MONKEY TOWN

WILD MONKEYS BECOMING A PEST TO LOCALS AND TOURISTS

● HUA HIN

The monkeys inhabiting the area around Wat Khao Takiab were the focus of attention at the end of last week, as their numbers have grown to an alarming estimate of around three thousand, which has consequently caused more related problems, from aggressive behaviour towards people as the monkeys search for food, to damage to property and power outages caused as they climb on and damage cables.

This is not the only area affected by 'armies' of monkeys either, but it is certainly the most prominent as it is visited by many domestic and foreign tourists, and the Mayor of Hua Hin, Noppaporn Wuthikun, visited the area to inspect the problem, and see what could be done about it.

While no solutions have yet been proposed by the Mayor's office, it seems clear that some efforts must be made to both reduce and control the population, probably by a combination of sterilisation and removal of some of the animals, as well as making greater efforts to dissuade the feeding of the animals, which has unfortunately become part of some local traders business. The monkeys of Khao Takiab have become a tourist attraction in their own right, so to remove all of them may not be the right strategy, although from a health perspective of both the monkeys and the humans staying in or visiting the area it is probably the correct thing to do.

Whether there are any suitable facilities to rehome the monkeys is another aspect, as many of them may not survive in the wild, having been accustomed to being fed regularly, but there is an animal sanctuary between Hua Hin and Cha Am that may be the right place. We have to hope that the Mayor is able to come up with a plan that suits everybody, including the monkeys.

● A section for all you budding etymologists where each week the origin of a word or phrase is investigated.

THIS WEEK IT IS....COME CLEAN

To make a full disclosure; to confess.

'Come clean' originated in the USA in either the late 19th or early 20th century. The earliest example found of it in print is from the Moberly Evening Democrat, August 1904:

"Now, then Chillicothe papers - Constitution, Democrat, Tribune - come clean. Tell the truth."

The unnamed journalist who wrote that must have liked the phrase, as it appears several times in the same paper from around that time and before it is found elsewhere. It's possible that the phrase was coined in Moberly, but that's just conjecture. 'Come' is clearly just a shortening of 'become'; 'clean' means 'not sullied by untruth', as in the earlier phrases 'make a clean breast of it' and 'keep one's hands clean'.

YOUR STARS

CAPRICORN DEC 22 - JAN 19

In a complete reversal of conventional wisdom, you'll find that you do in fact have to be crazy to work at your job, and that no, it doesn't help.

AQUARIUS JAN 20 – FEB 18

No one knows what mysteries lie deep in the human heart, but you figure they're just not rinsing it enough or using a bright enough flashlight.

PISCES FEB 19 – MAR 20

You've always been a never-say-die type of person. Luckily, your impending death will be so obvious that words will be unnecessary.

ARIES MAR 21 - APR 20

To be truly human is to never give up; however, to be truly human is also to know the meaning of sacrifice. It's some deep shit, really.

TAURUS APR 21 – MAY 21

Financial success continues to elude you as you have yet to determine the best way to advertise your enjoyable and affordable mustache rides.

GEMINI MAY 22 – JUNE 21

An error in last week's horoscope has probably resulted in you having a chance midnight encounter with a tall dark strangler. The stars regret any inconvenience.

CANCER JUN 22 – JUL 22

Will you have the inner strength to deny a love that is no good for you? Do you have the courage to retry a project you've failed at before? Find out in next week's horoscopes!

LEO JUL 23 – AUG 22

When all's been said and all's been done and you finally look back on the entirety of your life, it will be about three PM next Wednesday.

VIRGO AUG 23 – SEP 22

Although it's true that the only tool you have is a hammer, everything you see looks a lot more like a sort of medium-sized box than a nail.

LIBRA SEP 23 – OCT 23

You've never been able to explain why, but you have a sneaking suspicion that the narrator of 10cc's 1975 hit "I'm Not In Love" was in fact in love.

SCORPIO OCT 24 – NOV 21

You'll manage to get through the entire Helen Keller presentation with no hilarious slip-ups, but afterwards you'll be complimented by a guy with no arms and no legs who likes to waterski.

