DOWN IN THE DUMPS

RESIDENTS KICK UP STINK OVER TOWN DUMP

HUA HIN, THAILAND

Compared to many places in Thailand, Hua Hin is kept reasonably clean and litter free, and this is mostly down to the sterling work done every night by the town's refuse collection services. However, as the town has grown, so has the amount of garbage needing disposal of, and this week, residents living near the main town dump blocked the entrance to the 600 rai site in Tambon Tab Tai, demanding that an alternative site be used, and the existing mountain of trash be cleaned up.

The road was blocked by the residents around 2pm on Tuesday, and a four hour standoff was finally broken when Hua Hin municipal officials agreed to stop dumping new trash at the site and allow the Tambon Tab Tai Administrative Organisation and its residents to take part in planning the elimination of the existing pile of garbage.

Chumpon Taklom, president of the Tab Tai TAO, said sub-district council had resolved three months ago that the landfill should be closed. Protesters said they had put up with the stench from the gigantic mountain of trash, as well as other problems, since the dump opened 22 years ago. Many complained that putrid liquid seeps into natural water sources, contaminating their crops, and was worse during rainy periods.

Pailin Kongpan, deputy mayor for Hua Hin municipality, said the city would dump 150 tonnes of its daily waste at a site behind Thanarat Infantry Camp in Pran Buri district, but explained that as this facility was only open during office hours and was located further from the city, this would cause some problems given that the refuse was collected during the night, and may mean some areas would not have their garbage collected as often as now.

CAPRICORN Dec 22 - Jan 19
Curiosity will kill the cat this week, though the microwave, duct tape, and Tupperware container will be mostly to blame.

AQUARIUS Jan 20 – Feb 18
Like a river that has, due to a number of environmental changes, begun to run dry, so too will your life become strained and hard to parse.

PISCES Feb 19 – Mar 20
There's just something about women you find completely irresistible. Probably their reproductive organs.

ARIES Mar 21 - Apr 20
Your life is about to get a whole lot easier. Unfortunately, the same thing can't be said for your live-in nurse.

TAURUS Apr 21 – May 21
Pain will be yours this week when that Man from Nantucket finally hears all the terrible things you've been writing about him.

GEMINI May 22 – June 21
If you had a dollar for every time a gorgeous woman invited you back to her place, you probably wouldn't be saving for that prostitute right about now.

CANCER Jun 22 – Jul 22
The kinds of changes that await you this week can be readily found within the pages of most high school chemistry books.

LEO Jul 23 – Aug 22
You will once again lie to your dentist about brushing three times a day, flossing regularly, and not sleeping with his wife at the nearby motel every other Tuesday.

VIRGO Aug 23 – Sep 22
Humiliation will be yours this week when astronomers discover four large satellites orbiting around you.

LIBRA Sep 23 – Oct 23
Sure, smoking won't make you look cool, but at least it'll give you an excuse for being so incredibly lame.

SCORPIO Oct 24 – Nov 21
You'll put yourself through college by stripping, which wouldn't be so bad if you were doing it for the tuition money rather than the classroom grades.

SAGITTARIUS Nov 22 – Dec 21
An attempt at composing the perfect love sonnet will fail time and again this week when you fall for a girl named Orange.

■ A section for all you budding etymologists where each week the origin of a word or phrase is investigated.

This week it is..... Kangaroo court
An unauthorized, bogus court.

Kangaroo courts are sham legal proceedings which are set-up in order to give the impression of a fair legal process. In fact, they offer no impartial justice as the verdict, invariably to the detriment of the accused, is decided in advance. Such courts are associated with groups who have found a need to dispense a rough and ready form of justice but are, temporarily at least, outside the bounds of formal judicial processes; for example, inmates in jail, soldiers at war, settlers of lands where no jurisdiction has yet been established.

The origin of 'kangaroo court' is unknown, although, given that kangaroos are native nowhere else, we might expect the term to have originated in Australia. As always, a lack of a definite origin encourages speculative claims, which may be an appropriate word in this context as one frequently repeated supposed derivation relates to 'claim jumping' in the California Gold Rush - hence the allusion to kangaroos. That's quite a plausible notion. Kangaroos and their claim to fame, so to speak, that is, jumping, were known in the USA by the early 1800s, so there's no reason to limit the derivation to Australia. Also, the earliest known citation of the term is American and appears in a collection of magazine articles by Philip Paxton (the pen name of Samuel Adams Hammett), which were published in 1853 under the title of A stray Yankee in Texas:

"By a unanimous vote, Judge G-- was elected to the bench and the 'Mestang' or 'Kangaroo Court' regularly organized."

