CORAL FEAR

RISING SEA TEMPERATURES THREATEN REEFS

HUA HIN, THAILAND

A senior marine biologist at the Department of Marine and Coastal Resources, Nalinee Thongtham, has revealed that coral bleaching has been detected for the first time at Koh Talu and Koh Leum in Prachuap Khiri Khan province, with about 5% of the coral reef, mainly hump corals, affected.

Increased sea temperatures, exceeding 30°C in places, are the cause, and the bleaching will expand if temperatures remain so high. Ms Nalinee said the strong influence of El Nino last year increased the temperature of seawater in the eastern Pacific, and after temperatures dropped there, the mass of warming water moved to the western Pacific, and this has been compounded by the hot summer being experienced now.

Coral bleaching has been seen before in Thailand, in the years 1991, 1995, 2003, 2005, 2007 and 2010, with the most severe being the most recent, when 66.9% of coral reefs in the northern Andaman Sea and 39% in the southern Andaman Sea died from bleaching. A decision will be taken at the end of April as to whether some coral reef sites will need to be closed to aid rehabilitation.

There are 75,590 rai (approx. 121 million square metres) of coral reef in the Gulf of Thailand, of which 5% are considered to be in fertile condition and 73,364 rai (approx. 117 million sq. m) in the Andaman Sea with 6.4% in ideal condition. These numbers are under constant threat, not only from sea temperatures but also from the greater dangers of tourism and fishing related activities.

CAPRICORN Dec 22 - Jan 19
You'll finally find yourself in a relationship that may not end with you asking the other person if they'd like a bag for that.

AQUARIUS Jan 20 – Feb 18
Though your birthday falls into the correct range of dates, the stars say you are not actually an Aquarian. In fact, they are pretty sure you're an asshole.

PISCES Feb 19 – Mar 20
You thought your new sports car could do everything but love you, so its declaration of devotion will come as quite a shock.

ARIES Mar 21 - Apr 20
The stars foretell of a mad prophet rising in the east in the moon's next cycle. They hope this somehow helps you with your life.

TAURUS Apr 21 – May 21
No one will be able to describe your death without using a lot of violent hand gestures, making whooping sounds, and generally doing his or her best "angry chimp" imitation.

GEMINI May 22 – June 21
You have failed in your life's goal, but don't feel too bad: Of all the people who dream of working at a fast food restaurant, only 98 percent actually make it.

CANCER Jun 22 – Jul 22
Don't waste time developing a healthy body image, as your body will look a hell of a lot different starting Thursday.

LEO Jul 23 – Aug 22
Turns out your nightmarish descent into alcoholism and drug abuse will be a lot more fun than expected.

VIRGO Aug 23 – Sep 22
The events of next week will closely mirror all the other events in your life up to that point.

LIBRA Sep 23 – Oct 23
Your natural resourcefulness allows you to enjoy father-daughter day at the zoo, though you are neither a father nor a daughter, and you can't stand animals.

SCORPIO Oct 24 – Nov 21
Do not believe those who tell you they can see your future. They are merely preying upon your ignorant, fearful, superstitious nature.

SAGITTARIUS Nov 22 – Dec 21
Your decision to take up bicycling will cause many in your area to rethink their call for increased bicycle safety.

A section for all you budding etymologists where each week the origin of a word or phrase is investigated.

This week it is..... Blaze a trail
To lead the way.
When soldiers 'blaze away' with their weapons the blaze refers to the fire and smoke. This has been used since the late 18th century, as here from the Battle of Brooklyn, 1776:

"We bid them stand and blazed away like brave boys."

The meaning we now give to 'blaze a trail' - of someone forging ahead and clearing a path for others, would tend to lead towards imagining blaze to mean burn, in the same way. Another allusion might be to someone charging ahead with such vigour that they leave a smouldering trail in their wake.
Those aren't the thoughts in the mind of those that coined this phrase though. A blaze is a notch or mark, like the blaze marks seen on horses' faces. So, 'to blaze a trail' was to mark it out by notching trees so that others could follow. Trees are also often marked this way to single them out for felling.
The use of blaze to mean the chipping off of a small piece of bark to mark a path or boundary is American in origin. That's seen in these early citations.
Dr. Thomas Walker's Journal of Exploration [of Kentucky], 1750:

"I Blazed a way from our House to the River." & "I blazed several trees in the fork and marked T. W. on a Sycamore Tree"

John J. Henry's An accurate account of the hardships of that band of heroes who traversed the wilderness in the campaign against Quebec in 1775:

"A path tolerably distinct, which we made more so by blazing the trees."

The first actual usage of the precise phrase 'blaze a trail' that can be found is from the Montana newspaper The Helena Independent, November 1883:

"The merchants thereupon, desirous of securing the trade of the new mines, offered the stranger $100 if he would blaze a trail through, and afterward it could be cleared sufficiently for pack animals to pass along."