SAGITTARIUS NOV 22 – DEC 21

Sometimes you miss your days as part of a plucky band of mystery-solving teens, but hey, survivor guilt is like that.

SUDOKU

Each week we have an easy and a hard Sudoku puzzle. Just fill in the empty squares so that each horizontal and vertical line, and each section, has all the numbers 1 to 9.

Got some great jokes?
Send them to us on submissions@awolonline.net

● ACCIDENT
I've just fallen through the roof of a French bakery...
I'm in a world of pain.

● HARD WORK
I saw a man with a trolley full of horseshoes and rabbits' feet earlier, trying to get it up a hill. I thought, "He's pushing his luck."

● SILICONE
My missus's P.I.P breast implant ruptured and started leaking A1 grade silicone.
So I told her to get her nipple pierced and since then, she's managed to seal the bathroom, shower and toilet.

● SEX EXCHANGE
I was offered sex today, with a Victoria Secrets model; in exchange I was supposed to advertise some kind of bathroom cleaner. Of course I declined because I am a person of high moral standards with strong will power.
Just as strong as Ajax, the super strong bathroom cleaner, now available in scented lemon or vanilla.

● CORSET
1st Man in gym:"How long have you been wearing that corset."
2nd Man: "Ever since me wife found it in the back of the car."

● JARGON
What is Jargon?
It's what people in Somerset do for exercise

● RACIST
A racist walks into a crowded bar. He looks around and sees a black man sitting in a corner.
The racist walks up to the bar, turns around and announces, 'I'm going to buy everyone in this bar a free drink, except for that black guy over there!' Everybody is clapping and cheering for the racist and when he buys the last pint, the black man turns around, puts his thumb up and says, 'Thanks mate!'
The racist is slightly puzzled by his reaction but doesn't pay too much attention to it.
The next night, the racist goes into the same bar and again, there is a black guy sitting in the corner, so the man, again, goes to the bar, turns around and says, 'I'm going to buy everyone here a free drink, except for that black guy over there!' The patrons are all ecstatic and are hugging and cheering the racist for his generosity.
When he buys the last pint, the black guy turns around, puts his thumb up and says, 'Thanks mate!'
The racist scratches his head and asks the barman, 'Why is that black guy thanking me when he's the only person I'm not buying drinks for?'
'Well' the barman responds, 'he owns this place.'

● ON THE TIP OF YOUR TONGUE

On June 16th 1858 Abraham Lincoln declared 'A house divided against itself cannot stand'. That's quite enough about of the state of the British government for the moment. On to more serious things, and those tricks which are supposed to help people remember things. It comes to us all eventually. The brain cells slow down, often threatening to go on strike altogether, but younger people can often have difficulty remembering some things as well. Like peoples' names, or where the car keys have hidden themselves. In fact it is said that our memories begin to go AWOL at around the age of 45, leaving a potential 50 odd years spent searching for the car keys.

The problem is so widespread that 'brain training' has become a big business. But are the methods used by Memory Trainers just fancy ways to boost their income? Take those annoying coded locks for example. A memory trainer will commonly recommend forming images in your mind to represent each number from zero to nine. So for example a football becomes a zero, a swan is a two, a pair of handcuffs a three. (You probably prefer handcuffs to be an eight but bear with.... each to their own.) Then all you have to do when faced with that lock, or need to use an ATM, is conjure up those images and hey presto, job done. Similar picture associations in your head are also supposed to help remember what you went in Tesco for, or the date of a friends' birthday.

Sorry but I'm not convinced. There is nothing difficult about making a shopping list, or keeping important dates in a diary/phone/computer. As for key codes, surely it's simpler to remember the key press sequence? After a while that becomes such a habit there is no need to even remember the numbers, let alone what images represent them. Like touch typing, your fingers just know where to go. And as for your own mobile phone number - repetition does work. How many of you were subject to the joys of learning Latin declensions at school? I bet those who did can still rattle off quite a few of them decades later without a football or a swan in sight. Job done.

