GOLF FESTIVAL SWINGING INTO ACTION IN AUGUST AND SEPTEMBER

● HUA HIN

The 16th annual Hua Hin and Cha Am Golf Festival tees off in less than two weeks at nine of the courses in the area, and running through the months of August and September. Started in 2001, the event has become a major attraction for golfers worldwide, keen to get the chance to try out some of the best courses in Thailand at bargain prices.

The nine courses involved are Banyan Golf Resort & Spa, Black Mountain Golf, The Imperial Lake View Golf Club & Resort, Kaeng Krachan Country Club and Resort, Majestic Creek Golf Club & Resort, Palm Hills Golf Resort, Royal Hua Hin, Sea Pine Army Golf Course and Springfield Village Golf & Spa. The green fees will range from 1,000 baht up to 1,800 baht for the duration of the festival, except for the tournament days, which are rotating around all the courses across nine Sundays; the fees on these days will be 1600 baht, except for Banyan and Black Mountain, which will be 2,400 baht.

The opening ceremony and tournament match will actually take place on Sunday 30th July at the Royal Hua Hin, followed by Lake View on 6th August, a blank Sunday on 13th August, Kaeng Krachan on 20th, Black Mountain on the 27th, Palm Hills on 3rd September, Sea Pine on the 10th, Majestic Creek on the 17th, Banyan on the 24th and the closing ceremony and match at Springfield on the 1st October. There will also be a Lucky Draw for those participating with a top prize of gold weighing 5 baht, which will be drawn on the final day.

● A section for all you budding etymologists where each week the origin of a word or phrase is investigated.

THIS WEEK IT IS....HORSE FEATHERS

Rubbish, nonsense.

This term, which was originally the single word horsefeathers, but is now also widely written as two words, is of American origin and its use is largely restricted to the USA. Those of us from other parts of the world will know the term from the Marx Brothers' 1932 film Horse Feathers, in which Professor Quincy Adams Wagstaff (Groucho Marx) is unwisely appointed as the president of Huxley College.

Horsefeathers, which is said by J. E. Lighter's Historical Dictionary of American Slang to be a euphemism for horse-shit, is reported as being coined by the comic-strip artist and writer, William Morgan "Billy" de Beck. The authoritative journal 'American Speech' printed this in their December 1928 issue:

"Mr. William De Beck, the comic-strip comedian responsible for 'Barney Google,' assumes credit for the first actual use of the word horsefeathers".

Billy de Beck was the author of the popular cartoon Barney Google, which frequently featured dialogues with a horse - his sidekick Spark Plug. He also created a short cartoon film called Horsefeathers, which appeared in US cinemas in 1928.

The term began life in the late 1920s. At that time the American etymologist Leonard Zwilling published an annotated dictionary of the work of the cartoonist T. A. Dorgan (a.k.a. TAD) - A TAD Lexicon. In part 46 of that work, published in 1927, we have the first citation of horsefeathers in print:

"The cashier's department - Bah - Horsefeathers. He wouldn't give you a ticket to see Halley's Comet."

Both Dorgan and de Beck used jocular language and are credited with new coinages; for example, gate-crasher (Dorgan) and heebie-jeebies (de Beck). Either could plausibly have coined horsefeathers. It seems likely to have been brought to the public via the popular media as it appears many times in print soon after 1927, which indicates a rapid and widespread take-up that isn't common for phrases that spread by word of mouth.

YOUR STARS

CAPRICORN DEC 22 - JAN 19

Love magick is strong in Taurus this week, leading those lucky enough to be born under that sign far, far away from you.

AQUARIUS JAN 20 – FEB 18

Your death will be painful, but it will give a notorious femme fatale a chance to say, "I'm afraid I've always had a rather…sharp tongue."

PISCES FEB 19 – MAR 20

Your life will soon lose all direction, which considering how it has been going, should come as a vast relief.

ARIES MAR 21 - APR 20

Venus is in retrograde in your sign this week, which you'd think would mean problems in your love life but actually indicates imminent botulism. Interesting, isn't it?

TAURUS APR 21 – MAY 21

Avoid making decisions based on ambiguous advice from questionable sources this week, even if she was in labour with you for 38 hours.

GEMINI MAY 22 – JUNE 21

Change will come to your neighbourhood when you annoy an air traffic controller who knows your home address the same day his ex boards a 747 to Maui.