■ THICK SKIN

A married couple was in a terrible accident and the woman's face was severely burned.

The doctor told the husband that they couldn't graft any skin from her body because she was too skinny. So the husband offered to donate some of his own skin.

However, the only skin on his body that the doctor felt was suitable would have to come from his buttocks. The husband and wife agreed that they would tell no one about where the skin came from, and requested that the doctor also honor their secret. After all, this was a very delicate matter.

After the surgery was completed, everyone was astounded at the woman's new beauty. She looked more beautiful than she ever had before! All her friends and relatives just went on and on about her youthful beauty!

One day, she was alone with her husband, and she was overcome with emotion at his sacrifice. She said, "Dear, I just want to thank you for everything you did for me. There is no way I could ever repay you."

"My darling," he replied, "think nothing of it. I get all the thanks I need every time I see your mother kiss you on the cheek."

■ TRIBUTE TO RONNIE CORBETT

1. "French wine growers fear that this year's vintage may be entirely spoiled due to the grape treaders' sit-in."

2. "A cement mixer collided with a prison van on the Kingston by-pass. Motorists are asked to be on the look-out for 16 hardened criminals."

3. "We will be talking to an out-of-work contortionist who says he can no longer make ends meet."

4. "All those who believe in psychokinesis raise my right hand."

5. "A man was marooned on a desert island. One day a beautiful woman arrives in a wet suit. 'When did you last have a smoke?' she asks. 'Five years ago.' So she gets out a cigar and he smokes it. She unzips her wet suit a bit and says, 'When did you last have a drink?' He said, 'Five years ago.' So she gets out a bottle of Scotch and he has a drink. Then she unzips her wet suit a bit more and says, 'And when was the last time you played around?' He looks at her in amazement and says: 'You're not telling me you've got a set of golf clubs in there?'"

6. "It was revealed in a government survey published today that the Prime Minister is doing the work of two men, Laurel and Hardy."

7. "There was a fire at the main Inland Revenue office in London today, but it was put out before any serious good was done."

8. "West Mercia police announced tonight that they wish to interview a man wearing high heels and frilly knickers, but the Chief Constable said they must wear their normal uniforms."

9. "We'll be talking to a car designer who's crossed a Toyota with Quasimodo and come up with the Hatchback of Notre Dame."

10. "A juggernaut of onions has shed its load all over the M1. Motorists are advised to find a hard shoulder to cry on."

■ SCRABBLE

I was playing scrabble with Midge Ure the other day. He left me with 4 tiles.

They meant nothing to me .....O V N R

MODEL MONARCH

Many first time visitors to Thailand could be forgiven for making certain assumptions about the Monarchy. Not least because of a certain 1950's movie, but also because of the reverance in which His Majesty King Bhumibol Adulyadej is held by his people. The images on currency and in pictures, along with those first glimpses of traditional Thai dress, conjure up thoughts of a fairy tale Royal Family who must surely live in the Grand Palace most of the time, much the same as our Queen Elizabeth lives in Buckingham Palace.

And although there are some striking similarities between the two families, in many ways the reality is quite different.

In June this year it will be 70 years since His Majesty acceded to the throne. He is the longest reigning head of state in the world, and by far the longest reigning Thai Monarch.

Born in the US in 1927 His Majesty, like our Queen, grew up happily unaware of his destiny, but unlike the Queen he spent his early years in a fairly modest American home, while his father Prince Mahidol studied medicine and his mother Mom Sangwan became a nurse. Mom Sangwan had been a commoner, who Prince Mahidol had fought against tradition to marry. As with British royalty, marrying a commoner then was frowned upon, but with Thailand there was some good reason. For Siam, as it was, was anxious to retain it's cultural and ethnic identity - what we would now call 'Thainess', and while British royals had a large pool of European royal families to marry into without too much damage, Thai royalty had become, for want of a better word, more 'condensed' over the years. Suitable Royal suitors were becoming scarce.

As it turned out His Majesty's background and upbringing must have stood him in good stead. As well as America, the family also spent time living in Switzerland. His Majesty studied science, then political science, is multi lingual, a gifted artist and musician, and a champion yachtsman. But perhaps most importantly he gained an insight into how people in other countries lived, and when the time came was determined to help raise the standards and prospects of the poorest Thai people.

In doing so his approach was radical for a Thai Monarch. His Majesty travelled to every part of his country, something none of his predecessors had done, and something which often alarmed his security guards. His aim was to provide his people with the opportunities many of them had never had - education, health care, sanitation, agricultural skills, vocational training - enabling them to help themselves. Little wonder His Majesty is held in such respect to this day.

But foreign relations haven't been neglected either. King Bhumibol is said to have done more than any other Thai monarch to raise the profile and popularity of his country abroad during his state visits. He put Thailand on the world map for the right reasons, and could probably teach the British royals a thing or two.