The natural inclination to want to base the phrase in Australia has led to suggestions that the vacant stares of kangaroos when meeting humans for the first time were mimicked by jury members in court. There's no documentary evidence to support this, or any other Australian derivation, and it seems highly speculative.

The claim jumping derivation though has the feel of a 'trying to hard' explanation that is the stamp of folk etymology. The supposed wordplay of linking kangaroos and jumping is appealing but isn't really necessary to explain this phrase. Kangaroo courts were also called 'mustang courts' in the USA (see above). Allusions to the unsophisticated natures of wild animals are frequent in the metaphorical coinage of phrases that apply to things that are considered inferior or ersatz. We have dog Latin, dog's breakfast, horse-faced and many others. It seems probable that the reference to mustangs (half-wild horses) and kangaroos came about by that same route.

Is there an English phrase or saying that you would like to know more about?
Email it to us on submissions@awolonline.net

■ CINDERELLA

Cinderella was now 95 years old.

After a fulfilling life with the now-dead prince, she happily sat upon her rocking chair, watching the world go by from her front porch, with a cat named Bob for companionship.

One sunny afternoon, out of nowhere, appeared the fairy godmother.

Cinderella said, "Fairy Godmother, what are you doing here after all these years?"

The fairy godmother replied, "Cinderella, you have lived an exemplary life since I last saw you. Is there anything for which your heart still yearns?"

Cinderella was taken aback, overjoyed, and after some thoughtful consideration, she uttered her first wish: "The prince was wonderful, but not much of an investor. I'm living hand to mouth on my disability checks, and I wish I were wealthy beyond comprehension."

Instantly her rocking chair turned into solid gold.

Cinderella said, "Ooh, thank you, Fairy Godmother!"

The fairy godmother replied, "It is the least that I can do. What do you want for your second wish?"

Cinderella looked down at her frail body, and said, "I wish I were young and full of the beauty and youth I once had."

At once, her wish became reality, and her beautiful young visage returned - and Cinderella felt stirrings inside her that had been dormant for years.

Then the fairy godmother spoke once more: "You have one more wish; what shall it be?"

Cinderella looked over to the frightened cat in the corner and said, "I wish for you to transform Bob, my old cat, into a kind and handsome young man."

Magically, Bob suddenly underwent so fundamental a change in his biological make-up that, when he stood before her, he was a man so beautiful the likes of him neither she nor the world had ever seen.

The fairy godmother said, "Congratulations, Cinderella, enjoy your new life." With a blazing shock of bright blue electricity, she was gone as suddenly as she appeared.

For a few eerie moments, Bob and Cinderella looked into each other's eyes. Cinderella sat, breathless, gazing at the most beautiful, stunningly perfect man she had ever seen.

Then Bob walked over to Cinderella, who sat transfixed in her rocking chair, and held her close in his young, muscular arms. He leaned in close, blowing her golden hair with his warm breath as he whispered....

"Bet you're sorry now that you cut my nuts off!"

■ MUMBLING MAN

A policeman is walking around on patrol when he spots an older gentleman sitting on a bench outside Vladivostok train station. The man on the bench seems to be muttering intensely to himself. Curious, the policeman walks up to him and asks:

"Good citizen, what are you mumbling about? Has something happened?"

The man looks up, confounded at first, before his eyes orient on the policeman.

"Oh, sorry, good sir officer, I didn't see you there. No, nothing is wrong. I am just very focused. You see, I am old, and at my age, you never know when Death comes knocking. Therefore, I have decided that I shall learn Hebrew, in case I get to heaven."

The policeman nods to himself at the wisdom in this, but while he doesn't want to distress the old gentleman, he can't help but ask:

"But, good citizen, what will you do if you instead end up in hell?"

The old man spreads his hand and shrugs.

"Well, as you hear for yourself, good sir officer, I already speak Russian."

MUGGING US OFF

Today, April 1st, Starbucks begins a two month trial in the UK aimed at reducing the amount of paper cups it uses.