CANCER JUN 22 – JUL 22

You've never been the sort of person who lets all kinds of supposed "signs" tell you how you should drive your car.

LEO JUL 23 – AUG 22

You're starting to think that maybe the funny nose and glasses won't actually be enough to hide you when Jesus returns in all his glory.

VIRGO AUG 23 – SEP 22

Sometimes it feels as if your life's long, empty hours are all beginning to blur together, but take heart. There really aren't very many left.

LIBRA SEP 23 – OCT 23

Although the doctors want to do all they can to help ease your recovery, they cannot legally allow you to make a cool chair out of your severed limbs.

SCORPIO OCT 24 – NOV 21

Scorpio is a water sign, with all that implies, but this week it will be much more important for you to pay attention to Fire Exit signs.

SAGITTARIUS NOV 22 – DEC 21

You'll continue to be baffled by people who expect you to be their friend and call them just because you have previously said the words "We're friends" and "I'll call you."

● DR WHO
So the new Doctor Who is a woman.

Bet she'll keep bringing up the past.

● DR WHO 2
A woman Dr Who is well overdue.

That Tardis floor has not been mopped for over 50 years.

● DR WHO 3
It will be the end of the Daleks forever if they attack at the wrong time of the month now.

● DR WHO 4
Insurance premiums for the Tardis have gone through the roof.

● DEFINITION OF SEX
50% of people believe sex is "the connecting of two people's souls through two people's bodies, as one." The other 50% are men.

● CHINESE PROVERB
"When the pupil is ready, the teacher will come."
Great Chinese proverb. Horrible defense in court.

● A NEW CONCEPTION
A young married couple has difficulties conceiving a baby, so after a while the wife consults her doctor, who recommends the minor of three possible operations.
The operation is performed, but a month later, she's still not pregnant, so she goes to see the doctor again. This time he recommends the medium operation, a somewhat more serious operation, but still not as complicated as the third alternative. But, there's still no result, and another month later she's back in the doctors office, and this time she gets the big one.
After having recovered in some weeks, the couple resumes normal marital activities, and this time they actually succeed in conceiving a baby.
Filled with joy, the young wife now sees the doctor for the regular examination during pregnancy and says, "We're so happy doctor, we're finally having a baby. But what was this third operation actually all about? The first two weren't that bad, but this last one I think must have been quite a job, I was dizzy for weeks after."
"Well," the doctor replies, "since the first two standard operations failed, we started suspecting your method rather than your ability, so I made a connection from your throat to your uterus."

● YOU'VE BEEN SCHOOLED!

It's that time of the year again. When Alice Coopers' pension pot gets its' annual boost of royalties from the constant playing of 'School's Out', dress shops make a killing, and limousine hire is fully booked. Yes - it's the end of the school year here in the UK. An event now celebrated in style - at least for those pupils who can't wait to turn their backs on it.

But it can also be a scary time. Many of my fellow pupils way back when went straight from school to work at 16, often because of financial pressures at home. It was literally a case of leaving school on a Friday and starting work two days later, with all the 'grown up' stuff that entailed. It would have been good to have a 'Prom' to celebrate our change of direction into a new life, if only our parents could have afforded it! Now of course parents must thank Buddha for credit cards.

It isn't just the school leavers who need that splash of cash though. A whole industry has grown around the need for all school children to take a gift for their form teachers before each summer holiday, as a token of their thanks for putting up with them for a whole year. Which of course teachers do deserve, even if the tokens of thanks are instigated more by parents than by their offspring.

So the dilemma of what to buy for teacher is one usually faced by parents. Alcohol maybe doesn't give quite the right impression, even though it might be the one thing teachers need. Flowers? Does 'Miss' have a house big enough for 30 bouquets? OK then - chocolates. Enough to provide her with five boxes a week for the entire holiday. And what if 'Miss' is a 'Sir'?

One Hull Dad, wanting to avoid the potential hazards of flowers and chocs, decided to buy the latest novel for his little boy to give his (female) teacher, only to be greeted with 'A BOOK! What's she going to do with THAT! Yes - silly Daddy should have got a Kindle download instead. Or even better one of the appropriately packaged small garden plants on sale from a national retailer, one of the new ways to fill that sales gap between garden furniture and Halloween costumes.