On April 8th 1952, in an attempt to avoid a strike, President Truman ordered the seizure of US steel mills. A situation had arisen because he had imposed wage and price controls on industries considered essential during the Korean War, which of course included steel. This made the Unions very unhappy. Trumans' action was proved to be illegal and the steel workers strike went ahead anyway, getting pretty much what they had wanted in the first place after 53 days. You really have to wonder what Truman would have done with the UK steel industry.

HASH HOUSE HARRIERS - A DRINKING CLUB WITH A RUNNING AND WALKING PROBLEM!

The Cha-Am and Hua Hin Hash House Harrier Clubs meet alternate Saturdays for around an hours run/walk in the countryside followed by a social gathering. If you would like to come along then visit the new single website at http://www.h2h3-cah3.com or Facebook at www.facebook.com/H2H3CAH3 for full details and directions. People attending and participating do so entirely at their own risk.

NEXT RUN Saturday 9th April 2016 @4.30 pm

Cha Am Run # 280

From the bypass, turn west on Chomphol Road, #1010 (same as last week) and go about a kilometer passing a concrete elephant with a big plate stuck on his tusks and a light bulb hanging from the tip of his trunk. Turn right into temple entrance and follow signs, left and then right to the car park. You enter a temple but pass a cattle corral and a multi-bum outhouse before you get to the car park so do not fear being on hallowed ground. Bring your camera, very interesting sculptures on route.

Hares: Ahmedshed & Ballbanger

Please be at the run site in plenty of time to have your hash taxes paid long before the pre-run circle.

Hash Tax: New tax rate for 2016: 50 baht for adults & 25 baht for children 8 - 12. Free runs for the little ones not yet onto the amber nectar and first time Cha Am Hashers

Please make an effort to have correct money.

FIXTURES

The season is over; however there are a number of matches outstanding so the champions are yet to be known.

Kom Hom will be hosting the finals night of the leagues seasonal finals matches next Tuesday 12/4/16.

The first match will be the Ladies singles final starting at 7:30, Oil from Jungle Juice will be playing Thip from Blue Lagoon 1.

The second match will be the final of the Mickey Mouse competition. This match will be between Jungle Juice and Blue Lagoon 1. Both these matches will be best of 5 games.

The final of the handicap doubles has been cancelled as 2 of the 4 players who have qualified are not available to play. It was therefore decided that the other 2 players be declared winners of this competition, so well done to Thip, and to Daniel from Johnny 56.

On completion of these 2 matches the draw will be made for the first round of the Top 16 Competition, taking place the following Tuesday.

The first 4 matches drawn will be held in Jungle Juice, the second 4 in Johnny 56 starting at 7:30. All matches at this stage will be best of 5. On completion of the first round, would all players then please proceed to Johnny 56 where the competition will be concluded.

FEATURED GAME

Thursday 14th April 2016
FA CUP - SIXTH ROUND REPLAY
West Ham v Man Utd 01:00
The last ever FA Cup tie to be played at the Boleyn Ground sees a fitting opponents to grace the occasion, in the form of one of the most successful club sides ever in the modern era. By a strange quirk of rearranged fixtures, they will also be the last ever league opponents as well. However they are not the force they were, while their traditional whipping boys, West Ham, are undergoing a transformation under Slaven Bilic. The Hammers were unlucky not to win the tie at Old Trafford as there appeared to be a foul on goalkeeper Randolph when the Red Devils equalised, so we expect that and the meaning of the occasion to produce a rip roaring performance from the home side to take them to a semi final clash with Everton.

SHIRT LIFTERS

WEARERS OF REPLICA FOOTBALL SHIRTS MAGICALLY ACQUIRE STRENGTHS OF TEAM

■ ENGLAND

WEARING a replica football shirt magically gives you the strengths and weaknesses of the team in question, scientists have discovered.

Experiments on fans found that Chelsea shirts make their wearers arrogant but usually successful, Arsenal shirts make their wearers cerebral but ultimately ineffectual, and wearers of Millwall shirts are amazingly gifted at fighting.

Professor Henry Brubaker, of the Institute for Studies, said: "Initially, we only sought to find out why men thought they could go down the pub wearing a shiny Christmas paper shirt prominently displaying the logo of a Far Eastern bookmakers.

"But, astonishingly, we discovered that the shirts somehow bestow the qualities of their team on their wearers.

Left: The Aston Villa replica kit as worn by their squad at the beginning of the season, some of whom no longer wear it, while the rest clearly don't want to

"Manchester City shirts make you incredibly talented but prone to blame your boss for any shortcomings, West Ham shirts give the wearer speed, flair and crippling nostalgia issues, and if you put on a Newcastle United shirt within moments you're a total mess.

'Wearing a Norwich City shirt gave us some of the most bizarre findings, as immediately our research wearers put them on, it was as if they had been made invisible.

"Unfortunately we've been unable to confirm the effect of wearing an Aston Villa shirt, because we've not been able to find a test subject willing to put one on."
