights from the warships.

Just two of the 45 trawlers made it back to Hull, flags flying at half mast, and a major diplomatic incident ensued. Over 100 years later we can still imagine what that feels like.

WHAT A KLOPP OUT

LIVERPOOL FANS DEMAND TO KNOW WHY NEW MANAGER HASN'T TURNED THINGS AROUND YET

■ ENGLAND

LIVERPOOL fans are demanding the dismissal of the man who has now had over 21 days as the club's new manager.

Jurgen Klopp has failed to make Liverpool the most feared club in football despite having had one game and three weeks in the job.

After a dismal goalless draw with struggling Tottenham Hotspurs last Saturday, the fans have been quick to turn on the man who they think is to blame.

Season ticket holder Norman Steele said: "I'm a patient man but Klopp should have restored us to the pinnacle of European football by now.

You have to question his commitment, especially as he has not yet wiped that silly grin off his face. And where are all the big new signings?"

Kevin Backley was equally disappointed, and said, "Spurs are useless and we can't even score a goal against them - how can we possibly expect to win the league now?"

Stephen Malley said: "How much longer are we going to give Klopp? He's done almost nothing so far.

I'm going to set up a Klopp Out Facebook group."