Not that the distinction between seasonal sales bothers some retailers too much. One supplier of faux Christmas trees has just announced their 'Christmas in July' event - but back to books. On July 21st 2007 the final book in the Harry Potter series, Harry Potter and the Deathly Hallows, went on sale world wide, breaking all book sales records for its' author J K Rowling. Is it really only 10 years? Harry Potter seems to have been around forever. Like Doctor Who, except that he really has been around forever, and is finally having a sex change.

Change is afoot in Bangkok as well, with the announcement that by 2021 all power cables in the city will be underground. I'm sure the Governor of the Metropolitan Electricity Authority means well, but has he really considered the logistics? He might want to take a look at Hulls' efforts to be ready for this years City of Culture. Our regular reader will know that despite four years notice of the event there is still some work in progress here, in a city centre that would fit into Nana Plaza. Well - a slight exaggeration - Lumpini Park. On the plus side the MEA will try to liaise with the telephone company to bury their cables at the same time. A sensible plan, just don't hold your breath, and spare a thought for all those people in Bangkok who will suddenly be deprived of their dodgy power supplies.

MATCH REPORT SUPHANBURI B FC 3 – 2 HUA HIN CITY FC

Before we departed Hua Hin, I think even though the most optimistic of us were not expecting too much from a high flying Suphanburi, who are currently 7 points clear at the top of the league. However, we knew our team were getting stronger with each match, and they would give 110% regardless of the result. We are not the best team in the league yet, so that is all we can ask.

When we arrived at a very hot, beautiful Suphanburi Provincial Stadium, we were greeted with the news that because it was an International weekend, the Suphanburi A team did not have a match, so they would be fielding 8 of their first team squad. Personally, with promotion out of the question for this season, I saw this as a great chance to see our side play competitive football against one of Thailand's top sides.

We could see from the pre-match warm up that we were not playing against the young kids who had featured in the 2 previous matches this season.

The first half started, and I was wondering what the t1 hype was all about. Hua Hin were matching Suphanburi in every quarter. Suphanburi broke the deadlock with a penalty. It was an unfortunate foul, and a well converted goal – no complaints.

Not long after, Amos broke through the Suphanburi defence, and equalised with a well-positioned shot. This was encouraging, because our centre-forward did this 2 more times as the game progressed against a top notch defence. He scored one more, and hit the crossbar with the third.

The Amos equaliser unfortunately woke Suphanburi up. The t1 professionals just knocked the game up a couple of gears and scored a couple of beautiful goals. Their second was just magic. Their No.20 seemed to have the ball glued to his boot as he turned a couple of times inside the Hua Hin penalty area. Surely one of the prettiest goals in the league this season.

Hua Hin came out for the 2nd half with their heads high, despite being 2 goals in arrears. I think they outplayed the t1 opposition. When Amos snatched his second, the difference this time was Suphanburi couldn't turn it up a gear. Hua Hin were in the ascendancy, and were unlucky not to share the points. League position is not so important for the rest of this season, although we will improve. The players will have learned an awful lot from this game, and we should thank Suphanburi for the opportunity, although I doubt they see it the same way – at least 4 of their stars picked up yellow cards. A moral victory.

KYLE WALKER GIVES UP PROMISING FOOTBALL CAREER TO BECOME PROFESSIONAL BENCH-WARMER AT MAN CITY

● UK

Promising England defender Kyle Walker has elected to abandon his career for several years to play occasionally for Manchester City's reserve team.

"Being hoovered up by a massive club in order to loll about in the reserves is an important part of every young English player's career," said Walker as the deal was completed.

"I've decided to plump for Man City because it's not very far away and the benches look really, really comfy."

"Also I get an all expenses paid holiday to Dubai at least once a year."

"I'm looking forward to getting on with this next stage in my career."

Above: Kyle Walker gives the thumbs up to his new club's treatment table

It is understood that Walker will play two or three times for the first team in obscure cup games, then spend a few months in the reserves before receiving an injury that will see him sidelined for several years, and then, after a few months on the bench for the reserve team, he'll join Brighton or West Brom and claim that 'he's looking forward to getting on with this next stage in my career'.

Manchester City were nearly convincingly enthusiastic about the move.

"We look forward to welcoming whichever young exciting talent we've bought this week to the club and we are sure he will thrive in whatever endeavour he is being brought in to do," said a spokesperson for the club.