Now for an item of news which surfaced last month; a gay French couple had planned to marry when one of them, a gendarme, was killed in the line of duty. A sad event that could happen to anyone, and would normally result in a cancelled wedding. But not in France, where the remaining partner was granted permission for a posthumous marriage.

It wasn't just a politically correct statement. France is a world leader in posthumous marriages, having allowed them since around the time of World War One to enable the fiancees of soldiers killed in the war to marry their dear departed, and in 1950 the French government set legal guidelines for the practice. These require the remaining partner to get the approval of the President and Justice Minister for a marriage by proxy, by providing evidence of the prior intent to marry, as well as proof that their partners' death was unexpected (which would seem to suggest that the newly wed may gain entitlement to their late spouse's pension.)

The marriage vows do have to be tweaked a bit, and the newly wed will of course have to make do with kissing a photo. But two questions remain for you to ponder over your Chang - who do they have the first dance with? And more importantly can they get a posthumous divorce as well?

FOOTBALL GOSSIP

Arsenal manager Arsene Wenger is working on potential deals for three France internationals as he prepares for some major departures. Monaco's 18-year-old striker Kylian Mbappe, his 21-year-old team-mate Thomas Lemar and Lyon forward Alexandre Lacazette are all targets. (Telegraph)

Lyon president has said the Gunners can have 26-year-old Lacazette if they sell them France striker Olivier Giroud in a player-plus-cash deal worth £60m. (Le10Sport, via Sun)

West Ham are also planning a move for 30-year-old Giroud, who has said he will not be happy with limited playing time next season. (London Evening Standard)

Everton's signing of Sunderland's England Under-21 goalkeeper Jordan Pickford, 23, will kick off £150m of summer spending at Goodison Park. (Mirror)

Toffees boss Ronald Koeman is targeting Ajax and Netherlands midfielder Davy Klaassen, 24, Swansea's 27-year-old Iceland playmaker Gylfi Sigurdsson and Burnley and England centre-back Michael Keane, 24. (Daily Express)

Manchester United's England defender Chris Smalling will be sold this summer, with West Ham, West Brom and Everton interested in the 27-year-old. (Telegraph)

Manchester City are hopeful Alexis Sanchez will not sign a contract extension at Arsenal, paving the way for the 28-year-old Chile forward to make a £50m move to Etihad Stadium. (Manchester Evening News)

Leicester have offered £16.5m for Hull defender Harry Maguire, with the 24-year-old valued at £20m. (Daily Mail)

Newcastle want to sign 34-year-old Napoli goalkeeper Pepe Reina who is, according to his agent, keen on a return to the Premier League. (Newcastle Chronicle)

Swansea City have offered French striker Bafetimbi Gomis, 31, to Turkish side Istanbul Basaksehir in exchange for 33-year-old Togo forward Emmanuel Adebayor. (Beinsport, via Wales Online)

Manchester City are ready to reduce their £16m asking price for 29-year-old France midfielder Samir Nasri because of a lack of interest.(Sun)

VOTE OF CONFIDENCE

ENGLAND U-20 CUP WINNING SQUAD ASKED TO FORM GOVERNMENT

● UK

Given the unholy choice between the Coalition of Chaos and a Band of Bigots, and the terrifying prospect of the political resurrection of Michael Gove, the Palace has taken the unprecedented approach of dissolving Parliament (again) and asking the England U-20 cup-winning squad to form the next government.

Whilst lacking an elected mandate, the Palace has been impressed with the cohesion, coherence and commitment shown by the team throughout the campaign, with both major party political leaders being urged to 'watch and learn'. The Palace has also expressed the delight at having a youthful, athletic and popular government, whilst admitting that Dominic Calvert-Lewin is 'a bit of a hottie'.

Professor David Judge from the University of Studies looked into the constitutional aspects of the move for AWOL, and says, "From a legal standpoint, the Palace can do what they want, when they want, safe in the knowledge that the vast majority of the British public will either have no clue or be fully supportive of the move."

The Palace has also indicated that the senior squad will be asked to mastermind the upcoming EU negotiations, based on their successful Brexit campaigns of 2016, 2012, 2008 …