No - this is not an April Fools joke. In fact the mega coffee chain has already been in the habit of giving a 25 pence discount to customers who provide their own cup, but just didn't advertise the fact. Now they will be having a major publicity drive, and increasing the 'own cup' discount to 50 pence.

Obviously this campaign is another step in efforts to reduce landfill waste as, like plastic carrier bags, disposable coffee cups are largely non re-cyclable. It also follows on from the highly successful pricing campaign to reduce carrier bag use in the UK, which began last October. But while we have got used to going equipped with our 'bags for life', it is somehow harder to imagine the Great British Public toting mugs around with them all the time just in case they fancy a frappo to go.

Still, in big cities where hundreds of commuters need their daily pre office fix it could perhaps catch on. Which brings us to another tenuous link with April 1st, this time in 2014, when Red Rum was voted the greatest Grand National horse of all time in a study by Timeform publications.

Red Rum of course holds the record for Grand National wins, and I was there at the first of his three on March 31st 1973. Jostling through the crowd for a close up view of my new hero as he made his way into the winners enclosure I was struck first by how fresh he looked after the race, and second by the alarming amount of broken glass from the bar which was littering the ground.

Later the use of plastic 'glasses' for outdoor drinking in such places became law, and is now applied in any crowd situation or public place for safety reasons. Which despite their good intentions makes you wonder whether Starbucks has really thought things through.

After long debates last months' UK Budget finally imposed a 'sugar tax' on soft drinks, a move which has already incited threats of legal action from one well know manufacturer of the fizzy stuff. True, childhood obesity is a problem, and tooth decay in children is hitting all time highs. But the sugar tax is inevitably seen as just an easy way to make more money.

And strangely, given its' new reputation as a dangerous substance, sugar is still classed as an essential foodstuff for the purpose of Value Added Tax (VAT) and is zero rated. Until that is it becomes part of another food product, such as a Starbucks venti grape hot mulled fruit drink, which contains a stunning 25 teaspoons of the white stuff. Still, at least you could now get 50 pence off it if you moved to the UK.

A couple of weeks ago we looked at the 'QT', or quality tourist. If all goes to plan these QTs will soon be arriving in Thailand from Europe. But if you want to get ahead of the game and fancy a break on Koh Samui the Wowcher online discount site is offering 5 star luxury on the island for just £379 per person all inclusive, an (alleged) reduction of 82% from £2105. If it sounds too good to be true, it probably is.

FEATURED GAME

Saturday 2nd April 2016
PREMIER LEAGUE
Norwich v Newcastle 21:00
A crunch game in the battle to avoid the drop, and a win for Norwich would open a six point gap between them and their opponents. Newcastle really need to win games like this, and Benitez does have the players at his disposal to be able to do so, but not losing is probably going to be his focus. However assuming none of the others in the bottom four win, they can actually lift themselves out of the relegation places if they win by more than two goals, which would be a huge boost. We are picking the Geordie boys to nick the win here, although probably only by the odd goal.

GREAT EXPECTATIONS

ENGLAND FOOTBALL TEAM TO WIN WORLD CUP, CURE CANCER, BRING BACK SPANGLES

ENGLAND

The England football team have been hailed as the greatest men of all-time after their astonishing fight back to beat Germany 3-2 in a friendly last weekend.

"This is the single most impressive achievement in the history of mankind," said 'pundit' Alan Shearer after the game.

"Frankly, the England team right now make Winston Churchill, Mother Teresa and Jesus look like a bunch of layabouts.

"And to be fair, their achievements certainly seem less impressive in the wake of what England managed last night."

Fellow pundit Ian Wright found himself too exhausted to speak after spending the last twelve hours frantically masturbating over Jamie Vardy's back-heel goal.

Expectations are now high for Roy Hodgson's boys, with European & World Cup triumph the bare minimum.

"I'd be disappointed if we didn't dominate football for at least the next century," continued Shearer.

"But that's just the start, I can see this team going on to cure cancer, have a string of Number One singles, bring back Spangles, Texans, and Pacers, evolve wings, colonise Mars, win Ken Bruce's Popmaster, popularise Opera and flawlessly burp the National Anthem with four-part harmonies.

"Or they could just crash out of the Euros on penalties to Portugal."
